
Contents

Editors' Notes 1

Eugene R. Wilson, Joanne B. Scanlan

1. Foundations in time: Where are we now? 11
James Allen Smith
A full century of philanthropic experience provides a clear perspective on forces that shape the future of foundations.
2. Self-evaluation 21
Colburn S. Wilbur
Periodic self-evaluation can renew the vitality of any foundation.
3. Grantee relations: How can foundations and grantees be partners for sustained social change? 31
Gwen I. Walden
Foundations and grantees are reexamining their traditional relationships and forming new types of partnerships.
4. What foundations need to know and why 41
Alexa Cortes Culwell, Gale Berkowitz, Ann M. Christen
Foundations are becoming more knowledgeable about their programs in the service of genuine social change.
5. From knowledge management to knowledge building:
An essential foundation journey 51
Lisbeth B. Schorr
Foundations can equip grantees and policymakers with actionable information that enables them to be more effective.
6. How a common language and consistent financial reporting practices could enhance the sector 63
La June Montgomery-Talley, William C. Richardson
A common language and performance standards for private foundations would improve transparency and accountability.

7. Foundation codes of ethics: Why do they matter, what are they, and how are they relevant to philanthropy? 75

Rushworth M. Kidder

A code of ethics has become a necessary tool for managing philanthropy's toughest choices.

8. De Tocqueville meets eBay: Giving, volunteering, and doing good in the new social sector 85

Marcia Sharp

The electronic marketplace challenges the dominance and operating styles of organized philanthropy.

9. Philanthropic choice and donor intent: Freedom, responsibility, and public interest 95

Curtis W. Meadows Jr.

Ensuring adherence to donor intention requires thought, planning, and donor effort, as well as fidelity of the trustees.

Additional Resources 103

Index 107