

Contents

Foreword	xiii
Acknowledgments	xv
Understanding and Facilitating Organizational Change in the 21st Century: Recent Research and Conceptualizations	1
Distinctive Contribution	3
Focus of the Monograph	4
Audience	7
To Change or Not to Change?	8
Providing a Common Language for Understanding Organizational Change	11
What Is Organizational Change?	12
Diffusion, Institutionalization, Adaptation, Innovation, and Reform	13
Forces and Sources	15
Degree of Change	16
Timing of Change	17
Scale of Change	18
Focus of Change	19
Adaptive/Generative	20
Intentionality: Planned Versus Unplanned Change	20
Response Time: Proactive and Reactive	21
Active and Static	21
Target of Change: Change Process and Outcomes	22

Summary	23
Theories and Models of Organizational Change	25
Typology of Organizational Change Models	26
Evolutionary	28
Teleological	32
Life Cycle	36
Dialectical	40
Social Cognition	44
Cultural	49
Multiple Models	53
Summary	55
Appendix	57
Understanding the Nature of Higher Education
Organizations: Key to Successful Organizational Change	59
Interdependent Organizations	62
Relatively Independent of Environment	63
Unique Organizational Cultures of the Academy	65
Institutional Status	66
Values-Driven: Complex and Contrasting	67
Multiple Power and Authority Structures	68
Loosely Coupled Structure	70
Organized Anarchical Decision Making	71
Professional and Administrative Values	72
Shared Governance System	73
Employee Commitment and Tenure	74
Goal Ambiguity	75
Image and Success	76
Summary	76
Higher Education Models of Change: Examination

Through the Typology of Six Models	79
Evolutionary	80
Teleological	86
Life Cycle	92
Dialectical	93
Social Cognition	99
Cultural	105
Multiple Models	109
Summary	111
Research-Based Principles of Change	113
Promote Organizational Self-Discovery	114
Realize That the Culture of the Institution (and Institutional Type) Affects Change	115
Be Aware of Politics	115
Lay Groundwork	116
Focus on Adaptability	117
Facilitate Interaction to Develop New Mental Models and Sensemaking	118
Strive to Create Homeostasis and Balance External Forces with the Internal Environment	118
Combine Traditional Teleological Tools, Such As Establishing a Vision, Planning, or Strategy, With Social-Cognition, Symbolic, and Political Strategies	119
Realize That Change Is a Disorderly Process	119
Promote Shared Governance or Collective Decision Making	119
Articulate and Maintain Core Characteristics	120
Be Aware of Image	120
Connect the Change Process to Individual and Institutional Identity	121
Create a Culture of Risk and Help People to Change Belief Systems	121
Realize That Various Levels or Aspects of the Organization Will Need

Different Change Models	121
Know That Strategies for Change Vary by Change Initiative	122
Consider Combining Models or Approaches, As Is Demonstrated Within the Multiple Models	122
Summary	123
Future Research on Organizational Change	125
References	133
Name Index	149
Subject Index	153