

The Best of Mexico

by David Baird, Juan Cristiano & Emily Hughey Quinn

Across Mexico, in villages and cities, in mountains, tropical coasts, and jungle settings, enchanting surprises await travelers. These might take the form of a fantastic small-town festival, delightful dining in a memorable restaurant, or even a stretch of road through heavenly countryside. Below is a starter list of our favorites, to which you'll have the pleasure of adding your own discoveries.

1 The Best Beach Vacations

- Puerto Vallarta: Spectacularly wide Banderas Bay offers 42km (26 miles) of beaches. Some, like Playa Los Muertos—the popular public beach in town—abound with palapa restaurants, beach volleyball, and parasailing. The beaches of Punta Mita, the exclusive development north of Vallarta, are of the white-sand variety, with crystalline waters and coral reefs just offshore. Others around the bay nestle in coves, accessible only by boat. Puerto Vallarta is the only place where authentic colonial ambience mixes with true resort amenities. See “Puerto Vallarta” in chapter 9.
- Puerto Escondido: The best overall beach value in Mexico is principally known for its world-class surfing beach, Playa Zicatela. The surrounding beaches all have their own appeal; colorful fishing pangas dot the central town beach, parked under the shade of palms leaning so far over they almost touch the ground. Puerto Escondido offers unique accommodations at excellent prices, with exceptional budget dining and nightlife. See “Puerto Escondido” in chapter 10.
- Ixtapa/Zihuatanejo: These side-by-side resorts offer beach-goers the best of both worlds: serene simplicity and resort comforts. For those in search of a back-to-basics beach, the best and most beautiful is Playa La Ropa, close to Zihuatanejo. The wide beach at Playa Las Gatas, with its restaurants and snorkeling sites, is also a great place to play. The high-rise hotels in Ixtapa, on the next bay over from Zihuatanejo, front Playa Palmar, a fine, wide swath of beach. See “Northward to Zihuatanejo & Ixtapa” in chapter 10.
- Cancún: In terms of sheer beauty, Cancún and the coastline of the Yucatán state of Quintana Roo have always boasted Mexico's most enticing beaches. The powdery, white-sand beaches have water the color of a Technicolor dream. Cancún offers the widest assortment of luxury beachfront hotels, with more restaurants, nightlife, and activities than any other resort destination in Mexico. See chapter 13.
- Tulum: Fronting some of the best beaches on Mexico's Caribbean coast,

Mexico

Tulum's small palapa hotels offer guests a little slice of paradise far from crowds and megaresorts. The bustling town lies inland; at the coast, things are quiet and will remain so because all these hotels are small and must generate their own electricity. If you can pull yourself away from the beach, nearby are ruins to explore and a vast nature preserve. See chapter 15.

- Isla Mujeres: There's only one main beach here—Playa Norte—but it's superb. From this island, you can dive El Garrafón reef, snorkel offshore, and take a boat excursion to the Isla Contoy national wildlife reserve, which features great birding and a fabulous, uninhabited beach. See "Isla Mujeres" in chapter 14.
- Playa del Carmen: "Playa" is Mexico's hip beach destination with a dash of third-world chic. Above all, it's easy and low key. You walk to the beach, you walk back to the hotel, you walk to one of the many good restaurants. Next day, you repeat. The beaches are white sand; the water is clear blue and perfect for swimming. If you feel the urge to be active, not far away are ancient Maya ruins, Cozumel, and the megaresort of Cancún, offering all the variety that you might want in a beach vacation. See "Playa del Carmen" in chapter 15.

- La Paz: This state capital borders a lovely beach, dotted with colorful playgrounds and lively open-air restaurants. Take a cue from the local residents, though, and pass on swimming here in favor of the exquisite beaches just minutes from downtown. La Paz's beaches and the islets just offshore have transformed this tranquil town into a center for diving, sea kayaking, and other adventure pursuits. See "La Paz: Peaceful Port Town" in chapter 18.
- Los Cabos: Dramatic rock formations and crashing waves mix with wide stretches of soft sand and rolling surf breaks. Start at Playa Palmilla and work your way down the Tourist Corridor to the famed Lovers' Beach at Land's End. Some beaches are more appropriate for contemplation than for swimming, which isn't all bad. See "Los Cabos: Resorts, Water-sports & Golf" in chapter 18.

2 The Best Cultural Experiences

- Passing Time in the Plazas & Parks: All the world may be a stage, but some parts have richer backdrops than others. Town plazas are the perfect settings for watching everyday life unfold. Alive with people, these open spaces are no modern product of urban planners, but are rooted in the traditional Mexican view of society. Several plazas are standouts: Vera-cruz's famous zócalo (see chapter 12) features nearly nonstop music and tropical gaiety. One look tells you how important Oaxaca's zócalo (see chapter 11) is to the local citizenry;

the plaza is remarkably beautiful, grand, and intimate all at once. Mexico City's Alameda (see chapter 4) has a dark, dramatic history—heretics were burned at the stake here during the colonial period—but today it's a people's park where lovers sit, cotton-candy vendors spin their treats, and the sound of organ grinders drifts over the changing crowd. San Miguel de Allende's Jardín (see chapter 6) is the focal point for meeting, sitting, painting, and sketching. During festivals, it fills with dancers, parades, and elaborate fireworks. Guanajuato and Querétaro (see chapter 6) have the coziest of plazas, while El Centro in Mérida (see chapter 16) on a Sunday can't be beat.

- Música Popular: Nothing reveals the soul of a people like music, and Mexico boasts many kinds in many different settings. You can find brassy, belt-it-out mariachi music in the famous Plaza de Garibaldi in Mexico City (see chapter 4), under the arches of El Parián in Tlaquepaque, and in other parts of Guadalajara (see chapter 8). Or perhaps you want to hear romantic boleros about love's betrayal sung to the strumming of a Spanish guitar, or what Mexicans call música tropical and related cumbias, mambos, and cha-cha-chas (see chapter 13).
- Regional Folk Dancing: Whether it's the Ballet Folklórico in Mexico City or the Ballet Folclórico in Guadalajara (see chapters 4 and 8), the almost-nightly park performances in Mérida (see chapter 16), or celebrations countrywide, these performances are diverse and colorful expressions of Mexican traditions.
- Fireworks: Mexicans share such a passion for fireworks and such a cavalier attitude toward them that it's a good thing the buildings are stone and cement, or the whole country would have burned down long ago. Many local traditions surround fireworks, and every festival includes a display. The most lavish are the large constructions known as castillos, and the wildest are the toros that men carry over their shoulders while running through the streets, causing festival-goers to dive for cover.

- Strolling El Malecón: Wherever there's a seafront road, you'll find el malecón bordering it. This is generally a wide sidewalk for strolling, complete with vendors selling pinwheels and cotton candy. In some places, it has supplanted the plaza as a centerpiece of town life. The best examples are in Puerto Vallarta, Mazatlán (see chapter 9), La Paz (see chapter 18), Cozumel (see chapter 14), and Veracruz (see chapter 12).
- Regional Fairs: Almost every city and town has its regional fair (feria regional). They showcase the best products of the region—tequila or fruit liquors, livestock, carved silver, or clay handicrafts. One of the most notable regional fairs is La Feria del Caballo in Texcoco, which takes place in late March or early April.

3 The Best Archaeological Sites

- Teotihuacán: So close to Mexico City, yet centuries away. You can feel the majesty of the past in a stroll down the pyramid-lined Avenue of the Dead, from the Pyramid of the Sun to the Pyramid of the Moon. Imagine what a fabulous place this must have been when the walls were stuccoed and painted brilliant colors. See "A Side Trip to the Pyramids of San Juan Teotihuacán" in chapter 4.
- Monte Albán: A grand ceremonial city built on a mountaintop overlooking the valley of Oaxaca, Monte Albán offers the visitor panoramic vistas; a fascinating view of a society in transition, reflected in the contrasting methods of pyramid construction; and intriguing details in ornamentation. See "Oaxaca City" in chapter 11.

- Palenque: Like the pharaohs of Egypt, the rulers of Palenque built tombs deep within their pyramids. Imagine the magnificent ceremony in A.D. 683 when King Pacal was entombed in his magnificent burial chamber, which lay unspoiled until its discovery in 1952. See "Palenque" in chapter 11.

- Ek Balam: Archaeologists at this site have made the most astonishing discoveries of the decade. Ek Balam's main pyramid is taller than Chichén Itzá's, and it holds a sacred doorway bordered with elaborate stucco figures of priests and kings and rich iconography. See "Ek Balam: Dark Jaguar" in chapter 16.
- Uxmal: No matter how many times you see Uxmal, the splendor of its stone carvings is awe-inspiring. A stone rattlesnake undulates across the facade of the Nunnery complex, and 103 masks of the rain god Chac project out from the Governor's Palace. See "The Ruins of Uxmal" in chapter 16.

- Chichén Itzá: Stand beside the giant serpent head at the foot of El Castillo pyramid and marvel at the architects and astronomers who positioned the building so precisely that shadow and sunlight form a serpent's body slithering from the peak to the earth at each equinox (Mar 21 and Sept 21). See "The Ruins of Chichén Itzá" in chapter 16.

4 The Best Active Vacations

- Scuba Diving in Cozumel & along the Yucatán's Caribbean Coast: The coral reefs off the island, Mexico's premier diving destination, are among the top five dive spots in the world. See chapter 14. The Yucatán's coastal reef is part of the second-largest reef system in the world and affords excellent diving. Especially beautiful is the Chinchorro Reef, 32km (20 miles) offshore from Majahual or Xcalak. You can also dive in the clear, cool water of the many caverns and cenotes (sinkholes, or natural wells) that dot the interior. See chapter 15. Other excellent dive sites are in and around Puerto Vallarta and off Los Cabos. See chapters 9 and 18.
- Fly-Fishing off the Punta Allen Peninsula: Serious anglers will enjoy the challenge of fly-fishing the saltwater flats and lagoons of Ascension Bay, near Punta Allen. See "Tulum, Punta Allen & Sian Ka'an" in chapter 15.
- Hiking & Horseback Riding in the Copper Canyon: Miles and miles of beautiful, remote, challenging canyon lands are paradise for the serious hiker or rider. Canyon Travel (☎ 800/843-1060 in the U.S.; www.canyontravel.com) can set hikers up with a Tarahumara Indian guide, who can take you deep into the canyons to places rarely viewed by tourists. Doug Rhodes of Paraíso del Oso (☎ 800/884-3107 in the U.S.) leads tours of experienced horseback riders on a 12-day ride that tests a rider's skill in mountainous terrain. It has to be the most challenging ride in North America. See "The Copper Canyon Train & Stops along the Way" in chapter 17.

- Golf in Los Cabos & Puerto Vallarta: Puerto Vallarta, with its seven championship courses, is the new destination for golfers to watch. Added to the appeal of golf here are courses within easy driving distance along the Pacific Coast at El Tamarindo, Isla Navidad, and Manzanillo. See chapter 9. The Corridor between San José del Cabo and Cabo San Lucas is one of the world's premier golf destinations, with seven championship courses open and a total of 207 holes slated for the area. See chapter 18.
- Surfing Zicatela Beach in Puerto Escondido: This world-class break is a lure for surfers from around the globe. It challenges the best in the sport each September and October, when the waves peak and the annual surf competitions take place. See chapter 10. Other noted surf breaks in Mexico include Sayulita, Punta Mita, and Las Islitas Beach near San Blas (all north of Puerto Vallarta); Playa Costa Azul, on the outskirts of San José del Cabo; and “Killers” at Todos Santos Island in northern Baja. See chapters 9 and 18.

- Sportfishing in La Paz: Billfishing for magnificent marlin and sailfish is a popular sport throughout southern Baja, and La Paz pulls in the most consistent share. See chapter 18. Fishing is also excellent in Los Cabos, Mazatlán, Manzanillo, and Zihuatanejo. See chapters 9, 10, and 18.

- Sea Kayaking in the Sea of Cortez: From Cabo San Lucas to La Paz, and continuing north, the Sea of Cortez is a sea kayaker’s dream. It has dozens of tiny coves and impressive inlets to pull into and explore, under the watchful gaze of sea lions and dolphins. Professional outfitters provide gear, guides, and instruction for novices. See chapter 18.

5 The Best of Natural Mexico

- Michoacán’s Million Monarch March: Mexico is an exotic land, and no place drives this home more forcefully than a mountain forest where you stand surrounded by the fluttering wings of millions of monarch butterflies—it’s like being in a fairy tale. The setting is the rugged highlands of Michoacán, from mid- to late November through March. See “Morelia” in chapter 7.
- Whale-Watching: Each winter, between December and April, magnificent humpback and gray whales return to breed and instruct their young in the waters of Banderas Bay, fronting Puerto Vallarta, and in Los Cabos. See “Puerto Vallarta” in chapter 9, and “Los Cabos: Resorts, Watersports & Golf” in chapter 18.
- Sea Turtle Nesting Beaches: Between June and November, sea turtles return to the beaches of their birth to lay their eggs in nests on the sand. With poaching and natural predators threatening these species, communities along Mexico’s Pacific coast have established protected nesting areas. Many are open for public viewing and participation in the egg collection and baby-turtle release processes. Turtles are found along the Yucatán coast, in Baja Sur, on the Oaxaca coast, in Puerto Vallarta, and on Costa Alegre. See chapters 9, 15, and 18.

- Lago Bacalar (Yucatán Peninsula): The waters of this crystal-clear, spring-fed lake—Mexico’s second largest—are noted for their vibrant color variations, from pale blue to deep blue-green and turquoise. The area surrounding the lake is known for birding, with over 130 species identified. See “Lago Bacalar” in chapter 15.
- The Rugged Copper Canyon: The canyons, known collectively as the Copper Canyon, are beautiful, remote, and unspoiled. The entire network is larger than the Grand Canyon; it incorporates high waterfalls, vertical canyon walls, mountain forests in the canyon-rim country, and semiarid desert inside the canyons. This is the land of the Tarahumara Indians, who gained their legendary endurance from adapting to this wilderness. See chapter 17.
- Desert Landscapes in Baja Sur: The painted-desert colors and unique plant life are a natural curiosity in Los Cabos, where horseback, hiking, and ATV trips explore the area. The arid desert contrasts sharply with the intense blue of the strong sea surrounding the peninsula. See “Los Cabos: Resorts, Watersports & Golf” in chapter 18.

6 The Best Places to Get Away from It All

- Costa Alegre: Between Puerto Vallarta and Manzanillo, a number of superexclusive hotels cater to those with both time and money. These resorts—Hotelito Desconocido, Las Alamandas, Hotel Careyes, and El Tamarindo—are miles from civilization on private beaches. See “Costa Alegre: Puerto Vallarta to Barra de Navidad” in chapter 9.
- San Sebastián: A 15-minute flight from Puerto Vallarta takes you a century back in time. The colonial mountain town of San Sebastián used to be the center of Mexico’s mining operations; today, it’s simply a place of delicious seclusion in a magical mountain setting. See “Puerto Vallarta” in chapter 9.
- Punta Mita: Its ancient inhabitants considered the northern tip of the Bay of Banderas sacred ground. Today, the point where the Sea of Cortez, the Pacific Ocean, and Banderas Bay meet has evolved into Mexico’s most exclusive residential resort development. The beaches are white and the waters crystalline. See “Puerto Vallarta” in chapter 9.
- Riviera Maya & Punta Allen Peninsula: Away from the popular resort of Cancún, the Riviera Maya’s heavenly quiet getaways offer tranquillity at low prices on beautiful palm-lined beaches. South of the Tulum ruins, Punta Allen’s beachside budget inns offer some of the most peaceful getaways in the country. See chapter 15.
- Lago Bacalar: The spring-fed waters of Lake Bacalar make an ideal place to unwind. South of Cancún, near Chetumal, there’s nothing around for miles. If you want adventure, you can paddle a kayak on the lake, follow a birding trail, or venture to Belize or nearby Maya ruins. See “Lago Bacalar” in chapter 15.
- Cerocahui: Up in the high Sierra Tarahumara, far from where the large tours stop, you’ll find a peaceful little town surrounding a former mission. Nearby are two small hotels that are even more peaceful—no phones, no crowds, no traffic, just beautiful mountains and canyons clothed in pine forest. See “The Copper Canyon Train & Stops along the Way” in chapter 17.
- Cabo Pulmo: It’s only a 60-mile drive from the Los Cabos airport to Cabo Pulmo, yet if the mounded Sierra de La Laguna peaks weren’t a dead giveaway for Baja, you could be in the South Pacific. Swaying in the shade of a palapa-roofed bungalow at Cabo Pulmo Beach Resort, you won’t care where you are—you just won’t want to leave. The Sea of Cortez breaks on a coral reef, allowing only the finest bits of sand and smooth pebbles to pad the coast. The coral itself is a sight to behold, but the real attraction is the sea life in this protected marine park. Extensive hiking/mountain biking trails loop through the mountains for those who prefer the peace of the desert. See chapter 18.

7 The Best Art, Architecture & Museums

- Museo Nacional de Antropología: Among the world's most outstanding museums, the Museum of Anthropology in Mexico City contains riches representing 3,000 years of the country's past. Also on view are fabulous artifacts of still-thriving indigenous cultures. The award-winning building, designed by architect Pedro Ramírez Vázquez, is stunning. See p. 120.
- Palacio Nacional: Mexico's national center of government overlooks one of the three biggest public squares in the world (the zócalo) and was originally built in 1692 on the site of Moctezuma's "new" palace, to be the home of Hernán Cortez. The top floor, added in the late 1920s, holds a series of stunning Diego Rivera murals depicting the history of Mexico. See p. 120.
- Palacio de Bellas Artes in Mexico City: The country's premier venue for the performing arts, this fabulous building is the combined work of several masters. The theater's exterior is early-20th-century Art Nouveau, covered in marble; the interior is 1930s Art Deco. See p. 124.
- The Templo Mayor's Aztec Splendor: The Templo Mayor and Museo del Templo Mayor constitute an archaeological excavation and museum with 6,000 objects on display. They showcase the variety and splendor of the Aztec Empire as it existed in the historic center of what is now Mexico City. See p. 122.
- Catedral Metropolitana: This towering cathedral, begun in 1567 and finished in 1788, blends baroque, neoclassical, and Mexican churrigueresque architecture, and was constructed primarily from the stones of destroyed Aztec temples. See p. 126.
- Santa Prisca y San Sebastián Church: One of Mexico's most impressive baroque churches, completed in 1758, this church in Taxco has an intricately carved facade, an interior decorated with gold-leafed saints and angels, and paintings by Miguel Cabrera, one of Mexico's most famous colonial-era artists. See p. 156.
- Mexican Masks in Zacatecas: Masks are a ubiquitous feature in Mexican festivals and folk art, and the Museo Rafael Coronel in Zacatecas has the greatest collection in the country. See p. 226.
- Museo Virreinal de Guadalupe: Six kilometers (4 miles) southeast of Zacatecas in the small town of Guadalupe, this Franciscan convent and art museum holds a striking collection of 17th- and 18th-century paintings by such masters as Miguel Cabrera and Cristóbal de Villalpando. The expressive, dramatic works will fascinate art lovers. See p. 227.
- Morelia's Cathedral: Sober lines, balanced proportions, a deft blending of architectural styles, and monumental height—Morelia's cathedral is the most beautiful in the country. It's built of brownish-pink stone that turns fiery rose in the late-afternoon sun. See p. 241.
- Museo Antropología de Xalapa: With the finest examples of Olmec and Totonac sculpture and ceramics, this museum includes the best collection of the Olmec megalithic heads. See p. 498.
- Puebla's Capilla del Rosario: Located in the church of Santo Domingo, this chapel is a tour de force of baroque expression, executed in molded plaster, carved wood, Talavera tile, and gold leaf. The overall effect is to overpower the senses. See p. 505.

- Puebla's Museo Amparo: This museum contains a magnificent collection of pre-Columbian and colonial art, which is beautifully displayed. See p. 506.

8 The Best Shopping

- Bazar del Sábado in San Angel: This festive Saturday market in colonial San Angel, one of Mexico City's more exclusive southern neighborhoods, offers exceptional crafts of a more sophisticated nature than you'll see in most mercados. Furnishings, antiques, and collectibles are also easy to find in surrounding shops and street plazas. See p. 138.
- Polanco, Mexico City: This fashionable neighborhood is noted for its designer boutiques, formal dress shops, fine jewelers, and leather-goods offerings. See "Shopping" in chapter 4.
- Contemporary Art: Latin American art is surging in popularity. Galleries in Mexico City feature Mexico's masters and emerging stars, with Oaxaca, Puerto Vallarta, and San Miguel de Allende galleries also offering excellent selections. See chapters 4, 6, 9, and 11.
- Taxco Silver: Mexico's silver capital, Taxco, has hundreds of stores featuring fine jewelry and decorative objects. See "Taxco: Cobblestones & Silver" in chapter 5.
- Talavera Pottery in Puebla & Dolores Hidalgo: An inheritor of the Moorish legacy of ceramics, Puebla produces some of the most sought-after dinnerware in the world. The tiles produced there adorn building facades and church domes throughout the area. See chapter 12. Dolores Hidalgo, 40km (25 miles) northwest of San Miguel de Allende, produces attractive, inexpensive Talavera of less traditional design. See "San Miguel de Allende" in chapter 6.
- San Miguel de Allende's Diverse Crafts: Perhaps it's the influence of the Instituto Allende art school, but something has given storekeepers here real savvy about choosing their merchandise. The stores have fewer typical articles of Mexican handicrafts and more interesting and eye-catching works than you'll find in other towns. See "San Miguel de Allende" in chapter 6.
- Pátzcuaro's Fine Crafts: Michoacán is known for its crafts, and Pátzcuaro is at the center of it all. You can find beautiful cotton textiles, woodcarvings, pottery, lacquerware, woven straw pieces, and copper items in the market, or you can track the object to its source in one of the nearby villages. See "Pátzcuaro" in chapter 7.
- Decorative Arts in Tlaquepaque & Tonalá: These two neighborhoods of Guadalajara offer perhaps the most enjoyable shopping in Mexico. Tlaquepaque has attracted sophisticated and wide-ranging shops selling a wide variety of decorative art. In Tonalá, more than 400 artisans have workshops, and you can visit many of them; on market days, wander through blocks and blocks of market stalls seeking that one perfect piece. See "Shopping" in chapter 8.
- Huichol Art in Puerto Vallarta: One of the last indigenous cultures to remain faithful to their customs, language, and traditions, the Huichol Indians come down from the Sierra Madre to sell their unusual art to Puerto Vallarta galleries. Inspired by visions received during spiritual ceremonies, the Huichol create their art with colorful yarn or beads pressed into wax. See “Shopping” in chapter 9.

- Oaxacan Textiles: The valley of Oaxaca produces the best weavings and naturally dyed textiles in Mexico; it’s also famous for its pottery, and colorful, imaginative woodcarvings. See “Oaxaca City” in chapter 11.

9 The Best Luxury Hotels

- Hotel Four Seasons (Mexico City; ☎ 800/332-3442 in the U.S.): The standard of excellence in Mexico, and the most stylish choice in Mexico City, this hotel captures both serenity and elegance in a palace-style building that surrounds a picturesque courtyard. The gracious staff and offerings of unique cultural tours are bonuses. See p. 107.
- W Mexico City (Mexico City; ☎ 888/625-5144 in the U.S.): Stylish and high-tech, this dramatic addition to Mexico City hotels has set the city abuzz. With its super-caliente red hues and lively bar scene, the W Mexico City has infused the country’s capital with a dose of minimalist urban chic. Luxury extras include expansive bathrooms with circular tubs. See p. 104.
- Hacienda Xcanatún (outskirts of Mérida; ☎ 888/883-3633 in the U.S.): Large, boldly designed suites built with extravagance in mind, extensive grounds, private spa, excellent restaurant, and ample staff—this hotel does the difficult trick of being small in size but large in offerings. See “Of Haciendas & Hotels” on p. 636.
- Maroma (north of Playa del Carmen; ☎ 866/454-9351 in the U.S.): You can’t ask for a better setting for a resort than this beautiful stretch of Caribbean coast with palm trees and manicured gardens. You’ll start to relax before you even take the first sip of your welcome cocktail. Service is very attentive, and the rooms are luxurious. See p. 595.
- Villa Montaña (Morelia; ☎ 800/223-6510 in the U.S., or 800/448-8355 in Canada): The Villa Montaña defines perfection. From the layout of the grounds to the decoration of the rooms, every detail has been skillfully handled. The hotel perches on a ridge overlooking Morelia; from its terraces, guests can survey the city below. The restaurant is one of the city’s best. See p. 245.
- Four Seasons Resort Punta Mita (north of Puerto Vallarta; ☎ 800/332-3442 in the U.S.): This luxury resort offers an unrivaled location (on a remote, pristine stretch of beach) and the stellar service characteristic of the Four Seasons chain. Also on-site are an expansive spa and a private Jack Nicklaus Signature golf course. See p. 329.
- El Tamarindo (between Manzanillo and Puerto Vallarta; ☎ 315/351-5032): The most exclusive remote resort in Mexico, this stylish place combines large private casitas facing the Pacific with a stunning private oceanfront golf course. Fellow guests are likely to be Hollywood celebrities and the well-to-do from around the world. It’s about 1 hour north of Manzanillo along Costa Alegre. See p. 352.

- Villa del Sol (Zihuatanejo; ☎ 888/389-2645 in the U.S.): This stunning hotel sits on one of Mexico's calmest and most beautiful beaches. Modern rooms and suites overlook the bay or a man-made lagoon, and many have private plunge pools. This is a luxurious retreat you won't want to leave. See p. 405.
- Hotel Camino Real (Oaxaca; ☎ 800/722-6466 in the U.S.): No other hotel in Mexico captures the sense of antiquity as well as this one. It occupies a 16th-century convent in the middle of the best part of Oaxaca City and has several beautiful, tranquil courtyards where renovation efforts have carefully preserved the marks of time. See p. 447.
- Ritz-Carlton Cancún (Cancún; ☎ 800/241-3333 in the U.S.): Thick carpets, sparkling glass and brass, and rich mahogany surround guests at this hotel, for years the standard-bearer of luxury in Cancún. The service is impeccable, leaving guests with an overall sense of pampered relaxation. And, post-Hurricane Wilma, the Ritz received a significant makeover. See p. 526.
- Le Méridien Cancún Resort & Spa (Cancún; ☎ 800/543-4300 in the U.S.): This is the most intimate of the luxury hotels in Cancún, with an understated sense of highly personalized service. Most notable is its 4,570 sq. m (49,190-sq.-ft.) Spa del Mar. See p. 526.
- Las Ventanas al Paraíso (Los Cabos; ☎ 888/767-3966 in the U.S.): Stunning in its relaxed elegance, Las Ventanas boasts a deluxe European spa, excellent gourmet restaurant, and elegantly appointed rooms and suites. From fireplaces and telescopes to private pools and rooftop terraces, each suite offers a slice of heaven. See p. 708.
- Esperanza (Los Cabos; ☎ 866/311-2226 in the U.S.): This Auberge resort pampers guests in a desert-chic setting, on a bluff overlooking twin coves below. Spacious, sumptuous rooms are enhanced by ample terraces, and the resort's spa and dining services make a stay here even more memorable. See p. 708.
- One&Only Palmilla (Los Cabos; ☎ 800/637-2226 in the U.S.): A popular Mexican resort with the Hollywood crowd, the completely renovated Palmilla has regained its spot as the most deluxe hotel in this seaside playground known for sumptuous accommodations and great golf. The exceptional spa, fitness center, and yoga garden, as well as a restaurant under the direction of renowned chef Charlie Trotter, are added bonuses. See p. 709.

10 The Best Inexpensive Inns

- Best Western Hotel de Cortés (Mexico City; ☎ 800/528-1234 in the U.S.): This historic building and former home of Augustinian friars offers exceptionally clean, comfortable, value-priced accommodations. It's on La Alameda park, near the Palace of Fine Arts and the Franz Mayer Museum. See p. 109.
- Hotel Los Flamingos (Acapulco; ☎ 744/482-0690): Once a private club for Hollywood's elite during the heyday of Acapulco, this hotel will enchant you with its pervasive mid-century charm, the funky profusion of hot pink, and absolutely breathtaking cliff-top views. See p. 387.

- Hotel San Francisco Plaza (Guadalajara; ☎ 33/3613-8954): This two-story colonial-style hotel is a more agreeable place to stay than lodgings charging twice as much, and it's every bit as comfortable. It's in the downtown area, near the main plaza and several good restaurants and nightspots. See p. 269.
 - Paraíso Escondido (Puerto Escondido; ☎ 954/582-0444): This eclectic inn is a great bargain, especially for the originality of the decor and the excellent service. It's a short walk to both the beach and the action along Puerto's main street. See p. 418.
 - Misión de los Arcos (Huatulco; ☎ 958/587-0165): Just 1 block from the central plaza, this hotel has a similar style to the elegant Quinta Real, at a fraction of the cost. An all-white facade and intriguing decorative touches give it an inviting feel. There's shuttle service to the Huatulco beaches. See p. 431.
 - Las Golondrinas (Oaxaca; ☎ 951/514-3298): We receive more favorable letters about this hotel than
- about any other in the country. It's small, simple, and colorful, with homey touches of folk art and pathways lined with abundant foliage. See p. 449.
- Rey del Caribe Hotel (Cancún; ☎ 998/884-2028): An ecological oasis in downtown Cancún, this hotel has considered every detail to achieve the goal creating in an organic and environmentally friendly setting. 12 The Best Mexican Food & Drink

- Aguila y Sol (Mexico City; ☎ 55/5281-8354): One of the world's best Mexican restaurants, Aguila y Sol serves haute Mexican cuisine incorporating indigenous and pre-Hispanic ingredients. Acclaimed chef-owner Martha Ortiz has written numerous cookbooks, and her magical dishes overflow with imagination. See p. 111.
- La Opera (Mexico City; ☎ 55/5512-8959): This legendary cantina, in the style of an opulent European cafe, has attracted the capital's most illustrious personalities for decades—Pancho Villa once shot a still-visible hole through the roof. Located in the historic center, the cantina doubles as a restaurant but is best saved as a late afternoon watering stop. See p. 116.

- Adobe Fonda (Tlaquepaque; ☎ 33/3657-2792): Delicious Mexican food is served inside one of those gorgeous decorative arts stores that line Tlaquepaque's Calle Independencia.

The point of departure for the food is some uncommon Mexican recipes, which are then given sparkling Italian and Argentine accents. See p. 270.

- El Sacromonte (Guadalajara; ☎ 33/3825-5447): Various dishes delight the senses with novel tastes and textures and skillful presentation. The menu describes each dish in Spanish couplets. See p. 271.
- El Arrayán (Puerto Vallarta; ☎ 322/222-7195): The colorful atmosphere may be casual, funky, and fun, but the food is seriously and authentically Mexican. The owner, Carmen, has taken her prime beef filet tacos off the menu—wanting guests to try more traditional Mexican fare—but you can still ask for them. Or, take her cue and order the duck confit, shrimp pozole, or homemade ice creams from indigenous fruits. Don't miss her martini made from raicilla, Mexico's version of moonshine. See p. 317.
- El Mirador (Acapulco, in the Hotel Plaza Las Glorias; ☎ 744/483-1221 in the U.S.): You can enjoy a great margarita at many places in Mexico, but this is the only one that serves them with a view of the spectacular La Quebrada cliff divers. See p. 387.
- Los Flamingos (Acapulco; ☎ 744/482-0690): If in Acapulco on a Thursday, you can enjoy a bowl of pozole, a traditional hominy and meat stew. Although you'll find it served at lunchtime throughout town, the best place to savor it is at the cliff-top restaurant at Los Flamingos. Order a Coco Loco to accompany it, and you're in for a real treat! See p. 387.
- El Naranjo (Oaxaca; ☎ 951/514-1878): Oaxaca has an elaborate regional cuisine, and we're delighted by what El Naranjo does with it. Each day offers a different mole in addition to several uncommon dishes. This is a wonderful place for throwing caution to the wind—the owner is meticulous about cleaning and sterilizing foods. See p. 451.
- Mariscos Villa Rica Mocambo (Veracruz; ☎ 229/922-2113): Nobody else does seafood the way Veracruz does seafood, and this restaurant is the showcase for the region's cuisine. See p. 494.
- Don Emiliano (downtown San José del Cabo; ☎ 624/142-0266): Don Emiliano wields farm-fresh ingredients laced with Mexican tradition and emerges from the kitchen with modern delights such as stepped-up chile en nogada for Día de Independencia and lemon atole with candied pumpkin for Day of the Dead. Apart from holiday menus, don't miss the regular menu, which combines the likes of locally made cheeses with roasted tomatillos and dried hibiscus flowers with beef tenderloin. See p. 704.
