

---

Index

---

Note: Page numbers in italics refer to tables and figures

- accelerator model, financial constraints, 418, 419
- acquisitions, exploration-exploitation balance, 201, 204, 205
- advertising
  - competitors response to new product entry, 89, 99
  - expenditure over product life cycle, 66, 76–7
  - role in product diffusion, 67, 68, 78–9
- age of firm see firm age
- alliances
  - in biotechnology industry, 204, 206, 353–60
  - facilitating knowledge transfer, 313
  - and standardization, 284–5
- analytic hierarchy process (AHP), 221
- appropriability of innovation
  - investments, 335–6
  - endogenous mechanisms, 340
  - role in firm strategy, 336–40
  - strategies to increase gains, 345–9
- architecture of products, 155, 156
- articulated needs of customers, 126–7
- asymmetric information problems, R&D investment, 413
- attributes of products, 119, 133, 155
- automotive crash safety, problem-solving processes, 157–8
- autonomy
  - professional need for, 246
  - task dimension, 250, 252
  - strategic and operational, 254, 256
- balancing exploration and exploitation, 197–8
  - integrative framework, 208, 209–10
  - rival interpretations of balance, 198–9
    - sequential approach, 200–2, 203–4
    - simultaneous approach, 204, 205–6, 206–7
- ‘bandwagon effects’, unsponsored standards wars, 276–7
- basic cost-benefit models, 217–18
- Bass model, 61–2, 98
  - extensions of, 62–3, 72, 73, 79, 80, 81, 95
  - international setting, 68–9, 79–82

- marketing mix variables, 67–8, 78–9
- methodological issues, 70, 82
- Bauhaus movement, design, 145–6, 166
- Bayh-Dole Act (1980), 321–2
- beta testing, 160
- Betamax-VHS, VCR standards war, 269, 274, 277, 278, 283
- biotechnology industry, 353–5
  - future research on alliances and collaboration, 360–1
  - individual collaborations, 356–8
  - interviews with scientists, 358–9
  - strategic alliances, 355–6, 357–8
- brand introduction see new product entry
- breaking up work/division of labor, 178
- bureaucracy
  - and coercive control, 186
  - and organizational rigidity, 183, 184
  - and segmentalism, 179
  - and structure, 173–4
- capital structure and R&D, 415–16
- Capitalism, Socialism and Democracy* (Schumpeter), 396
- career anchor model, motivation, 245–7
- cash flow effects, R&D investment, 417–20
- category problem analysis, 127, 128
- coercive control, 186–7
- Colbert, Jean-Baptiste, 433
- collaboration in innovation
  - individual-level, 353–61
  - public-private entities, 440, 447–9
- commercial knowledge, new venture development, 369–71
- communication, importance of
  - cross-functional, 165–6
- communication networks,
  - standardization, 268, 269, 270–1, 275, 288
- comparative models, R&D project selection, 221
- competition
  - competitor response to new products, 89–92, 99–106
  - effect of standardization, 272
  - and technological change, 87
  - The Competitive Advantage of Nations* (Porter), 435
- complementary assets, 336
  - potential costs of when IP separately owned, 341–5
  - role of in firm strategy, 337–40
- conjoint analysis, 152–3
- consortia, standardization, 284–5
- consumer flow model, 71, 83
- control
  - avoiding coercive, 186–7
  - of employees over resources, 187–9
  - of managers over work processes, 186, 187–8
- cooperation
  - product development, 379–81
  - public and private sector, R&D, 442, 448
- coordination
  - key element of standardization, 273–4
  - need for in product development, 165–6
- copyright protection, 303, 324
- countersuits, 346
- creativity, 151
  - problem-solving and emergence, 182–5
- cross-licensing, 346–7
- customer needs, 115–18
  - future research directions, 130–4
  - identifying, 124–30
  - in the innovation process, 121–4
  - innovation space, 117
  - language associated with, 118–21
- customer roadmapping, 133–4
- Darwinian selection, product development, 160–1

- decision tree models, 218
- decomposable problems, 154–6
- defense spending on R&D, 441
- design, dominant see dominant design
- design theory, history of, 144–8
- desirability of new products, customer needs, 117
- desired end-states, customer needs, 120–1
- diffusion models, 93
  - first purchase diffusion model, 61–4, 72–4
  - methodological issues, 70, 82
  - repeat purchase diffusion models, 64–5, 74–5
- Digital Millennium Copyright Act (1998), 324
- direct network effects, 268
  - and standardization, 270, 280–2
- discontinuous technological change, 8–10, 13, 17
- dominant design
  - emergence of, 11–13
  - and entry timing, 17
  - factors driving, 45–6
  - and shakeouts, 43–4, 46
  - and survival probability, 46
- downstream operations, voluntary divestiture of, 347–8
- dynamic environments, simultaneous approach to innovation, 208, 209
- economic growth
  - contribution of institutions, 433–9
  - and local levels of government, 443–4
  - and scientific research, 446–7
- economic value models, R&D project selection, 216–17
  - basic cost-benefit models, 217–18
  - decision tree models, 218
  - Monte Carlo simulations, 218–19
  - real options, 219–20
- emergence
  - stage of industry life cycle, 3–6
  - sustained product innovation, 182–5
- empowerment of employees, supporting sustained innovation, 185–7
- endogenous entrepreneurship hypothesis, 398–401
- entrepreneurial startups, 33
  - career motives and needs, 246
  - government funding for, 421
  - intellectual property (IP) strategy, 318
  - knowledge spillover theory, 398–404
  - origins of, 390–2
  - ‘patents facilitate finance’ hypothesis, 319
  - venture capital, 302, 376–7, 422–4
    - see also* technology-based entrepreneurship (TBE)
- entry timing, relationship to firm performance/survival, 28–32, 46, 95
- environmental contingency model, 209
- ethnographic fieldwork/studies, 127, 129, 147
- Euler equation approach, liquidity constraints, 418, 419
- evolutionary economics
  - empirical regularities, 18, 19–23
    - innovative/technological activity, 19–23, 24–6
    - number of firms, entry and exit, 18–24
    - output, sales, and market share, 26
    - price trends, 26–7
    - theoretical perspectives, 41
  - evolutionary prototyping, 159–60
  - An Evolutionary Theory of Economic Change* (Nelson and Winter), 437
  - excess inertia, adoption of standards, 276, 277, 279–80, 282
  - experiential vs. compression models of product development, 162–3
  - exploration-exploitation balance, 197–8
    - integrative framework, 208, 209–10

- exploration-exploitation balance,
 (continued)
 rival interpretations, 198–9
 sequential approach, 200–204, 203–4
 simultaneous approach, 202, 205–6, 206–7
- feasibility of new products, customer needs, 117
- features of products, customer needs, 119–20, 132
- Federal Technology Transfer Act, 448
- feedback, task dimension, 250, 253–4
 subjective vs. objective, 256–7
- fidelity of mental representation, 153, 156
- financing of innovation, 409–10
 from nonprofit sector, 444–5
 by government, 421, 439–44
 research and development, 410–12
 small firms, 420–1
 testing for financial constraints, 417–20
 theoretical background, 412–17
 venture capital, 376–7, 422–4
The Financing of Innovation (Lamoreux and Sokoloff), 302
- firm age
 relationship to performance, 28–32
 relationship to survival, 27, 36–8, 39
 and rigidity, 183
- firm density, entry and exit, 18, 19–23, 24, 34, 35–8
- firm performance/survival
 evolutionary economics, 27–33
 factors affecting probability of survival, 46–7
 organization ecology, 34, 36–8, 39
 technology management, 13–18
- firm size
 relationship to performance, 27–33
 and spillover of university-based knowledge, 404
 and technological change, 391–2, 395–8, 400–1
 ‘firm takeoff’, 26, 66
 first generation design methods, 147
 first purchase diffusion model, 61–4, 72–4
 forecasting sales of new products,
 consumer flow model, 71, 83
 economic cost and diffusion models, 70–1, 83
 multi-methods approach, 71, 83–4
 qualitative approach, 70
see also diffusion models; product life cycle (PLC)
- foundations, nonprofit sector research
 funding, 445
- functionalism, 145
- game theoretic models of innovation, 85, 87, 89, 94–5, 101
- geographical factors in innovation,
 knowledge spillovers, 313, 355–6, 372–3, 401–4
 regional economies, 443–4
 study of regional systems, 436–7
- government involvement
 funding of R&D, 440–1
 funding of startups, 421
 intellectual property (IP), 320–4
 legislation, 321–2, 324, 442, 448
 local government programs, 443–4 in R&D programs encouraging private
 funding, 442
 R&D taxation issues, 416–17
 research laboratories, 447–9
 in standards, 287–8
 technology procurement, 441–2, 443
- Government Performance and Results Act (GRPA), 442
- greenfield acquisitions, 204, 203
- growth stage of industry life cycle, 3–6

- hazard models, 63, 65–6, 69, 74, 75–6, 81
- hazard rates, 27, 29–30
- Herzberg's two-factor theory of motivation, 243–4
- How We Compete* (Berger), 436
- How the West Grew Rich* (Rosenberg and Birdzell), 434
- human resource management (HRM)
conflicting tasks of, 258–9
new venture personnel, recruiting, 375–6
- incremental product innovation, 88–9, 98, 161
see also exploration-exploitation balance
- indirect network effects, 268
and standardization, 270–1, 280–2
- individual collaborations across firms, 353–60
- industry life cycle, stages of, 4–5
- information flows/exchanges,
importance of during product
design, 165–6
- Initial Public Offerings (IPOs), 423–4
- innovation
classifications of, 259
determinants of customer response to, 60 difference from invention, 394 financing of, 409–10
by government,, 421
research and development, 410–12
small firms, 420–1
testing for financial constraints, 417–20
theoretical background, 412–17
venture capital, 422–4
and firm size, 391–2, 395–8, 400–1, 404
- game theoretic models, 85, 87, 89, 94.95, 101
- for industry evolution, 24–6
measurement of, 392–7
patent data as 'paper trail' of, 309–16
public entities' contribution to, 431–49
and standardization, 288–9
strategic alliances, 355–6
technological industries, 7, 8–10, 11
understanding customer needs, 21–4
see also sustained product innovation,
Innovation Paradox, 392–8
- installed base, and adoption of standards, 278, 279, 280, 283
- institutions, role in innovation, 433–9
- intangible assets
and firm success, 317
growth of, 302
and R&D investment, 410–11
see also intellectual property (IP)
- integrity vs. segmentalism, structuring of activities, 177–82
- Intel Corporation
complementary assets, 348, 349
university grant funding program, 230–1
- intellectual property (IP), 295–7
academic interest in, reasons for, 300–4
and cross-licensing, 346–7
highly cited articles, 305–9
IP as a policy lever, 320–4
IP as a strategic asset, 317–20
uses of patent data, 309–16
pre-emptive publishing of, 349 research trends, 297–300
separately owned, costs of
complementary assets, 341–5
startups negotiating with established firms, 380–1

- intellectual property (IP), (continued)
 university technology licensing, 373–4
- intermediate markets, effects on innovation appropriability, 336–7
- internal motivation, 241–2
 and fit between individual and job, 247–8
- international market entry strategy, 68–70, 79–82
- Internet, role of public entities in creation of, 432–3
- IP see intellectual property
- iterative processes, product development, 159–60
- job assignments
 perception of by professionals, 248–50
see also task dimensions motivating professionals
- job tenure stages, 257–8
- Kano Model of Customer Satisfaction, 124–6
- Kirton's Adaption-Innovation (KAI) theory, 240–1
- knowledge assets, 341–4
 commercial knowledge, 369–71
 and R&D investment structure, 416
 technical knowledge, 371–4
The Knowledge Filter, 399
- knowledge flows
 biotechnology industry, 353–60
 product development, 165–6
 use of patents to trace, 313–16, 373
- knowledge production function, 392, 393–5
 and localization theories of knowledge
 spillover, 401–4
 reversed in knowledge spillover theory, 399–400
- knowledge spillovers
 endogenous entrepreneurship
 hypothesis, 398–401
- individual-level, 353–4
- localization hypothesis, 401–4
- new venture development, 372–3
 and public vs. private rate of return, 440–1
- laboratories, government, 447–9
- large firms
 innovation management problems, 173–90
 innovative activity, 391–2, 396–7
- leadership, project managers, 164–5, 256
- legislation
 copyright, 324
 intellectual property rights, 303–4, 323
 legislation, 321–2, 324, 442, 448
 technology transfer, 448
 university patenting and licensing, 321–2
- life cycle phenomenon, industry
 evolution, 3–6
- linear (stage-gate) process of problem-solving, 159
- liquidity constraints, testing for, 417–18, 419
- liquidity events, venture development, 382–3
- litigation risks, patent applications, 315, 323
- localization hypothesis, knowledge
 spillover, 401–4
- 'lock-in' problem, unsponsored
 standards, 274–7, 279
- The Logic of Scientific Discovery* (Popper), 147
- market evolution, 57–8
 diffusion of innovation/market growth, 59–61
 first purchase diffusion model, 61–4, 72–4
 in the international context, 68–70, 79–82
 methodological issues, 70, 82

- other sales forecasting methods, 70–1, 83–4, 85
  - Product Life Cycle (PLC), 65–7, 75–7
  - repeat purchase diffusion model, 64–5, 74–5
  - role of marketing variables, 67–8, 78–9
- future research, 107–8
- implications for management of new products, 93
- new products entry strategy and competitor response, 84–93, 94–106
- marketing mix variables, role on product diffusion, 67–8, 78–9
- marketing research, failing to understand customer needs, 123–4
- marketing strategies, new product entry, 84–5, 86, 87–9
  - and competitor response, 86, 89–93, 94–8
- Maslow's hierarchy of needs, 118, 243
- mathematical programming models, 223–4
- mature stage of industry life cycle, 4–5, 6
- McClelland's theory of needs, 244–5
- mental representation of problems, 146
  - automotive crash safety example, 157–8
  - of rugged solution landscape, 156
  - selection and benefits of, 152–3
- method cards, understanding customer needs, 131–2
- Microsoft and the browser wars, 289
- Modigliani-Miller theorem, 412
- 'monopoly premium', 282
- Monte Carlo simulations, 218–19, 220
- moral hazard problems, R&D investment, 414–15
- motivation
  - effect of coercive control, 186–7
  - and empowerment, 185–6
  - internally driven, 241–2
  - need-based psychological models, 242–3
    - Herzberg's two-factor theory, 243–4
    - Maslow's hierarchy of needs, 118, 243
    - McClelland's theory of needs, 244–5
    - Schein's career anchor model, 245–7
  - task dimensions, 248
    - autonomy, 250, 252, 254, 256
    - feedback, 250, 253, 254, 256, 257
    - skill variety, 250, 254
    - and stage of job tenure, 257–8
    - task identity, 250, 251, 252, 254, 255
    - task significance, 250, 251, 254
    - 'work-fun' analogy, 249–50
- National Cooperative Research Act, 448
- need-based models of motivation, 242–8
- needs of customers, identifying, 124–30
- needs vs. wants of customers, 119–21
- network effects, 268–9
  - importance of direct and indirect, 280–2
  - network externalities, 59, 268, 275, 276, 279, 281
  - and standardization, 270–2
- New Growth theory, 437
- new product entry
  - failure of, 115–16
  - strategies and competitor response, 84–9, 86, 94–106
  - see also* product development,
- nonprofit sector, contribution to innovation, 444–6
- organization ecology literature
  - empirical regularities, 33
  - in firm survival, 34, 36–8, 39
  - in industry patterns, 34, 35
  - theoretical perspectives, 42
- organizational constraints on problem-solving, 161–6

- organizational dualism, 258–9
- organizational mortality and firm characteristics, 34, 36–8, 39
- organizational structure
- bureaucracy creating ‘unmanageables’, 173–4
  - emergence and stabilization, 182–3
  - functions of, 175
  - good and bad structures, 175
  - market-technology linking, 177–8
  - ‘organic’ and formal forms of, 174
  - power and control, 185–9
  - and project leadership styles, 164–5
  - rigidity, 183–5
  - segmentalism, 178–82
  - and success of firm, 17–18
- ‘out-of-the-box’ thinking, 150–1
- output of industry, evolutionary economics studies, 19–23, 26
- overlap of product development activities, 159, 160, 163, 167
- pairwise comparison methods, R&D projects, 221
- parallel prototyping, 160, 188–9
- parametric search, creation of variation, 150
- Patent Act (2005), India, 324
- patents/patent data, 295, 296
- academic uses of, 309–10
  - indicators of innovative performance, 310–12
  - tracing knowledge flows, 213–16
- delay in granting, impact on ideas market, 380–1
- and firm size, 396
- gaging success of individual collaborations between scientists, 358–9
- increased interest in, 300–4
- as intermediate outputs of innovative process, 393
- legal disputes, 303–4
- limitation of as indicator of innovative activity, 394–5
- ‘propensity to patent’, 394
- population density and founding rates, 34, 35
- portfolio selection models, R&D
- mathematical programming models, 223–4
  - portfolio diagrams, 225
  - procedural approaches, 226–7
  - strategic frameworks, 225–6
- power and control systems, large organizations, 186–7
- powering the processes of innovation and empowerment, 185–9
- pre-emptive publishing, intellectual property, 349
- pre-entry experience, and subsequent firm performance, 33
- preferences of customers and consumer decision-making, 132–3
- prices, 6
- and new product competition, 89, 91–2, 94–5, 101–2
  - pricing strategies for new products, 85
  - and product diffusion, 67, 78
  - and sales takeoff, 65–6, 75–6
  - standardization changing firm competition, 272
  - trends in evolutionary economics, 19–23, 26–7
- problem representation, 152–3, 156
- process vs. product innovation, 11, 25
- product designers, understanding customers’ psychological needs, 122–3
- product development, 143–4
- future directions, 167–8
  - fuzzy front-end, 121–2
  - history of, 144–8
  - organizational context, 161–6
  - problem-solving process, 148–9

- cause and effect, relating, 155–6
- complex problems, 156
- creation of variation, 149–51
- generic processes, 157–8
- mental representation, selection
  - and benefits of, 152–3
- need to match problem with
  - organizational process, 162–4
- problem structure, effect on
  - solvability, 154–6
- and reproducibility of learnt
  - actions, 153–4
- taxonomy of, 158–9
  - Darwinian selection, 160–1
  - incremental improvements, 161
  - iterative process, 159–60
  - linear (stage-gate) process, 159
  - parallel prototyping, 160
- research growth, 166–7
  - see also* new product entry
- product heaven, 259–61
- product life cycle (PLC), 65–7, 75–7
  - effect on brand growth, 88
  - life cycle curve, 58
  - managing innovations over, 93
- product variety, effect of standardization, 272
- product vs. process innovation, 11, 25
- ‘professional identity’, 251
- professionals see technical professionals
- project leadership and organizational structure, 164–5
- project selection, R&D, 215–16
  - contextual challenges, 227–31
  - future research directions, 221–4
  - portfolio selection, 223–7
  - project evaluation models, 216
    - economic value models, 216–20
    - relative value models, 220–3
- property rights see intellectual property (IP)
- proportional hazards regression model, 75–6
- prototyping
  - evolutionary, 159–60
  - parallel, 160
  - virtual, 148, 152, 153, 154
- psychological need-based models of
  - motivation, 242–8
- public entities, contribution to
  - innovation, 431–3
  - government laboratories, 447–9
  - government R&D funding, 439–44
  - institutions, 433–9
  - see also* universities
- Q-sort, 221
- Qualcomm, voluntary divestiture, 347–8
- quality, new venture resource assembly, 374–5
- QWERTY debate, standards war, 277
- Rambus, voluntary divestiture, 348
- real options models, 219–20
- reflective practice, work redefined as, 184–5
- relative value models, 220–1
  - comparative models, 221
  - scoring models, 221–3
- repeat purchase diffusion models, 64–5, 74–5
- repetitive vs. nonrepetitive operational tasks, 241
- replication strategies, exploitation, 201, 203
- reproducibility of learnt actions, 153–4
- requirements, customer needs, 119–21, 122, 123
- research and development (R&D)
  - basic vs. applied, 439–40, 449
  - debt finance, 416
  - external/internal costs, reasons for gap between
    - asymmetric information problems, 413
    - moral hazard problems, 414–15

- research and development (R&D)
 (continued)
 taxation issues, 416–17
 government funding, 439–44
 greater inputs yielding less innovative output, 397–8 and heavyweight project management, 165 innovation investments, 410–12
 and leveraged buyout (LBO), 415–16
 patent yields, 322
 project selection, 215–16
   contextual challenges, 227–31
   future research directions, 231–4
   portfolio selection, 223–7
   project evaluation models, 216–23
 as proxy measure of technological change, 393
- resource-partitioning theory, firm survival, 47
- resources
 external R&D funding of projects, 229–31 for new ventures, 374–7
 redefining organizational, 187–9
see also financing of innovation,
- rigidity, organizational, 183–4
- safe harbors, innovation partners, 348–9
- salability of new products, customer needs, 117
- sales forecasting methods for new products, 70–1, 83–4, 85
- sales takeoff, 26, 65–6, 75–6
- scale-based benefits of standardization, 270
- Schein's career anchor model of motivation, 245–7
- Schumpeterian innovation thesis, 340, 341, 396, 397
- The sciences of the artificial* (Simon), 146
- 'scientization' of design, 144–7
- scoring models, 221–3
- segmentalism, 178–82
- self-conscious approach to design, 145–6
- sequential approach to innovation, 200–1, 202–3
- shakeout, 13, 18
 causes of, 40–2, 43–5
 stage of industry life cycle, 4–6
- Simon, Herbert, 146, 147, 154
- simultaneous approach to innovation, 204, 205–6, 206–7
- size of firm see firm size
- skill variety, task dimension, 250, 254
- Small Business Administration
 Innovation Data Base (SBIDB), 395, 397
- Small Business Innovation Research (SBIR) programs, 421, 437, 441, 442
- small firms
 finance for, 420–1
 innovative activity, 397–8, 400–1, 404
- specialized complementary assets, 336–7, 344–5, 346–7
- specifications of a product, customer needs, 119, 120, 121
- spin-off ventures, 369–70
- sponsorship
 sponsored standards wars, 278–80
 and standardization, 271–2
- stability of work structure, 183, 184
- stable environments, sequential approach to innovation, 209
- stage-gate process, product development, 159
- standardization, 267–8
 definitions
   network effects, 268–9
   standards, 269
 economic costs and benefits, 269–70 competition between firms, 272
 coordination issues, 273–4
 network effects, 270–2
 product variety, 272

- scale economies, 270
- sunk costs of adoption, 273
- importance of direct/indirect network effects, 280–2
- long-run issues, 288–9
- nonmarket processes, 284
  - consortia and alliances, 284–5
  - mandated standards, 287–8
  - organizations developing standards, 285–7
- real-world studies of, 282–3
- standards wars and lock-in problem, 274–5
  - wars between sponsored standards, 278–80
  - wars between unsponsored standards, 275–8
- standards development organizations (SDOs), 285–7
- startups see entrepreneurial startups
- Stevenson-Wydler Technology Innovation Act, 448
- strategic alliances between firms,
  - biotechnology industry, 353–6, 357–60
- strategic frameworks, R&D portfolio selection, 225–6
- sunk costs, effect on adoption of new technologies, 273
- sustained product innovation, 173–6
  - structuring activities of, 176–7
    - creative problem-solving and emergence, 182–5
    - integrity vs. segmentalism, 177–82
    - powering processes and empowerment, 185–9
- The Synthesis of Form* (Alexander), 146
- task dimensions motivating professionals, 248
  - autonomy, 252–3, 254
  - feedback, 253–4, 256–7
  - skill variety, 250–1, 254
  - task identity and significance, 251–2, 254, 255
- task identity, 250, 251, 252, 254, 255
- task significance, 250, 251, 254, 255
- taxes and the source of finance, 416–17
- teamwork
  - and direct access to human resources, 187–8
  - and good organizational structure, 175
  - for information flow, 165–6
  - for seeing the ‘big picture’, 180–1
- technical knowledge, 371–4
- technical professionals, 239–41
  - internal motivation, 241–2
  - motivational task dimensions, 248–61
  - needs-based models of motivation, 242–8
- technical variety, 7, 11
- technological change
  - and competition, 87
  - and firm size, 391–2, 395–8, 400–1
  - and institutions, history of, 433–4
  - measures of, 392–8
  - role of public entities, 431–51
  - universities contributing to, 446–7
- technological discontinuities, 8–10, 13, 17
- technology-based entrepreneurship (TBE), 367–8
  - future research, 371, 378–9, 382, 383
  - growth and liquidity, 381–3
  - new venture origins, 368–9
    - commercial knowledge, 269–71
    - technical knowledge, 371–4
  - resource assembly, 374–7
- strategizing, 377
  - cooperating with industry
    - incumbents, 379–81
  - differentiating product or service offerings, 379
  - entering into a niche market, 377–8
  - exploiting relative organizational flexibility, 378–9

- technology and industry evolution
- empirical regularities
    - evolutionary economics literature, 18–33
    - organizational ecology literature, 33–9
    - technology management literature, 6–18
  - future research directions, 47–9
  - life cycle phenomenon, 3–6
  - theoretical perspectives, 39–47
- technology management literature,
- empirical regularities
    - firm performance, 13–18
    - industry patterns, 6–13
      - dominant design, emergence of, 11–13
      - innovative activity, 7, 11
      - number of firms, entry and exit, 13
      - technological discontinuities, 13
    - theoretical perspectives, 40
  - Tensilica, using IBM as a safe harbor, 348–9
  - timing of entry, relationship to firm performance/survival, 28–32, 46
- Trade-Related Aspects of Intellectual Property (TRIPs) agreement (1994), 303, 323
- trade secrets, 310, 324
- unarticulated needs of customers, 126–7
- uncertainty
- about performance of new interface, 64, 106
  - in consumer adoption of new technology, 273–4
  - experiential model of product development, 162–3
  - hindering standardization, 273–4
  - industries with high, 227–9
  - and lock-in/excess inertia in the market, 276
  - mathematical programming models, 224
  - in R&D investment, 411
  - and real options, 219–20
  - ‘universal’ customer needs dimensions, 133–4
- universities
- contributing to
    - innovation/technological change, 446–7
    - individual collaborations with firms, 353–60
    - and knowledge spillover, 404
    - patenting and licensing, 321–2, 373–4
  - ‘unmanageables’ of sustained product innovation, managing, 173–90
  - unsponsored standards wars, 275–8
- variation, creation of, 149–51
- Varieties of Capitalism* (Albert), 436
- venture capital, 302, 376–7, 422–4
- venture capitalists, role in startups’
- corporate governance, 382
- venture financing, patents facilitating, 319
- VHS-Betamax, VCR standards war, 269, 274, 277, 278
- video game industry, high uncertainty in, 228–9
- ‘virtual’ methods
- automotive crash tests, 149, 152, 153
  - of understanding customer needs, 132
- voice of the customer (VOC), 121–2
- voluntary divestiture of downstream operations, 347–8
- wants vs. needs of customers, 119–21
- waterfall method, 68, 70, 159
- wicked problems, 153–4, 162–3
- ‘work-fun’ analogy, motivation, 249–50
- Xerox, innovative leasing strategy, 260–1