

Contents

Foreword by Paul Renner	vii	What Makes an Ad	52
Acknowledgments	ix	Ingredients That Go into an Ad	58
Introduction	xi	Design, Execution, and Media	65
		Critique Guide	66
		Critique Method	66
Part One		Chapter 4
Informing, Persuading, and Provoking		The Big Idea	67
How Advertising Works		Points of Departure: Where Do Big Ideas Come From?	67
Chapter 1		Visual Analogy	67
A Brief History of Advertising	2	Visual Metaphor	69
In the Very Beginning	2	Life Experience	72
The Art of Advertising: Theories and Media	4	Eccentric Points of View	73
The Creative Revolution	6	The Problem Is the Solution	74
Showcase: George Lois	15	A Darned Good Reason	76
Showcase: Lou Dorfman	18	Comparison	79
Showcase: Allan Beaver	22	Exaggeration	80
Showcase: Smokey Bear Public Service Campaign	24	Authenticity and Being First in Its Class	83
Showcase: "I LOVE NEW YORK" Campaign	28	Motivation and Inspiration	84
		Just the Facts, Ma'am	85
Chapter 2		Interview: Bob Isherwood	87
The Biz: Structure, Strategy, and the Creative Brief	34	Chapter 5
What Is Advertising?	34	Ad Categories	90
The Ad Agency	34	Demonstrations	90
Who Is the Audience?	35	Endorsements and Testimonials	91
Types of Ads	41	Declarations	93
The Creative Brief	42	Slice of Life	96
Sample Creative Brief from The Richards Group/Dallas	44	Meta-Advertising	97
Case History: Mustoes/London	45	Popular Culture	97
Insights and Intuition	46	Fantasy	98
Ethics	46	Misdirection	99
		Image or Lifestyle	100
Part Two		Adventures and Escapes	101
What's The Big Idea?		Benefits and Differentiation	101
Formulating an Advertising Concept		Recognition	105
Chapter 3		Chapter 6
Thinking Critically and Creatively, and Getting Started	50	Expression: Make 'Em Laugh, Make 'Em Cry	106
Thinking Critically and Creatively	50	Humor	106
Getting Started	50	Satire, Parody, and Irony	111
The Creative Team	51	Passion, Lust, and Desire	113
Brainstorming Technique	51	Triumph	113
		Respect and Value	115
		Pathos and Compassion	115

Fear	117
Shock and Changing Our Expectations	117
Association	119
Interview: John Butler	120

Part Three

The Visual and Verbal Expression of an Idea

Design and Copy

Chapter 7

Graphic Impact: Design Principles 124

The Design Process	124
Composition: Critical Principles of Design	125
Format	125
Balance	126
Positive/Negative Shapes and Space	129
Visual Hierarchy	130
Unity and Variety	133
Rhythm	136
Types of Compositions	136
Illusion	140

Chapter 8

The Design of Advertising and Expressive Typography 142

The Design of Advertising	142
Audience and Appropriateness	142
It Shouldn't Look Like Advertising	143
Size of Logo/No Logo	147
Layout	148
Copy as Sales Pitch	151
Text and Subtext	152
Size and Media	152
Design Pointers to Follow (and Sometimes Ignore)	152
The Seamless Concert: Type and Image	153
Interview: Erik Kessels	165

Chapter 9

Flexibility: The Ad Campaign and Creativity 168

Designing Print Campaigns	168
Creativity	174

Chapter 10

Copy 186

What Comes First—the Line or the Visual?	186
Visual and Words: How Should They Work Together?	187
Visual or Words: Which Should Dominate?	191
How Many Words Are Too Many?	193
Conventions	193
Writing Creatively	194
Say It in the Line—Don't Rely on the Body Copy	195
It's Established in the Claim	195
The "Do I Sound Like a Sales Pitch?" Test	195
The "Do I Sound Like Something No One Would Ever Say to Anyone Else?" Test	196
Intention	196
Whose Voice Is It?	199
Process	199
Style	200
Feed Your Writing	200
Interview: Valerie Graves	201
Interview: Guido Heffels	204

Chapter 11

Beyond Print Media: Television Commercials, Interactive Media, and Guerilla Advertising 206

Television	207
Interactive Media	218
Guerilla Advertising: Unconventional Methods and Media	230

Bibliography 237

Index 239