PART ONE: FUNDAMENTALS OF EVALUATION 1

1 Overview of the Evaluation Field	3
Why Is Evaluation Important?	4
What Are Appropriate Objects of Evaluations and Related Subdisciplines of Evaluation?	5
Are Evaluations Enough to Control Quality, Guide Improvement, and Protect Consumers?	5
How Does the Field of Evaluation Relate to Other Professions?	6
What Is Evaluation?	7
Joint Committee Definition of Evaluation	• An Extended, Values-Oriented Definition of Evaluation
Operationalizing Our Definition of Evaluation

How Good Is Good Enough? How Bad Is Intolerable? How Are These Questions Addressed?	18
What Are Performance Standards? How Should They Be Applied?	20
Why Is It Appropriate to Consider Multiple Values?	21
Should Evaluations Be Comparative, Noncomparative, or Both?	22
How Should Evaluations Be Used?	22
Formative Evaluations for Improvement • Summative Evaluations for Accountability • Relationship Between Formative and Summative Evaluations • Evaluations to Assist Dissemination • Evaluations to Foster Enlightenment
Why Is It Important to Distinguish Between Informal Evaluation and Formal Evaluation?	27
Informal Evaluations • Formal Evaluations
How Do Service Providers and Their Organizations Meet Requirements for Public Accountability?	28
Accreditation • Why Are Internal Evaluation Mechanisms Needed? • Why Is Evaluation a Personal as Well as a Corporate Responsibility?
What Are the Methods of Formal Evaluations?	30
What Is the Evaluation Profession, and How Strong Is It?	31
What Are the Main Historical Milestones in the Development of the Evaluation Field?	32
The Pre-Tylerian Period: Developments Before 1930 • The Tylerian Age: 1930 to 1945 • The Age of Innocence: 1946 to 1957 • The Age of Realism: 1958 to 1972 • The Age of Professionalism: 1973 to the Present
What Are the Main Roles in Evaluation Work?	42
Evaluation Client • Evaluation Designer • Evaluation Coordinator • Evaluation Caseworkers • Evaluation Respondents • Technical Support Specialists • Information Specialist • Communication Specialist • Evaluation Trainer • Evaluation Researcher • Evaluation Developer • Metaevaluator • Summing Up the Roles

2 The Nature of Program Evaluation Theory	57
General Features of Program Evaluation Theories	58
The Role of Theory in Developing the Program Evaluation Field	59

The Functional and Pragmatic Basis of Extant Program Evaluation Theory	61
A Word About Research Related to Program Evaluation Theory	61
Program Evaluation Theory Defined	63
Conceptual Principles • Hypothetical Principles • Pragmatic Principles • Ethical Principles
Criteria for Judging Program Evaluation Theories	65
Theory Development as a Creative Process Subject to Review and Acceptance by Users	66
The Status of Theory Development in the Program Evaluation Field	68
The Importance and Difficulties of Considering Context in Theories of Program Evaluation	69
Need for Multiple Theories of Program Evaluation	70
The Program Evaluation Field's Important Theoretical Concepts	70
Hypotheses for Research on Program Evaluation	71
The Potential Utility of Grounded Theories	74
The Potential Utility of Metaevaluations in Developing Theories of Program Evaluation	74
The Program Evaluation Standards and Theory Development	75

4 Personnel Evaluation: The Ghost in Program Evaluations 115

In General, What Is Personnel Evaluation? 116

What Case Can an Evaluator Make for Assessing a Program's Personnel? 117

Should Program Evaluators Evaluate Individual Program Staff Members? 117

How Can a Program Evaluator Appropriately Address a Client's Need for Improved Personnel Evaluation? 118

How Can Evaluators Assure Stakeholders That a Program Evaluation Will Be Fair to Individuals? 119

Should Program Evaluators Promise Anonymity or Confidentiality? 120

In What Sense Should a Program Evaluation Evaluate the Program's Personnel? 121

How Should a Contract for a Program Evaluation Deal with Personnel Evaluation? 122

What Personnel Roles Should a Program Evaluation Examine? 123

In General, What Personnel-Related Questions Should a Program Evaluation Address? 123

In General, What Process Should Be Followed in Assessing a Program's Personnel? 124

How Should Evaluators File and Control Information on a Program's Personnel? 125

How Should Program Evaluators Report Information on a Program's Personnel? 126

PART FOUR: EVALUATION TASKS, PROCEDURES, AND TOOLS AND THE METAEVALUATION IMPERATIVE 451

- 19 Identifying and Assessing Evaluation Opportunities 453
- Sources of Evaluation Opportunities 453

- Evaluation RFPs • Evaluation RFQs • Internal Evaluation Assignments
  - Sole-Source Requests for Evaluation • Evaluator-Initiated Evaluation Opportunities
- Bidders' Conferences 461
- Summary 462
- Review Questions 463
- Group Exercises 463
- 20 First Steps in Addressing Evaluation Opportunities 465
  - Developing the Evaluation Team 466
  - Establishing Institutional Support for the Projected Evaluation 467
  - Developing Thorough Familiarity with the Need for the Evaluation 468
  - Stipulating Standards for Guiding and Assessing the Evaluation 468
  - Developing the Evaluation Proposal's Appendix 468
  - Planning for a Stakeholder Review Panel 469

	Ethical Imperatives in Budgeting Evaluations	511
	A Fixed-Price Budget for Evaluating a Personnel Evaluation System	514
	Other Types of Evaluation Budgets	517
	Evaluation Budgeting Under Grants	• Evaluating Budgets Under Cost-Reimbursable Contracts
	• Evaluation Budgeting Under Cost-Plus Agreements	• Evaluating Budgeting Under Cooperative Agreements
	• Modular Evaluation Budgets	• Summary of Budget Types
	A Generic Checklist for Developing Evaluation Budgets	524
	Task 1: Ensure That the Evaluation Design Is Sufficiently Detailed	• Task 2: Determine the Types of Budget Agreement
	• Task 3: Determine the Needed Level of Budget Detail	• Task 4: Determine Pertinent Cost Factors
	• Task 5: Determine Line Items	• Task 6: Group Line Items for Convenience
	• Task 7: Determine Local Contribution, If Any	• Task 8: Compute the Evaluation's Costs and Charges
	• Task 9: Provide for Institutional Fiscal Accountability	• Task 10: Clarify Requirements for Payment

	• Caveats in Applying Standards and Principles
Metaevaluation in Relation to Meta-Analysis	656
An Illustrative Case Employed to Reveal Main Tasks in Metaevaluations	657
Metaevaluation Tasks	660
Metaevaluation Arrangements and Procedures	662
Task 1: Staff the Metaevaluation with One or More Qualified Metaevaluators
• Task 2: Identify and Arrange to Interact with the Evaluation's Stakeholders
• Task 3: Define the Metaevaluation Questions	• Task 4: As Appropriate, Agree on Standards, Principles, or Criteria to Judge the Evaluation System or Particular Evaluation
• Task 5: Issue a Memo of Understanding or Negotiate a Formal Metaevaluation Contract	• Task 6: Collect and Review Pertinent Available Information
• Task 7: Collect New Information as Needed	• Task 8: Analyze and Synthesize the Findings
• Task 9: Judge the Evaluation's Adherence to Appropriate Standards, Principles, or Criteria	• Task 10: Convey the Findings Through Reports, Correspondence, Oral Presentations, and Other Ways
• Task 11: As Appropriate, Help the Client and Other Stakeholders Interpret and Apply the Findings
