

Index

A

Actor, 6
 Adult Learner, The (Knowles), 64
 Application activities: definition of, 8; determining, 34, 254; introducing a learning activity, 178; model to ask for behavior change, 139–145; practice five selling techniques, 151–156; practice nonverbals of public speaking, 157–162; using persistent requesting technique, 163–169
 Assistants, use of human, 22

B

Behavior: asking for change in, 40; model to ask for change in, 139–145
 Behavior rehearsals: definition of, 7; determining, 34, 254; introducing self to strangers, 113–116; quickly expressing oneself, 127–132; rehearsal of good telephone etiquette, 117–122; rehearsal of welcoming expressions, 109–112; sharing job satisfaction needs, 123–126
 Blatner, A., 8
 Buckner, M., 6

C

Coaches, 7, 21–22
 Competition, 29
 Conflict management: and conflict resolution model, 211; group role play for, 205–210; and workplace conflict situations, 211–212

 Content, 11; monitoring, 68
 Costumes, 26, 28

D

Debriefing: definition of, 6; design, 49–50; discussion versus, 47–48; implementing, 70–71; what to cover in, 48–49
 Design forms: checklist to determine role-playing particulars, 269–271; choose type of role play you will design, 267; determining your learning goals, 265; role-play design format, 272–273; write a general summary of role play, 268; write a goal statement, 266
 Design, role play: and checklist to determine particulars, 256–258; and choosing type of role play, 253–254; and determining learning goals, 252–253; and determining particulars, 255; format for, 260–261; and general summary of what will happen, 254–255; and setting parameters, 252
 Difficult person situations: confronting, 202–204; role play for, 197–202
 Discussions: debriefing versus, 47–48; when and where to have, 47–50
 Dunning, D., 16

E

Equipment, 62
 Error, options to reduce: and use of human assistants, 22; and use of in-hand written materials, 22; and visual reminders, 21–22

F

Fears: common to role playing, 16; ten ways to reduce, 17
 Feedback: definition of, 6; making, safe, 23–25; methods of giving, 44–45; safe, structured practice with, 10
 Flexibility, 11

G

Galbraith, M., 8–9
 Games, 29
 Groups: deciding number of, 41; dividing participants into, 41–44

H

Handouts: general feedback form, 276; nonverbal feedback form, 277; situation development form, 275
 Human assistants, 22

I

Idea development form, 133
 Implementation: assembling

- materials and equipment, 62; calling time-outs, 69; debriefing stage of, 70–71; ending activity, 69–70; four steps to, 61; giving instructions, 64–65; introduction stage, 62–66; management stage, 66–70; modeling role play, 65–66; monitoring mechanics, 67; monitoring people and content, 68; preparation stage, 60–62; setting stage, 63–64; setting up room, 60–62
- Impromptu role plays: contest on asking for change in behavior, 233–239; debriefing, 245–247; definition of, 8; determining, 34, 254; group debriefing activity, 241–243; role-playing contest for effective presentations, 223–226; world's worst meeting, 227–232
- Incentives, 26–27
- Incremental difficulty, using, 20–21
- Individual role play, 5
- In-hand written materials, 22
- Initiator, 6
- Instructions: choosing methods for delivering, 38–40; giving, 19–20; handouts, 40; structuring, 64–65; verbal, 38–39; written, 39–40
- Introductions: feedback checklist, 176–177; guidelines for great, 175–176; implementing, 62–66
- K
- Knowles, M., 64
- L
- Learning: concepts, immediate application of, 9–10; goals, setting, 32–33; from others, 11–12
- Learning activities: application activity for introducing, 171–178; definition of, 5; feedback checklist for, 176–177; guidelines for great, 175–176; and instructions for three different activities, 177–178
- M
- Materials: assembling, 62; determining, 53–54; in-hand written, 22
- Mental walk-through, 54; questions for, 56–57
- Modeling, 20, 37–38, 65–66
- Monitoring: mechanics, 67; people and content, 68; role playing time, 51–52; space needs, 52–53; time factors, 50–53
- Myers-Briggs Type Indicator, 16
- N
- Nonverbal behaviors: feedback form, 162; of public speaking, 157–161; seven effective, 161–162
- O
- Observer, 6
- Order of events, 35–36
- Others, learning from, 11–12
- P
- Participants: and discussion of feedback, 23; and forcing participation, 19; grouping, 40–44
- Performance improvement: situation cards, 146–149; situations, 144–145
- Performance problem: feedback form for, 196; problem-focused role play for, 187–193; situations, 193–195
- Persistent requesting technique, 167; application activity for, 163–169; examples, 169; situations for, 168
- Planning, importance of, 55
- Positive reinforcement, 23
- Practice sessions: and feedback, 10; rote, 18–19; trying, 54–55
- Problem- and people-focused role plays: asking for raise or promotion, 181–185; definition, 8; determining, 34, 254; difficult person-focus, 197–202; group, on management conflict, 205–210; ordering lunch in English, 213–219; performance problem role play, 187–193
- Prompters, 21–22
- Props, 26, 28
- Public speaking: application activity for practicing nonverbals of, 157–161; and seven effective nonverbal behaviors, 161–162
- R
- Recorder, 7
- Request development form, 133
- Requests, examples of making, 134
- Restaurant: role play for ordering lunch in English, 213–217; script for ordering at, 217–218
- Rewards, 26–27
- Role playing: benefits of, 63; defining, 4–5; positive aspects of, 8–9; resistance to, 15–30; round of, 5; second round of, 6; terminology of, 5–7
- Role playing activities: number of, 35–36; types of, 7–8
- Role plays: application activity, 139–178; behavior rehearsal, 109–135; determining type of, 34; easing into, 17; implementing, 59–71; impromptu, 223–247; individual, 5; key variables for planning effective, 32; planning, 31–57; problem- and people-focused, 181–219; single, 6; topics addressed in, 76–77; warm-up, 81–105
- Room, setting up, 60–62
- Rounds, choosing number of, 37
- S
- Selling techniques: application activity for, 151–155; and five techniques for selling products and ideas, 155–156

Sharing ideas, examples of, 134
Situations: identifying sources of, 45–46; instructor-generated, 45–46; participant-generated, 46; real, 46
Staging devices, 26, 28
Stibbard, J., 48

T

Thiagarajan, S., 48
Time factors: and adjusting time allotments, 52; and monitoring role playing time, 51–52; planning and monitoring,

50–53; and space needs, 52–53

Timekeeper, 7
Time-outs, 69

V

Variables, key: and choosing methods of giving feedback, 44–45; and grouping of participants, 40–44; and methods for delivering instructions, 38–40; and number of role-play activities, 35; and number of rounds, 37; and order of events, 35–35; and use of warm-ups and modeling, 37–38

Visual reminders, 22

W

Warm-ups, 18–19, 37–38
Warm-up role plays: dealing with different responses, 95–99; determining, 34, 253; getting ready for difficult people, 91–94; introductions and expectations, 85–89; parody of participant roles, 81–84; speaking in public, 101–105

Z

Zelenak, B., 8–9