

Contents

Preface	vii
Secret Service Terminology	xiii
Acknowledgments	xv
Part I: The Customer Service Crisis	1
1 The Smoking Gun	3
Definitive proof of the return on investment in providing superior service
2 The State of Service	25
Is your company part of the customer service crisis or customer service revolution?
3 World-Class Service Sins	45
What prevents companies from being world class?
4 Service Aptitude Level	57
What level is your company?
Part II: The Customer Service Revolution	75
5 Commandment I: Service Vision	87
A clear purpose of why the business exists
6 Commandment II: Creating a World-Class Internal Culture	111
Attract, hire, and retain only the people who have the Service DNA

7	Commandment III: Nonnegotiable Experiential Standards Experience standards everyone must follow	133
8	Commandment IV: Secret Service Systems Utilizing Customer Intelligence to personalize their experience and engage and anticipate their needs	149
9	Commandment V: Training to Provide a World-Class Customer Experience Systems and processes that remove variation and provide a consistent customer experience	181
10	Commandment VI: Implementation and Execution How to go from ideas on paper to consistently executed concepts	205
11	Commandment VII: Zero Risk Anticipating your service defects and having protocols in place to make it right	219
12	Commandment VIII: Creating an Above-and- Beyond Culture Constant awareness and branding of how to be a hero	243
13	Commandment IX: Measuring Your Customer's Experience What gets measured gets managed	271
14	Commandment X: World-Class Leadership Walking the talk	295
	Index	315