

Index

• A •

- AAA (Association of Authors' Agents), 203–204
- About-ness, 62–63
- accents, 121–123
- Achilles story, 52, 53–55
- acknowledgement of receipt when submitting your manuscript, not expecting, 209
- action, 152–153
- addressing submission letter, 210–211
- advances, 231, 239
- advantages over other authors. See strategies to give yourself an advantage over other authors
- agency procedure for handling submissions, 215
- agents
- approaching, 204–207
 - Association of Authors' Agents (AAA), 203–204
 - choosing, 205, 218–219
 - client agreements, 219
 - communicating with, 218
 - editorial feedback by, 219
 - experience of, 218–219
 - finding, 203–204
 - goals shared with your agent, 222
 - larger agencies, 202
 - multiple agents, approaching, 206
 - negotiations, 230–231
 - overview, 200–201
 - recommendations on, asking for, 205
 - rejection letters, 216–217
 - rejections, staying with your agent despite, 246
 - resubmitting work to, 247
 - role in market for your novel, 194
 - size of agency, 218
 - smaller agencies, 201–202
 - tips from published authors on, 275
 - unsolicited submissions, sending, 206
 - Web sites for, 204
 - working with your, 222
 - The Writers and Artists Yearbook* (A&C Black), 204
 - The Writers Handbook* (Macmillan), 204
- alcoholic, story about an, 48
- All Quiet on the Western Front* (Remarque), 139
- antagonist. See also characters, protagonist
- fair chance for winning for the, 96
 - forgetting to give virtues to your, 265
 - overview, 84
- anthology rights, 232
- anticlimax, be prepared for feeling of, 277
- anything down on paper, writing to get, 31–32
- apostrophes, when to use, 173–174
- Appleby, Steven (1066 & All That), 84
- approaching agents, 204–207
- archetypes, using, 26–28
- Aristotle (Golden Mean), 23
- Aspects of the Novel* (Forster), 50
- Association of Authors' Agents (AAA), 203–204
- auctions, 227
- audiobook rights, 232

Austen, Jane (Pride and Prejudice)

dialogue in, 126

first sentence in, 73

overview, 269–270

sub-plots in, 150

tension in, 80

themes in, 59

Author, Author (Lodge), 72

author blurbs, soliciting, 249

authors

fun of reading, 19

reading other, 18–19

responsibilities of the author in publishing contracts, 236–237

saving time and effort by using published works to solve problems, 19

as teachers, 18–19

avoidance strategy, planning your novel as, 23–24

• B •

background, in submission letter revealing your, 212–213

background information, using what you know as, 259–260

back-story for characters, 87–90, 92–93

Banks, Iain (The Wasp Factory), 225

Barker, Pat (Regeneration), 172

basic stories. See seven basic stories

Basch, Reva (Researching Online For Dummies), 25

Bates, Mary Ellen (Researching Online For Dummies), 25

beginning of story

first paragraph, 68–69

hook, 70–74

knowing what readers look for, 69–70

overview, 67–68

structuring the story, 67–74

Bennett, Alan (author), 117, 118, 126

best possible shape, getting book in, 222

big abnormal characters, 100–101

big normal characters, 99–100

The Big Sleep (Chandler), 271

boilerplate contracts, 236

book deals, tips from published authors on, 276

booksellers' role in market for your novel, 194

bookselling chains, 195

breaking the rules, 177

Bridget Jones's Diary (Fielding), 51

Brief Encounter (Coward), 53

brokering rights, 188

Bronte, Charlotte (Jane Eyre), 149

Brown, Dan (The Da Vinci Code), 270

building your characters, 85–90

Burgess, Anthony (Earthly Powers), 73

Burns, Robert (poet), 87

business of publishing, 190–191

business side of being an author

advances, 239

earning your advance, 239

publishing contracts, reviewing, 235–237

royalties, 238, 239–242

stress of being published, reasons for, 243

two-book deals, 242

unpredictability of publishing, 239–242

• C •

Cain and Abel archetype, 28

calculations

high discount sales, 241

reserve against returns, 241

royalties, 241–242

subsidiary rights sales, 241

Campbell, Joseph

The Hero with a Thousand Faces, 41

The Hero's Journey, 28

- care about, writing characters that readers, 95–98
- Catch 22* (Heller), 271
- Chandler, Raymond
 as author, 268
 The Big Sleep, 271
- character revealed with dialogue, 116, 123–127
- characteristics of location, keeping list of, 29
- characters. See also protagonist, antagonist antagonist, 84, 96, 265
 assumptions about, 103
 back-story for, 87–90, 92–93
 big abnormal characters, 100–101
 big normal characters, 99–100
 building your, 85–90
 care about, writing characters that readers, 95–98
 defining characteristics, 101–102
 editing, 168–169
 fair fight needed for readers to care
 about, 95–96
 friends as, using your, 86–87 humanity, connection through common, 100–101
 larger-than-life characters, 99–100
 minor characters, 108
 motivating, 93–95
 multiple characteristics, 102
 naming your, 90–92
 overview, 83
 questions for your, 87–90
 stereotypes, 103
 yourself as model for protagonist, 85–86
- Chekhov, Anton (playwright), 149
- choosing agents, 205, 218–219
- Christie, Agatha (author), 41
- Cinderella story, 52, 55
- circumstances, conflict in, 137–138
- client agreements, 219
- climax, 74, 78
- closing the deal advance, 231
 anthology rights, 232
 audiobook rights, 232
 earning your advance, 232, 239
 export sales, 233
 Grant of Rights, 231
 licences, 231
 negotiations, 230–231
 quotation rights, 232
 rights in your novel, 231–232
 royalties, 231
 serialisation rights, 232
 subsidiary rights, 232
 Territory of Rights, 231
 translation rights, 232
 UK and Commonwealth rights, 233
 US rights, 232
- Cohen, Leonard (poet), 162
- coincidence, 151
- Cold Mountain* (Frazier), 53
- colons, using, 175
- commas, when to use, 174
- commercial fiction, 224–226
- commercially successful novels, what constitutes, 191–192
- commissioning process
 one-on-one meeting with editor, 228
 overview, 226–228
 publisher, meeting with a, 228–230
 run costings, 228
 several personnel at once, meeting with, 229
- communicating with agents, 218
- competition in publishing market, 13
- confidence in your manuscript, not sending out anything if you don't have complete, 187

- conflict
 - in circumstances, 137–138
 - creating, 133–135
 - disagreeing with other people, 136
 - with enemies, 136
 - example of, 135
 - exercise for writing, 140–141
 - with family, 136
 - internal conflict, 138–140
 - obstacles, 134–135
 - overview, 131–133
 - problem, forgetting to focus on the, 266
 - situations of, 138–140
 - sources of, 136–140
 - wanting with intensity, 133–134
 - consumers' role in market for your novel, 194–195
 - continue writing even when the story isn't going well, 156
 - contracts
 - author, responsibilities of the, 236–237
 - boilerplate contracts, 236
 - overview, 235–236
 - publisher, responsibilities of the, 237
 - reviewing, 235–237
 - contrast in story, 51, 67, 75–76
 - control of market for your novel,
 - determining who has, 193–195
 - conveying information efficiently by using dialogue, 115
 - Cook, Peter (comedian), 278
 - Coward, Noel (Brief Encounter), 53
 - Craig, William (Enemy at the Gates), 139
 - creativity
 - continue writing even when the story isn't going well, 156
 - every idea, writing down, 156
 - “I remember,” writing, 162–163
 - methods for jumpstarting your, 36
 - overview, 155
 - speed pages, writing, 160–162
 - visualisation, 157–159
 - writing, exercises for, 159–163
 - crossover novel, 11
 - culmination, 78
- D •
- The Da Vinci Code* (Brown), 270
 - dashes used for dialogue, 129
 - The Day of the Jackal* (Forsyth), 259
 - deadlines, honouring, 14
 - defining characteristics, 101–102
 - defining market for your novel, 192–193
 - denouement, 74
 - describing your book
 - in submission letter, 212
 - while writing keeping in mind description of your book, 262
 - detail
 - singling out one, 72
 - using too much, 266
 - dialogue
 - accents, 121–123
 - character revealed with, 116, 123–127
 - conveying information efficiently by using, 115
 - dashes used for, 129
 - between enemies, 125
 - examples of, 126
 - fractured and incomplete, most real conversations are, 119–121
 - guidelines for writing, 120–121
 - how people speak to each other, awareness of, 118–119
 - idioms, using, 122
 - layout for, 128–129
 - between lovers, 125
 - overheard dialog, using, 117–118
 - overview, 115–116
 - phonetically writing, 121–122
 - power in relationships revealed by, 128

- presenting, 116–117
- quotes used in, 128–129
- regional speech, 121–123
- relationships revealed with, 125–127
- social register revealed in, 127
- speech patterns, using, 122–123
- speeding things up by using, 115
- tags used in, 129–130
- tone used in, 127
- traditional style for, 128
- Dickens, Charles (The Pickwick Papers), 122
- differentiating the characters, 91
- diminished, reasons your royalties may be, 240–241
- The Dirty Dozen* (film), 90
- disagreeing with other people, 136
- distinctive ideas, 26
- distractions to writing, 30–31
- diving-in to your writing
 - new-character fix, 23
 - planning your novel compared, 22–23
- double-spaced, single-sided, numbered pages, using, 209
- Dracula* (Stoker), 27
- Dumas, Alexandre (Martin Guerre), 53
- E ●
- early drafts, saving, 35
- earning your advance, 232, 239
- Earthly Powers* (Burgess), 73
- editing
 - characters, 168–169
 - final draft, 180–181
 - grammar, 172–175
 - location, 170–171
 - multiple edits, 167
 - names of characters, 168
 - notebook for, 168
 - number of drafts needed for, 166–167
 - outline chain, 171–172
 - overview, 166
 - pen for, 167
 - personality of characters, 169
 - physical details of characters, 169
 - place, establishing, 170–171
 - printing your manuscript, 167
 - professionalism in, 176
 - by publishers, 188
 - relationships, 169
 - scenery, 171
 - scenes, 170
 - single edit, 167
 - spellchecks, 172
 - tools for, 167–168
 - weather, 171
- editor, listening to your, 276
- editorial feedback by agents, 219
- Electricity* (Robinson), 177
- Elizabeth* (film), 42–43
- enemies
 - conflict with, 136
 - dialogue between, 125
 - overview, 112–113
- Enemy at the Gates* (Craig), 139
- English Grammar For Dummies* (Ward & Woods), 175
- The English Patient* (Ondaatje), 225
- enjoy what you do, 278
- essentials of your novel
 - main characters, 146
 - minor characters, 146–147
 - plotting essentials, 145–146
- Eternal Triangle story, 52, 56
- every character, not naming, 92
- every idea, writing down, 156
- example
 - of conflict, 135
 - of dialogue, 126
 - of layering, 148
 - of outline chain, 172

example (continued)

- of reaction, 153
- of showing, not telling, 258
- of speed pages, writing, 161
- of sub-plots, 150
- of visualisation, 159

excitement about your idea, importance of, 25

exercises for writing

- conflict, 140–141
- overview, 159–163

experience of agents, 218–219

explaining your concept

- high-concept pitch, 65
- overview, 64–65
- special, knowing what makes your novel, 66

export sales

- effecting royalties, 240
- overview, 233

exposition, 74

external threat, 63

● F ● fair fight needed for readers to care about characters, 95–96 family

- conflict with, 136
- relationships, 109–111
- used for research, 24

feedback

- overview, 178
- showing your draft to everyone, 178–179
- showing your draft to no one, 179
- submission letter, asking for feedback in, 213
- using, 180
- who to show your draft to, 179–180

Fielding, Helen (Bridget Jones's Diary), 51

films

- The Dirty Dozen*, 90
- Elizabeth*, 42–43
- The Lord of the Rings*, 42–43
- Pulp Fiction*, 126
- Silkwood*, 43
- Star Wars*, 42–43
- The Straight Story*, 56

final draft, 180–181

finding agents, 203–204

first paragraph

- hook in, 73–74
- overview, 68–69

first sentence hook, 73

first three chapters sent when submitting your manuscript, 208

Fitzgerald, F. Scott (The Great Gatsby), 101

flattery in submission letter, use of, 211

flexible, being, 277

following submission guidelines, 208–210

foreshadowing, 149

Forster, EM (Aspects of the Novel), 50

Forsyth, Frederick (The Day of the Jackal), 259

fractured and incomplete, most real conversations are, 119–121

Frankenstein (Shelley), 27

Frazier, Charles (Cold Mountain), 53

friends

- as characters, 86–87
- used for research, 24

Fuentes, Carlos (The Old Gringo), 71

fun of reading, 19

● G ●

gadgets used by protagonist, 98

Gandhi, hero as, 46–47

goals shared with your agent, 222

Golden Mean (Aristotle), 23

Goldwyn, Samuel (film producer), 67 Gone With The Wind (Mitchell), 91
 grammar
 apostrophes, when to use, 173–174
 colons, using, 175
 commas, when to use, 174
 editing, 172–175
 overview, 173
 punctuation for dialogue, 174
 semicolons, using, 175
 spelling, 175
 Grant of Rights, 231
 graph of action, 78–79
 graph of complication, 78–79
 graph of difficulty, 78–79
 graphs used in structuring the story, 78–79
The Great Gatsby (Fitzgerald), 101
 guidelines for submission letter, 210–214 for writing dialogue, 120–121

• H •

Heller, Joseph (Catch 22), 271 help solving problems in your book, 267–268
 helpers
 hinderers behaving as, 107–108
 overview, 106
 the hero who does almost nothing, 47–48
The Hero with a Thousand Faces (Campbell), 41 heroes hero as Gandhi, 46–47 hero as John Wayne, 46 hero as parent, 46
 the hero who does almost nothing, 47–48
 overview, 45
 unexpected hero, 47
 heroic type, not having protagonist as, 46

hero's journey
 examples of, 42–45
 overview, 39–41
 stages of the journey, 41–45
 types of heroes, 45–48
The Hero's Journey (Campbell), 28
 high discount sales
 calculating, 241
 effecting royalties, 240–241
High Fidelity (Hornby), 59, 271
 high-concept pitch, 65
 hinderers
 helpers behaving as, 107–108 need for, 107–108
 overview, 106–107
 Hitchcock, Alfred, 261–262
 Holy Grail story, 52, 56
 hook
 beginning of story, 70–74
 detail, singling out one, 72 first paragraph hook, 73–74
 first sentence hook, 73
 importance of a, 261–262
 omitting select information, 70–71
 overview, 70
 placing your, 72–74
 quirky, beginning with, 71–72
 withholding detail, 72
 Hornby, Nick (High Fidelity), 59, 271 humanity, connection through common, 100–101
 humour
 in submission letter, avoiding, 212 use of, 260

• I •

“I remember,” writing, 162–163
 ideas
 finding, 25–26
 system for keeping track of your, 34–35

idioms, using, 122
 imprints, 189–190
 Independent Publishers Guild, 250 independent publishers, submitting your book directly to, 250
 initial concept, 26
An Instance at the Fingerpost (Pears), 273
 internal conflict, 138–140
 internal importance, 63
 Internet used for research, 25
 ISBN (International Standard Book
 Number), obtaining, 250, 252 Ishiguro, Kazuo (The Remains of the Day), 60

• J •

James Bond novels, 53, 77
 James, Henry (author), 72
Jane Eyre (Bronte), 149 Jerome, Jerome K. (Three Men in a Boat), 60
 jobs performed by publishers, 188
 John Wayne, hero as, 46
 journal, keeping a writer's, 257
Julian (Vidal), 274
 Jung, Carl (Memories, Dreams, Reflections), 28

• K •

keep writing, 262–263
 King, Stephen
 as author, 261–262
 The Stand, 272
 knowing what readers look for, 69–70
 Kyi, Aung San Suu (Nobel Peace Prize winner), 47

• L •

larger agencies, 202
 larger-than-life characters, 99–100
 layering, 147–149
 layout, 176–177
 layout for dialogue, 128–129 le Carre, John (author), 259 lead titles, 194
 legal rights
 anthology rights, 232
 audiobook rights, 232
 Grant of Rights, 231
 quotation rights, 232
 serialisation rights, 232
 subsidiary rights, 232
 Territory of Rights, 231
 translation rights, 232
 UK and Commonwealth rights, 233
 US rights, 232
 length of submission letter, 210 libraries used for research, 24
 licences, 231
Life of Pi (Martel), 161
 light and shade, providing, 75–76
 list of seven basic stories, 52 literary agency. See agents literary consultancies, 247
 literary fiction, 225–226
 little-known details, what you know revealed as, 259–260
 location
 characteristics of location, keeping list of, 29
 editing, 170–171
 scenery, 171
 setting your, 28–29
 weather, 171
 Lodge, David (Author, Author), 72
The Lord of the Rings (film), 42–43

The Lord of the Rings (Tolkien), 27, 40, 53
lovers

dialogue between, 125
overview, 111–112

● M ●

Macmillan New Writing, 249

main characters as essential aspect of your novel, 146

Mandela, Nelson (former President of South Africa), 46

market for your novel

agents' role in, 194

booksellers' role in, 194

consumers' role in, 194–195

control of, determining who is in, 193–195 defining, 192–193

overview, 192

publishers' role in, 194

marketing and distributing by publishers, 188

Martel, Yann (Life of Pi), 161

Martin Guerre (Dumas), 53

mass-production of submission letter, 211

matter, 63

meaning in names, 91

mechanics of bookselling

bookselling chains, 195

Net Book Agreement (NBA), 195

online retailers, 195

overview, 195

pricing, 196–197

recommended retail price (RRP), 195

where books are sold, 195–196

Meek, James (The People's Act of Love), 72

Melville, Herman (Moby Dick), 53

Memories, Dreams, Reflections (Jung), 28

minor characters

as essential aspect of your novel, 146–147

overview, 108

The Minotaur takes a Cigarette Break (Sherrill), 71

misspellings in submission letter, 211

mistakes made by writers

antagonist, forgetting to give virtues to your, 265

detail, using too much, 266

help solving problems in your book, not looking for, 267–268

neglecting the reader, 266

not varying speed, volume, tone, 267

nowhere to go, letting a story have, 268

passive voice, using, 267

problem, forgetting to focus on the, 266

protagonist, forgetting to give flaws to
your, 265

story that matters, not writing, 268

Mitchell, Margaret (Gone With The Wind), 91

Moby Dick (Melville), 53

motivation

of characters, 93–95

in story, 51

for writing, 10

multiple agents, approaching, 206

multiple characteristics, 102

multiple edits, 167

● N ●

names of characters

differentiating the characters, 91

editing, 168

every character, not naming, 92

meaning in names, 91

overview, 90–91

time, placing names in, 92

narrative, 50–51

neglecting the reader, 266

negotiations, 230–231

Nemesis story, 52, 56–57

Net Book Agreement (NBA), 195
 new-character fix, 23
 news agencies used for research, 24
 Nielsen BookData, 13
 Niffenegger, Audrey (The Time Traveller's Wife), 11 1984 (Orwell), 73
 notebook for editing, 168
 notes, saving, 35
 novels writers should read
 The Big Sleep (Chandler), 271
 Catch 22 (Heller), 271
 The Da Vinci Code (Brown), 270
 An Instance at the Fingerpost (Pears), 273
 High Fidelity (Hornby), 271
 Julian (Vidal), 274
 Pride and Prejudice (Austen), 269–270
 The Secret History (Tartt), 273
 The Stand (King), 272
 We Need To Talk About Kevin (Shriver), 273
 nowhere to go, letting a story have, 268
 number of drafts needed for editing, 166–167

• 0 •

obstacles
 in conflict, 134–135
 facing protagonist, 97–98
The Old Gringo (Fuentes), 71 omitting select information as hook, 70–71
On The Beach (Shute), 68
 Ondaatje, Michael (The English Patient), 225
 one-on-one meeting with editor, 228
 online retailers, 195
 originality in stories, 57–58, 261 Orwell, George (1984), 73
 outline chain, 171–172
 overheard dialog, using, 117–118

• p • pacing, 67, 76–77

 parent, hero as, 46
 passive voice, using, 267
 past writings that were well-received, 16
 Pears, Iain (An Instance at the Fingerpost), 273 pen for editing, 167
 people who work in publishing, 189
The People's Act of Love (Meek), 72
Perfume (Susskind), 41
 person publisher wants you to be, 229
 person you want publisher to be, 229–230
 personal strengths determining your strength as a writer, 17
 personality of characters, 169
 phonetically writing dialogue, 121–122
 physical details of characters, 169
The Pickwick Papers (Dickens), 122
 place, establishing, 170–171
 placing your hook, 72–74
 plagiarism, 58
 plan for submitting your novel to publishers, developing a, 224 planning your novel advantages of, 22
 archetypes, using, 26–28
 as avoidance strategy, 23–24
 diving-in to your writing compared, 22–23 location, setting your, 28–29
 overview, 21–23
 plot basics, 25–26
 research, 24–25
 plot
 distinctive ideas, 26
 as essential aspect of your novel, 145–146
 excitement about your idea, importance of, 25
 ideas, finding, 25–26
 initial concept, 26

- overview, 25–26, 50
- simple ideas, 25
- story compared, 50
- synopsis, composing your, 214–215
- polite, importance of being, 13
- post, submitting your manuscript by, 208
- power in relationships revealed by
 - dialogue, 128
- practicing writing, 33
- pre-emptive offers, 227
- premise, 61–62
- preparing your manuscript for submission
 - agent, working with your, 222
 - best possible shape, getting book in, 222
 - overview, 221
 - title, choosing, 223
- presentation
 - of manuscript, 176–177
 - of submission letter, 211
- presenting dialogue, 116–117
- pricing, 196–197
- Pride and Prejudice* (Austen)
 - dialogue in, 126
 - first sentence in, 73
 - overview, 269–270
 - sub-plots in, 150
 - tension in, 80
 - themes in, 59
- printing your manuscript, 167
- print-on-demand publishers, 251
- problem, forgetting to focus on the, 266
- process of writing, enjoying, 34
- professionalism in editing, 176
- progress of story, following, 77–78
- proofs, 236
- protagonist. See also antagonist, characters
 - forgetting to give flaws to your, 265
 - having real problems, 97–98
 - heroic type, not having protagonist as, 46
 - obstacles facing, 97–98
 - overview, 84
 - as real person, 97
 - relationship to, 100
 - use of gadgets by, 98
- publicity
 - helping publicise your book, 277
 - for self-published books, 252
- publishers
 - brokering rights, 188
 - business of publishing, 190–191
 - commercially successful novels, what
 - constitutes, 191–192
 - editing by, 188
 - imprints, 189–190
 - independent publishers, submitting your
 - book directly to, 250
 - jobs performed by, 188
 - marketing and distributing by, 188
 - meeting with, 228–230
 - negotiations, 230–231
 - one-on-one meeting with editor, 228
 - overview, 188
 - people who work in publishing, 189
 - person publisher wants you to be, 229
 - person you want publisher to be, 229–230
 - responsibilities of the, 237
 - role in market for your novel, 194
 - several personnel at once, meeting with,
 - 229
 - submitting to, 223–226
 - submitting your book to publishers
 - directly, 249–250
- publishing contracts
 - author, responsibilities of the, 236–237
 - boilerplate contracts, 236
 - overview, 235–236
 - publisher, responsibilities of the, 237
 - reviewing, 235–237
- publishing market
 - competition in, 13
 - deadlines, honouring, 14
 - overview, 12

publishing market (continued)
 polite, importance of being, 13
 realistic view of, 12 Pulp Fiction (film), 126
 punctuation for dialogue, 174

• Q •

questions, don't be afraid to ask, 277
 questions for your characters, 87–90
 quirky, beginning with, 71–72
 quotation rights, 232
 quotes used in dialogue, 128–129

• R • reaction, 152–153

 reader, knowing your, 10–11 reading
 other authors, 18–19
 writing what you like, 16, 260
 real person, protagonist as, 97
 real problems, protagonist having, 97–98 realism, using what you know as, 260 realistic, being, 276 realistic view of publishing market, 12 recommendations on agents, asking for, 205
 recommended retail price (RRP), 195
Regeneration (Barker), 172
 regional speech, 121–123
 rejection letters, 216–217
 not anticipating rejection in your submission letter, 212
 reasons for, 246–247 staying with you agent despite, 246
 relationships
 editing, 169
 enemies, 112–113
 family relationships, 109–111

helpers, 106–108
 hinderers, 106–108
 lovers, 111–112
 with minor characters, 108
 overview, 105–106
 revealed with dialogue, 125–127
 relevance in story, 51
The Remains of the Day (Ishiguro), 60
 Remarque, Erich Maria (All Quiet on the Western Front), 139 remind yourself you are an author, 278
 research
 friends and relatives used for, 24 Internet used for, 25 libraries used for, 24 news agencies used for, 24
 overview, 24–25
Researching Online For Dummies (Basch & Bates), 25
 reserve against returns
 calculating, 241
 effecting royalties, 240, 241
 resubmitting work to agents, 247 reviewing publishing contracts, 235–237 rewards while writing, using, 32 rewriting, 11–12
 Robinson, Ray (Electricity), 177
Romeo and Juliet (Shakespeare), 53
 Romeo and Juliet story, 52, 56
 royalties
 calculating, 241–242
 diminished, reasons your royalties may be, 240–241
 exports effecting, 240
 high discount sales effecting, 240, 241 reserve against returns effecting, 240, 241 subsidiary rights sales effecting, 240, 241
 unpredictability of calculating, 239–242
 RRP (recommended retail price), 195
 run costings, 228

• S •

- sae (self-addressed envelope), including when submitting your manuscript, 209
 salutation in submission letter, 211 saving time and effort by using published works to solve problems, 19
 scenery, 171
 scenes
 editing, 170
 rating, 79–80
The Secret History (Tartt), 273
 self-addressed envelope (sae), including when submitting your manuscript, 209
 self-appraisal, 10
 self-publishing
 ISBN (International Standard Book
 Number), obtaining, 250, 252
 overview, 250–251
 print-on-demand publishers, 251
 publicity for self-published books, 252
 vanity publishing, 251
 on your own, 252
 Sellar, WC (1066 & All That), 84
 semicolons, using, 175
 senses, using all the, 261
 serialisation rights, 232
 seven basic stories
 Achilles story, 52, 53–55
 Cinderella story, 52, 55
 Eternal Triangle story, 52, 56
 Holy Grail story, 52, 56
 list of, 52
 Nemesis story, 52, 56–57
 overview, 51–53
 Romeo and Juliet story, 52, 56
 Triumph of Good over Evil story, 52, 57
 several personnel at once, meeting with,
 229
 Shakespeare, William (Romeo and Juliet), 53
 Shelley, Mary (Frankenstein), 27 Sherrill, Stephen (The Minotaur takes a Cigarette Break), 71
 short stories, publishing, 249
 showing, not telling, 258, 258–259
 showing your draft to everyone, 178–179
 showing your draft to no one, 179
 Shriver, Lionel (We Need To Talk About Kevin), 60, 273
 Shute, Neville (On The Beach), 68
Silkwood (film), 43
 simple ideas, 25
 single edit, 167
 situations of conflict, 138–140
 size of agency, 218
 smaller agencies, 201–202
 social register revealed in dialogue, 127 Society of Authors, 236, 251, 252 sources of conflict, 136–140
 speak to each other, awareness of how people, 118–119
 special, knowing what makes your
 novel, 66
 speech patterns, using, 122–123
 speed pages, writing, 160–162
 speed, volume, tone, mistake of not varying, 267
 speeding things up by using dialogue, 115
 spellchecks, 172, 175
 stages of the journey, 41–45
The Stand (King), 272
Star Wars (film), 42–43
 start writing, 31–32
 starting again, tips from published authors on, 278
 stereotypes, 103
 Stoker, Bram (Dracula), 27 story contrast in, 51 motivation in, 51
 narrative compared, 50–51

- story (continued)
 - originality of your, 57–58
 - plagiarism, 58
 - plot compared, 50
 - relevance in, 51
 - seven basic stories, 51–57
- story that matters, not writing, 268
- The Straight Story* (film), 56
- strategies to give yourself an advantage
 - over other authors
 - author blurbs, soliciting, 249
 - overview, 247
 - short stories, publishing, 249
 - subscribing to writers' magazines, 248
 - writing competitions, entering, 248
 - writing prizes, winning, 248
- stress of being published, reasons for, 243
- structuring the story
 - beginning of story, 67–74
 - climax, 74, 78
 - contrast, 67, 75–76
 - culmination, 78
 - denouement, 74
 - exposition, 74
 - graph of action, 78–79
 - graph of complication, 78–79
 - graph of difficulty, 78–79
 - graphs, plotting, 78–79
 - light and shade, providing, 75–76
 - overview, 67
 - pacing, 67, 76–77
 - progress of story, following, 77–78
 - scenes, rating, 79–80
 - three-act structure, building a, 74–75
 - variety, 75–76
- struggle. See conflict
- style, 20
- subjects you know a lot about, writing
 - about, 16
- submission letter
 - addressing, 210–211
 - background, revealing your, 212–213
 - describing your book in, 212
 - feedback, asking for, 213
 - flattery, use of, 211
 - guidelines for, 210–214
 - humor, avoiding, 212
 - length of, 210
 - mass-production of, 211
 - misspellings in, 211
 - overview, 210
 - presentation of, 211
 - rejection, not anticipating, 212
 - salutation, 211
 - writing experience, revealing your, 213
- submission list, creating a, 226
- submitting to publishers
 - auctions, 227
 - commercial fiction, 224–226
 - directly submitting to publishers, 249–250
 - literary fiction, 225–226
 - overview, 223–224
 - plan for, developing a, 224
 - pre-emptive offers, 227
 - submission list, creating a, 226
- submitting your manuscript. See also
 - preparing your manuscript for submission
 - acknowledgment of receipt, not expecting, 209
 - agency procedure for handling submissions, 215
 - double-spaced, single-sided, numbered pages, using, 209
 - first three chapters, sending, 208
 - following submission guidelines, 208–210
 - overview, 207
 - plot synopsis, sending full, 209
 - post, submitting by, 208
 - self-addressed envelope (sae), including, 209
 - synopsis, composing your, 214–215
 - unfinished novels, submitting, 216
 - writing a submission letter, 210–214

sub-plots, 150–151
 subscribing to writers' magazines, 248
 subsidiary rights, 232
 subsidiary rights sales
 calculating, 241
 effecting royalties, 240, 241
 Susskind, Patrick (Perfume), 41

● T ●

tags used in dialogue, 129–130 talent
 overview, 15
 technique combined with, 17–18
 topic, using your talent to find a, 16–17
 Tarantino, Quentin (Pulp Fiction), 126 targeting your reader, 10–11 targets for writing, setting, 32
 Tartt, Donna (The Secret History), 273 teachers, authors as, 18–19 technique
 overview, 16
 talent combined with, 17–18
1066 & All That (Appleby, Sellar, & Yeatman), 84
 Territory of Rights, 231
 themes, 59–60
Three Men in a Boat (Jerome), 60
 three-act structure, building a, 74–75
 time, placing names in, 92
The Time Traveller's Wife (Niffenegger), 11
 tips for writers
 description of your book, keeping in mind the, 262 hook, importance of a, 261–262 humour, use of, 260
 journal, keeping a writer's, 257
 keep writing, 262–263
 originality in stories, 261
 read, write what you like to, 16, 260
 senses, using all the, 261
 showing, not telling, 258–259
 what you know, writing about, 259–260

tips from published authors agent, getting an, 275
 anticlimax, be prepared for feeling of, 277
 be flexible, 277
 on book deals, 276
 editor, listening to your, 276
 enjoy what you do, 278
 help publicise your book, 277
 questions, don't be afraid to ask, 277
 realistic, be, 276
 remind yourself you are an author, 278
 starting again, 278
 title, choosing, 223
 Tolkien, JRR (The Lord of the Rings), 27, 40 tone mistake of not varying, 267 used in dialogue, 127
 tools for editing, 167–168
 topic, using your talent to find a, 16–17
 traditional style for dialogue, 128
 translation rights, 232
 Trevor, William (author), 260
 Triumph of Good over Evil story, 52, 57
 two-book deals, 242

● U ●

UK and Commonwealth rights, 233
 unexpected hero, 47
 unfinished novels, submitting, 216
 unpredictability of calculating royalties, 239–242
 unpredictability of publishing, 239–242
 unsolicited submissions, sending, 206
 untraditional methods with an agent, 246
 overview, 245
 on your own, 246–247
 US rights, 232
 using feedback, 180

• V •

vanity publishing, 251
 variety in structuring the story, 75–76
 Vidal, Gore (Julian), 274
 visualisation, 157–159
 Vogler, Christopher (The Writer's Journey), 39
 volume, mistake of not varying, 267

• W • wanting with intensity, 133–134

 Ward, Lesley (English Grammar For Dummies), 175
The Wasp Factory (Banks), 225
We Need To Talk About Kevin (Shriver), 60, 273
 weather, 171
 Web sites for agents, 204
 what you know, writing about, 259–260
 where books are sold, 195–196
 who to show your draft to for feedback, 179–180 withholding detail as hook, 72
 Wodehouse, PG (author), 63
 Woods, Geraldine (English Grammar For Dummies), 175
 workspace for writing, 30
The Writers and Artists Yearbook (A&C Black), 204, 248, 250

The Writers Handbook (Macmillan), 204
The Writer's Journey (Vogler), 39 writing creativity, methods for jumpstarting your, 36
 distractions to, 30–31
 to get anything down on paper, 31–32 ideas, system for keeping track of your, 34–35
 overview, 29
 practice, 33
 process of writing, enjoying, 34
 rewards, using, 32
 start writing, 31–32
 a submission letter, 210–214 targets, setting, 32
 workspace for, 30
 writing competitions, entering, 248
 writing experience, revealing in your submission letter, 213 writing for a living, myths about, 186–187
 writing prizes, winning, 248
 writing what you like, 16

• Y •

Yeatman, RJ (1066 & All That), 84
 yourself as model for protagonist, 85–86

