

Ian Price

Ian Price founded Grimsdyke Consulting to consult to leaders in the effective use of communications technology and the avoidance of information overload. He was recently invited on to Incisive Media's expert panel to launch their 3-day web summit on Information Overload. His career of twenty-plus years includes senior corporate roles in the telecoms and e-commerce industries along with leading a number of start-ups as chief executive. Most recently he was founding CEO of AIM-listed mobile technology start-up, Broca plc. Ian graduated from Magdalen College, Oxford with a degree in English Lit. and he has recently returned to academia to pursue a Masters in Organisational Behaviour at Birkbeck College, London. His book "The Activity Illusion" will be published in late 2010.

Professional Expertise/Services

Ian has over 20 years in the telecoms industry and his professional experience ranges includes strategy consulting, senior roles in a large corporate and as CEO in technology start-ups. He has augmented his leadership and management expertise with a masters degree in Organisational Behaviour.

Recent Assignments - Examples below

- Leadership programme with Global Head of Talent of large UK public sector organization
- Leadership programme with UK health trust
- Programme with top UK coaching organization on information overload
- Leadership training programme with top UK business school MBA cohort
-

Education and Professional Affiliations

- MSc in Organisational Behaviour, Birkbeck College, University of London (to be awarded December 2010)
- BA in English Literature, Magdalen College, Oxford

Contact Information

Grimsdyke Consulting Ltd
98 Rowlands Avenue
Pinner
Middx HA5 4AP
United Kingdom

tel. +44 (0)7919 600846
email: ian.price@grimsdykeconsulting.com web-site: www.grimsdykeconsulting.com