

Index

- additive noise 224–8
- annuities, approximation of 192–5
- approximation
 - annuities 192–5
 - binomial tree construction 177–87
 - Brownian Bridge 172
 - combined predictor-corrector-Brownian Bridge 173–4
 - comparison 200
 - Euler 171
 - lognormal 198–200
 - numerical results 192
 - practical example 200–3
 - predictor-corrector 171
 - single-dimensional case 174–5
 - single-dimensional complete case 175–6
 - swaption pricing 195–8
 - trinomial tree construction 188–91
- ATM strikes for caps 71–4
- ATM swaption quotes 69–70
- Bermudan options pricing 219–28
 - additive noise 224–8
 - algorithms 230–4
 - BGM dynamics 228
 - calculation results 252–3
 - comparison of methods 228
 - direct method 221–2
 - Longstaff-Schwartz method 222–4
 - numerical examples 234–51
 - stochastic meshes 221
 - tree/lattice 220
 - using LSM approach 229–57
- binomial tree construction
 - for $L_n^A(t)$ 177–80
 - for $L_n^D(t)$ 180–1
 - LIBOR Markov functional model 205–17
 - numerical example 181–7
 - numerical results 192
 - to co-terminal swaptions and simulation 200–3
- Black-Derman-Toy model 17
- Black-Karasiński model 17
- Black's formula (1976) 8
- bootstrapping technique 127–9
- Brace-Gatarek-Musiela (BGM) models
 - approximation of model 171–203
 - dynamic of LIBOR rates 228
 - linear pricing 29–30
 - semilinear pricing 40–3
 - shifted 46–8
 - simplified 55–62
 - simulation under forward measure 21–2
 - smile modelling in 45–53
 - under forward measures 18–19
 - under spot measure 13–16
- Brownian Bridge approximation 172
- Brownian motion 14
- calibration 58–9
 - parametric 38–9
 - separated 36–7
 - to co-terminal swaptions and simulation 200–3
- calibration algorithms 67, 86–7
 - market data 67–70
 - non-parametric 78–86

- calibration algorithms (continued)
 - to caps 70–8
 - to caps/swaptions based on optimization techniques 131–66
- caps 70
 - ATM strikes 71–4
 - caplet values 70–1
 - stripping caplet volatilities 74–8
- Cholesky decomposition 24
- CMS rate dynamics
 - single-factor BGM model 57–8
 - single-factor HJM model 55–6
- co-terminal swaptions, calibration to 125–9, 200–3
- Cox-Ingersoll-Ross model 17

- derivatives pricing 8–9

- Euler approximation 171

- forward measure 9–12
- forward rates, historical correlations 120–5
- freezing the drift 170

- Girsanov’s theorem 7–8

- Heath-Jarrow-Morton (HJM) models
 - linear pricing 30–1
 - semilinear pricing 41–2
 - simplified 55–62
 - simulation under forward measure 21–2
 - smile model in 45, 52–3
 - under forward measures 18–19
 - under spot measure 13–16
- historical correlations of forward rates 120–5

- interest rate derivatives, pricing 9–12
- Ito’s formula 7

- lattice pricing 220
- Least Squares Monte Carlo (LSM)
 - approach 229
 - calculation results 252–3
 - numerical examples of algorithms 234–51
 - pricing algorithms 229–34
 - summary 257
 - theoretical remarks on optimal stopping 253–7
- LIBOR Markov functional model
 - binomial tree construction (approach 1) 207–15
 - binomial tree construction (approach 2) 215–17
 - construction 205–7
- Lipschitz continuity of parameters 14
- locally single factor approach 117–20
- lognormal approximation 198–200
- long term options, stochastic volatility for 48–50
- Longstaff-Schwartz method 222–4
- Longstaff-Schwartz-Santa Clara approach 95–6

- market data 67–70
- Markov processes 6, 205–15
- martingales 7
- Monte Carlo simulation 22–4
- multidimensional Gaussian variables
 - Monte Carlo simulation 22–4
 - trinomial tree simulation 25–6

- non-parametric calibration algorithms 78–86, 89–90, 129–30
 - co-terminal swaptions 125–9
 - historical correlations of forward rates 120–5
 - locally single factor approach 117–20
 - separated approach 90–109
 - separated approach with optimization 109–17
- non-parametric calibrations to caps/swaptions 132, 166
 - annualization of volatility 137–8
 - annualized instantaneous volatility 148–50
 - calculation of vector ψ 141
 - forward swap rates 139–40
 - generation of weights 142–3
 - instantaneous correlations 150–2
 - instantaneous volatility matrix 143–4
 - LFM caplet volatilities 146–7
 - LFM swaption volatilities 152–7
 - LFM theoretical swaption prices 144
 - piecewise constant instantaneous volatilities 140
 - preliminary computations 132–7
- numeraire, changing of 8–9

- optimal stopping 219–28
 - additive noise 224–8
 - BGM dynamics 228
 - comparison of methods 228
 - direct method 221–2
 - Longstaff-Schwartz method 222–4
 - stochastic meshes 221
 - tree/lattice pricing 220
 - under LSM 253–7
- optimization 131
 - calibration algorithms to caps/swaptions 131–66
- parametric calibration
 - to caps 157–61
 - to swaptions 161–5
- parametrized volatility 37–8
- Picard theorem 14
- predictor-corrector approximation 171
- predictor-corrector-Brownian Bridge
 - combination 173–4
- pricing algorithms 229–34
- principal components analysis (PCA) 23–4
- probability theory
 - Black’s formula (1976) 8
 - conditional probability 3
 - geometric Wiener processes 5
 - Girsanov’s theorem 7–8
 - Ito’s formula 7
 - Markov processes 6
 - martingales 7
 - normal distributions 4
 - pricing derivatives/changing of numeraire 8–9
 - pricing of interest rate derivatives/forward measure 9–12
 - probability space 3–4
 - random variables 3–4
 - stochastic integrals/differential equations 6
 - stochastic processes 4–5
 - Wiener processes 5
- random number generation 22–3
- Rebonato approach 38–9
- separated approach 90–109
 - components of vectors $\gamma_1(t)$ 99–102
 - diagonal elements of matrix Φ 91
 - elements of R 93
 - matrix Φ 95
- separated approach with optimization
 - 109–17
 - calculation of theoretical swaption volatilities 113
 - comments 115–17
 - loading initial data/naming minimization function 109–10
 - matrix of covariances 111
 - matrix of parameters 110–11
 - modified covariance matrix 112
 - results of computations 114–15
 - RSME between theoretical/market swaption volatilities 113
 - vector of eigenvalues/matrix of eigenvectors 112
- separated volatility 34–7
- simulation
 - HJM/BGM models 21–2
 - Monte Carlo 22–4
 - trinomial tree 25–6
- single-dimensional case 174–5
- single-dimensional complete case 175–6
- smile modelling 45, 59–62
 - mixing BGM/HJM models 52–3
 - shifted BGM model 46–8
 - stochastic volatility for long term options 48–50
 - uncertain volatility displace LIBOR market model 50–2
- stochastic differential equations 6
- stochastic integrals 6
- stochastic meshes 221
- stochastic processes 4–5
- stochastic volatility, long term options 48–50
- swaption pricing/calibration 27–9, 195–8
 - examples 43–4
 - linear in BGM model 29–30
 - linear in HJM model 30–1
 - nonlinear 43
 - parametrized volatility 37–8
 - Rebonato approach 38–9
 - semilinear in BGM model 40–1
 - semilinear in HJM model 41–2
- separated volatility 34–7
- time homogeneous volatility 33–4
- universal volatility function 31–3

time homogeneous volatility 33–4

tree pricing 220

trinomial tree construction

for $L_n^A(t)$ 188–91

for $L_n^D(t)$ 191

trinomial tree simulation 25–6

uncertain volatility 50–2

universal volatility function
31–3

Vasiček model 16–17

volatility

parametrized 37–8

separated 34–7

stochastic 48–50

time homogeneous 33–4

uncertain 50–2

universal 31–3

Wiener processes 5

geometric 5

