

---

Index

- Academic programs: After-School All-Stars program (Chicago), 60; After School Counts program (Chicago), 60; America Reads program, 40–42; Children’s Aid Society (New York City), 22; Individualized Reading Program (Drew Elementary School, Philadelphia), 40–41; Literacy Peers program (New York City), 29–30
- Academy for Educational Development, 31
- After School Counts program (Chicago), 60
- After-School All-Stars program (Chicago), 60
- After-school programs: full-service schools and, 2; funding for, 12; limitations of, 2; partnerships of, with community institutions, 2; transitioning from, to full-service program, 2–3
- “Aligning Systems to Create Full-Service Schools: The Boston Experience, So Far,” 73–80
- America Reads program, 40–42
- “Anchors of the Community: Community Schools in Chicago,” 55–64
- Attachment, in child development, 8
- Beacons youth development model: Academy for Educational Development and, 31; challenges of, 32, 34; Computerized Neighborhood Environment Tracking program and, 30–31; development of, 27; evaluation of, 31–32; evaluation of adaptations and, 33; expansion of, 28; expectations of, 34; funding of, 28, 34; Literacy Peers program and, 29–30; New York City program, 28–29; program examples of, 29–31; purpose of, 27; replication/adaptation of, 33–34; research base of, 28; school design and, 33; Youth Development Institute and, 27–28; youth development principles of, 28; youth development quality outcomes of, 32
- Blank, M., “Building the Community School Movement: Vision, Organization, and Leadership,” 99–109
- Boston Public Schools (BPS): full-service schools program of, 73–74; reformist orientation of, 74. See also Full-Service Schools Roundtable (Boston)
- “Building the Community School Movement: Vision, Organization, and Leadership,” 99–109
- Bundy, A., “Aligning Systems to Create Full-Service Schools: The Boston Experience, So Far,” 73–80
- California After-School Initiative, 96
- California’s “After School for All” initiative (Proposition 49), 96
- “California’s Healthy Start: A Solid Platform for Promoting Youth Development,” 89–97
- Campaign to Expand Community Schools (Chicago), 56–58
- Cedar Hall Elementary School (Evansville, Indiana) full-service school model: components of, 66; expansion of pilot program, 66; origins, 65–66; outcomes of, 66. See also School Community Council (Evansville, Indiana)
- Center for Community Partnerships (University of Pennsylvania) community school program: America Reads program and, 40–42;

- Community Health Promotion and Disease Prevention program at Sayre Middle School example, 38–40, 43; democratic focus of, 37–38; Individualized Reading Program at Drew Elementary School example, 40; theoretical basis of, 36–37, 43; University City High School test score results and, 42; West Philadelphia Improvement Corps and, 36–37; West Philadelphia Partnership and, 36
- Charter schools, 7
- Chicago Public Schools (CPS): Campaign to Expand Community Schools and, 56–58, 61–62; community and leadership support for, 56; educational reform initiatives and, 55–56; Full Service Schools Initiative and, 56; Local School Councils of, 56
- Children: access to services/supports of, 8–9; attachment needs of, 8; development needs of, 8; double institutionalization of, 1; long school day and, 1–2
- Children's Aid Society (CAS) model: after-school programs and, 18, 23; characteristics of, 16; coherence of, 16; commitment of, 16; community and economic development and, 20; community schools of, 15–16; comprehensiveness of, 16; core components of, 17–20; costs of, 23; “developmental triangle” and, 17; early childhood programs and, 19–20; evaluation of, 22–23; flexibility of, 16; formal agreement and, 21; funding for, 23–25; goal of, 16; health services and, 19; history of, 15–16; leadership support in, 21–22; lessons learned and, 21–22; mental health services and, 19; National Technical Assistance Center for Community Schools and, 16–17; needs-and-resource assessment and, 17; New York City Board of Education and, 15, 21; parent involvement and, 18, 22; partnerships of, 21; planning and, 17; professional development and, 20; research base of, 17; scholastic improvement and, 22; social services and, 19; staffing of, 20–22; summer camps and, 18; theory-of-action approach and, 23; variations of, 16
- Children's Aid Society (CAS; New York), 4, 11, 15
- “Children's Aid Society Community Schools: A Full-Service Partnership Model, The,” 15–26
- Coalition for Community Schools, 11, 104
- Community assets mapping model, 65–66
- Community Health Promotion and Disease Prevention program, Sayre Middle School (Philadelphia), 38–40, 43
- Community schools: academic and nonacademic learning opportunities and, 100; access to services/supports and, 8–9; advantages of, 100–101; advocacy for, 104; building relationships and, 106; building social capital and, 100–101; charter schools and, 7; child development and, 108; children's attachment needs and, 8; Coalition for Community Schools and, 11; community involvement and, 9; community school coordinators and, 101–102; definition of, 7, 99; development of, 10–11; early intervention programs and, 8; establishing power lines and, 3; evaluation outcomes and, 107–108; federal role in, 102; fostering positive learning conditions and, 99–100; foundations and, 107; funding for, 12–13, 107; future of, 13–14; going to scale of, 13; importance of, 1, 13; ingenuity of, 106; initiation of, 105–106; initiative management and, 101; lead agencies and, 12; models of, 11; multicultural offerings of, 9; needs-and-resources assessments and, 13; needs of parents, children, and community and, 2–3, 8; as “no two alike,” 8; organization of, 101–102; parent involvement and, 9; partner-

- ships and, 4, 99; policy strategies for, 102–103; principals and, 106; Quitman Street Community School (Newark, NJ) example, 9–10; range of resources/offerings of, 100; school reform and, 108; site-based planning teams and, 101; strategic planning for, 2–3; sustainability of, 107; teacher training for, 3–4. See also Beacons youth development model; Center for Community Partnerships (University of Pennsylvania) community school program; Children’s Aid Society (CAS) model; Community Schools Initiative (CSI) program, of Chicago Public Schools; Full-service community schools; Healthy Start program (California); SUN Community Schools (Portland) initiative
- Community Schools Initiative (CSI) program, of Chicago Public Schools: academic programs, 60–61; accomplishments of, 63–64; After-School All-Stars program (Chicago), 60; background of, 55–57; Campaign to Expand Community Schools and, 56–58, 61–62; expansion of, 62–63; health programs of, 61; mission of, 58; model of, 58–60; nonprofit organization partnerships and, 59; partner-donors and, 59, 62–63; resources of, 60–61; student achievement and, 63–64; support for academic program and, 59; sustainability of, 61–63; technical assistance plan of, 61–62; professional development and, 62, 64; 21st Century Community Learning Centers program and, 12, 58, 64; University of Chicago partnership and, 62
- Diehl, D., “The School Community Council: Creating an Environment for Student Success,” 65–72
- Drew Elementary School (Philadelphia) Individualized Reading Program (IRP), 40
- Dryfoos, J., “Full-Service Community Schools: A Strategy—Not a Program,” 7–14
- Foundation for Lincoln Public Schools (Nebraska), 47, 49
- Full-service community schools: argument for, 7; benefits for youth development of, 8–9; need for, 7–8. See also Community schools; Full-service schools (FSS); Public Education Network (PEN) public engagement program
- “Full-Service Community Schools: A Strategy—Not a Program,” 7–14
- “Full-Service Community Schools: Cause and Outcome of Public Engagement,” 45–54
- Full-service schools (FSS): after-school programs and, 2; challenges of, 3; components of, 66; dangers of, 1; importance of, 1; need for, 3. See also Community schools; Full-service community schools
- Full-Service Schools Roundtable (Boston): accountability and, 79; building trusting relationships and, 77; challenges of, 75; embracing a mission, not a model and, 76–77; enlarging the vision and, 77; focus questions of, 74, 79–80; funding and, 75; future challenges of, 78–79; group conflicts/issues and, 75–76; lessons learned and, 76–78; location of, 76; middle-level leaders and, 78; mission of, 74; origins of, 74–75; persistence and, 78; planning for leadership changes and, 78; practicing strategic opportunism and, 77–78; public advocacy and, 79; public investment and, 78–79; structure of, 76; targeting multiple systems and, 77; widening the circle and, 79
- Full Services Community Schools Act, 102, 104, 108
- Gray, C., “The School Community Council: Creating an Environment for Student Success,” 65–72

- Harkavy, I., "University-Assisted Community School Program in West Philadelphia: Democratic Partnerships That Make a Difference," 35–43
- Head Start, 19, 23
- Health programs: Chicago Public Schools, 61; Children's Aid Society of New York City, 19; Community Health Promotion and Disease Prevention program at Sayre Middle School, 38–40; Safe Schools/Healthy Students program, 102. See also Healthy Start program (California)
- Healthy Start program (California): academic achievement and, 94–95; core components of, 90, 92; evaluation of, 94–95; family/community involvement and, 92; funding and, 95–96; future of, 96; grant application process and, 90; individual focus issues and, 91; mission of, 89, 96; neighbors-helping-neighbors model and, 92; new initiatives and, 96; partnerships and, 93–94; political history of, 95–96; positive learning environment and, 92, 96; program continuation and, 92; site-specific programming and, 91–92; student attendance and, 91; supplemental funding sources and, 90; sustainability and, 92, 94; systemic change and, 89; theoretical basis of, 89; training and, 92; use of coordinators and, 93
- Individualized Reading Program (IRP), Drew Elementary School (Philadelphia), 40
- Iverson, D., "Schools Uniting Neighborhoods: The SUN Initiative in Portland, Oregon," 81–88
- Kleinbard, P., "The New York City Beacons: Rebuilding Communities of Support in Urban Neighborhoods," 27–34
- Lancaster Foundation for Educational Enrichment (Pennsylvania), 47–48
- Local education funds (LEFs), 45, 47–53
- National Coalition for Community Schools, 53
- Neighbors-helping-neighbors model, 92
- "New York City Beacons: Rebuilding Communities of Support in Urban Neighborhoods, The," 27–34
- No Child Left Behind Act, 7, 11, 13, 45, 108
- O'Connor, G., "The School Community Council: Creating an Environment for Student Success," 65–72
- One-stop family resource centers, 92
- Out-of-school-time (OST) programs, 34
- Partnerships: after-school programs and, 2; school-university, 35. See also under specific program/model
- Paterson Education Fund (New Jersey), 47, 49, 51
- Positive learning environment: Healthy Start and, 92, 96; necessary conditions for, 99–100
- Providence Education Partnership (Rhode Island), 47, 49, 51
- Public Education Network (PEN): local education fund (LEF) members and, 45, 47–53; mission of, 45; National Coalition for Community Schools and, 53; public engagement framework of, 46–47, 52; Schools and Community Initiative and, 45–47, 53; service area of, 45–46. See also Public Education Network (PEN) public engagement program
- Public Education Network (PEN) public engagement program: accountability and, 51–52; evaluation outcomes of, 52–53; Foundation for Lincoln Public Schools (Nebraska), 47, 49; full-service community schools in, 47–49; funding of, 52; implementation of, 47–52; keeping outcome focus and, 50; keys to success of, 49–52; Lan-

- caster Foundation for Educational Enrichment (Pennsylvania) and, 47–48; Paterson Education Fund (New Jersey) and, 47, 49, 51; Providence Education Partnership (Rhode Island) and, 47, 49, 51; strategic coordination and, 49–50
- Quinn, J., “The Children’s Aid Society Community Schools: A Full-Service Partnership Model,” 15–26
- Quitman Street Community School (Newark, NJ), 9–10
- Safe Schools/Healthy Students program, 102
- Sayre Middle School (Philadelphia) Community Health Promotion and Disease Prevention program, 38–40
- “School Community Council: Creating an Environment for Student Success, The,” 65–72
- School Community Council (Evansville, Indiana): allowing for growth and, 67; developing partnerships and, 70; evaluation of, 70; Evansville-Vanderburgh School Corporation and, 69–70; funding for, 66, 69–70; implementation of, 68–69; importance of coordinators and, 68; ongoing evaluation and, 68; origins of, 66; outcomes of, 70–71; ownership of process and, 67; physical/mental health and, 70–71; practice components of, 67–68; procedure of, 66–67; school readiness/adjustment and, 71; trust in relationships and, 67
- Schools: as community service providers, 36–37; current pressures on, 7–8; needs of parents, children, and community and, 2–3, 8; No Child Left Behind and, 7, 11, 13, 45; partnerships of, with universities, 35. See also Community schools; Full-service community schools
- Schools and Community Initiative of Public Education Network (PEN), 45–47, 53
- “Schools Uniting Neighborhoods: The SUN Initiative in Portland, Oregon,” 81–88
- SUN Community Schools (Portland) model: academic performance and, 86; City Parks and Recreation Bureau and, 82–83; communication and, 85–86; consistency and autonomy and, 85; core components of, 83; evaluation and, 86; lead agencies and, 83; leadership and, 83; lessons learned and, 84–86; model components and, 83; model implementation and, 84; origins of, 81; pilot phase of, 84; principals as champions and, 85; resources and, 84; School-Age Policy Framework and, 82; SUN Community Schools Initiative and, 82, 87; use of coordinators and, 85; vision/goals and, 85
- Swanson, E., “Anchors of the Community: Community Schools in Chicago,” 55–64
- Tagle, R., “Full-Service Community Schools: Cause and Outcome of Public Engagement,” 45–54
- 21st Century Community Learning Centers program, 12, 58, 64, 69, 107–108
- University-assisted community school model. See Center for Community Partnerships (University of Pennsylvania) community school program
- “University-Assisted Community School Program in West Philadelphia: Democratic Partnerships That Make a Difference,” 35–43
- University of Pennsylvania (Penn), 35
- Villarreal, L., “California’s Healthy Start: A Solid Platform for Promoting Youth Development,” 89–97