

Contents

Acknowledgments ix

Part I Exercising Influence 1

- 1 What We've Got Here Is Failure to Influence . . . 3
- 2 What Is Influence, and Why Do We Want to Have It? 9
- 3 A Model for Exercising Influence: Building Relationships and Getting Results 21
- 4 Expressive Influence: Sending Ideas and Generating Energy 29
- 5 Receptive Influence: Inviting Ideas and Stimulating Action 39
- 6 Influencing in Action 51

Part II Planning for Influence 57

- 7 Developing an Influence Plan 59
- 8 Establishing Influence Goals 63
- 9 Focus on the Relationship 71
- 10 Focus on the Context: The Individual 75
- 11 Focus on the Context: System, Organization, Culture, and Timing 83
- 12 Focus on the Context: Yourself 87
- 13 Focus on the Issues 91
- 14 Choosing and Using Influence Behaviors to Achieve Your Goal 95
- 15 Putting Your Plan to Work 101

Part III Special Issues in Influence 109

- 16 The Ethics of Influence 111
- 17 Influencing Electronically 117
- 18 Influencing Indirectly 125
- 19 Applied Influence: Making Things Happen 131

Afterword: The Paradox of Failure 139*Appendices

- A Coaching Partnerships 141
- B Influence Plan 145
- C Meeting Processes That Support Effective Influencing 149
- D Sentence Starters 155
- E Influence Scenarios 159

Notes 173*Resources 175*Index 177*About the Author 183*Pfeiffer Publications Guide 187

Acknowledgments

I AM MOST GRATEFUL to those friends, colleagues, clients, and others who took the time to read and comment on the first edition of this book. I have been delighted to work with the Pfeiffer staff to develop this second edition.

My special thanks go to Cindy Coe and Guadalupe Guajardo, for their professional, yet kind-hearted reviews and excellent suggestions, and to Leslie Stephen for her helpful ideas and light touch as an editor.

Nobody could ask for a better team than the Barnes & Conti staff. I am particularly grateful to Roslyn Raley for her patience, precision, and amazing mind-reading skills in moving this project along.

Some of the material in this book is adapted with permission from Barnes & Conti's Exercising Influence: Building Relationships and Getting Results.<sup>1</sup> Developing and working with that program and with the extraordinary colleagues who facilitate it continues to be a wonderful learning experience. The many program participants who have shared their influence challenges and insights with all of us have contributed greatly to my personal development as an influencer and to this book.

It has been my very good fortune to work with two outstanding teachers and mentors in the field of interpersonal influence, David Berlew, Ph.D., and Roger Harrison, Ph.D. Without their knowledge and passion for the subject, this book would not have been written.

