

Index

A

- Activities: “author’s chair,” 16–17; cultural norms and routines of, 44–45; organization of interactions and, 43–44; physical layout of, 42–43
- Administrators: CASTL program teachers and relationship with, 28; TRG members influencing policies of, 63–66. See also School districts
- African-American students: of Manzanita Elementary School, 32; teaching Standard English to, 70; underachievement of male, 17–20, 22
- American Educational Research Association, 54, 66, 68
- Artists: process of examination and interpretation by, 96–97; study programs for, 8–10
- Asian students, 32
- “Author’s chair” activity, 16–17

B

- Baldwin, J., 9, 10
- Ball, D. L., 4, 5, 94
- Bass, R., 91
- Bay Area Writing Project, 60, 76
- Berliner, D., 5
- Bilingual education. See ELD (English Language Development) [Manzanita elementary school]
- Boerst, T.: inquiries made by, 69–70; as knowledge broker, 105; language used to articulate experience/classroom practice, 75–77; leadership demonstrated by, 85–86; learning experiences of, 61, 63–66; making connections/building networks of influence, 78–85;

- National Board certification by, 60; participation in national venues by, 67–68; professional background of, 59; publication/presentation opportunities for, 104; representations created/collected by, 74–75; searching for different means to represent practice, 77–78
- Bransford, J., 42, 93
- Breadloaf Rural Teachers Network, 79, 83
- Breadloaf School of English, 60
- Brown, A., 42, 93

C

- A Call to Assembly* (Ruff), 90
- Capitelli, S.: examining ELD experiences of, 31–32; implications of learning experience by, 55–56; inquiries carried out by, 68, 86; as knowledge broker, 105; learning experiences improving ELD instruction, 33–39; motivation for inquiries of, 69–70; publication/presentation opportunities for, 104; sharing her learning experience with others, 53–54; shifts in approach to ELD teaching by, 33–34; teaching background of, 32–33; “three trains” drawing by, 52fig–53; website showing representations of work by, 91, 93, 94
- Carnegie Knowledge Media Lab, 89
- Carter, M.: CASTL program participation by, 15–16, 24; concerns about systematic data collection by, 22; inquiries carried out by, 68, 86; learning experience of, 17–20; National Writing Project participation by, 24, 25; professional background of, 16; sense of shared commitment by, 30

- CASTL scholars: Capitelli's experience as, 33; connections built between, 83–84; Hutchinson's participation as, 89; learning experiences of Carter, Hitomi, and Hurley as, 15–29; learning through social interaction between, 48, 49–51; representations created by, 75; taught to document/inquire into their teaching, 60; use of technology encouraged for, 91–92. See also Teacher development
- CASTL Summer Institute, 49–50
- Center for Teaching and Learning, 25–26
- Chatman University, 63
- “Class anatomy” website, 93
- Classroom practice: activities, 16–17, 42–45; closing the gap in preparation and, 94–96; concept-mapping technique, 16, 22–23; “going public” on, 4–11, 24–25, 80–81, 106–107. See also Teaching strategies
- Co-construction, 76, 78
- “The Co-construction of Low Achievement” (Cone), 76
- Coalition of Essential Schools, 29
- Cochran-Smith, M., 11
- Cocking, R., 42, 93
- College Board Review*, 66
- Compton, K., 94
- Concept-mapping technique, 16, 22–23
- Cone, J.: Bay Area Writing Project participation by, 60; inquiries made by, 69–72; as knowledge broker, 105; language used to articulate experience/classroom practice, 75–77; leadership demonstrated by, 85–86; learning experiences of, 61, 63, 66–68; making connections/building networks of influence, 78–85; professional background of, 59; publication/presentation opportunities for, 104; representations created/collected by, 74–75; searching for different means to represent practice, 77–78; website showing representations of work by, 90–91, 93
- Connections. See Networks of influence
- Copland, A., 10
- Coulson, R. L., 92
- Credibility: building Teacher Research Group (TRG), 79–80; expertise as building, 68–69; staying connected and maintaining, 81–82
- Cultural norms/routines, 44–45
- Culturally engaged instruction, 74
- “Curriculum and Instruction in English” (Stanford University), 94–95
- Czarniawska, B., 69
- ## D
- Dewey, J., 11
- Duguid, P., 69
- ## E
- Edie (student), 26
- Einstein, A., 10
- Eisner, E., 5
- ELD (English Language Development) [Manzanita Elementary School]: English only approach (1998–2000), 34–35, 50; influences on learning while teaching, 39–53; with mixed-ability group (2001–2002), 37–39; outcomes of Capitelli's learning for, 53–56; questioning English-only policy (2000–2001), 35–37; school policies on, 31–32; shifts in Capitelli's approach to teaching, 33–34; timeline of Capitelli's work at, 34*t*. See also Manzanita Elementary School
- Ernesto (student), 26
- Experimental bias, 21–22
- Expertise: growth of credibility and, 68–69; Internet representations of, 92–94; opportunities to develop collective, 103; sharing ideas and benefiting from, 82–85
- ## F
- Feltovich, P. J., 92
- Freedman, S. W., 11
- Future Educators of America, 67
- ## G
- Gallimore, R., 93
- Gardner, H., 4
- “Going public”: barriers to, 6–11, 24–25; benefits of, 4–6, 80–81, 106–107. See also Public education; School districts
- GreatSchools.net, 98
- Grossman, P., 40, 94
- ## H
- Hanson, M., 44
- Harvard Education Letter* (journal), 66

- Harvard Educational Review* (journal), 66
- Hatch, T., 7, 91, 92
- Hiebert, J., 93
- Hitomi, S.: CASTL program participation by, 15–16, 24; Center for Teaching and Learning participation by, 25–26; concerns about systematic data collection, 22; inquiries carried out by, 68, 86; learning experience of, 20–26; professional background of, 16; sense of shared commitment by, 30
- Hollingsworth, S., 11
- Hull, G., 66
- Hurley, M.: CASTL program participation by, 15–16, 27–28, 29–30; Center for Teaching and Learning participation by, 25–26; inquiries carried out by, 68, 86; learning experience of, 26–29; professional background of, 16–17; sense of shared commitment by, 30
- Hutchinson, Y. D.: CASTL Program participation by, 89; “going public” website created by, 89–90, 93, 94, 95, 99; as knowledge broker, 105; professional influence of, 89; publication/presentation opportunities for, 104

I

- Iiyoshi, T., 91, 92
- Interactions: activity organization and, 43–44; representations and social, 45–53, 57n.3
- Internet: expertise captured through representation on the, 92–94; as new forum for examining teaching/learning, 96–98; teaching/learning resources available on, 12. See also Website resources

J

- Jazz metaphor, 76–77
- Jones, S., 46, 47
- Journals, 23

K

- Kingdon, J. W., 53
- Knowledge brokers, 104–105
- Kozol, J., 2
- Krug, S., 93

L

- Lampert, M., 4, 5, 94
- Language: to articulate experience/classroom practice, 75–77; examining use of racially charged, 90
- Language instruction. See ELD (English Language Development) [Manzanita Elementary School]
- Latino students, 32
- Latour, B., 45
- Lawrence Livermore Labs, 21
- Learning: Internet resources on, 12, 89–99; new forums for constructive examination of, 96–98; to teach and learning to inquire, 11. See also Student learning; Teacher learning
- Learning resources: gaining access to, 73–74; social interactions as, 45–53, 57n.3, 72–73; website, 12, 89–99
- Levy, F., 4
- Little, J. W., 6
- Lortie, D., 6
- Lytle, S., 11

M

- McDonald, J. P., 5
- Mace, D. P., 89, 92
- McTighe, J., 64
- Manzanita Elementary School: cultural norms and routines of, 44–45; ELD instruction with mixed-ability group at, 37–39; English only policy during ELD hour at, 34–35, 50; organization of activities and interactions at, 43–44; physical layout of, 42–43; questioning English only policy during ELD hour at, 35–37; reform efforts of, 56n.1–57n.1; supporting teacher inquiries, 55. See also ELD (English Language Development) [Manzanita Elementary School]
- March, J. G., 44
- Markus, H., 40
- Mayer-Smith, J., 40
- Minority students: of Manzanita Elementary School, 32; teaching Standard English to African-American, 70; underachievement of male African-Americans, 17–20, 22
- Mississippi State Staff Development Council, 67
- Moon, B., 40

Moore, R.: Breadloaf School of English participation by, 60; experiences framing her writings/presentations, 67; inquiries made by, 68–70, 71; as knowledge broker, 105; language used to articulate experience/classroom practice, 75–77; leadership demonstrated by, 85–86; learning experiences of, 61; making connections/building networks of influence, 78–85; professional background of, 59–60; publication/presentation opportunities for, 104; representations created/collected by, 74–75; on resources for inquiries, 73–74; searching for different means to represent practice, 77–78; on sharing perspectives with colleagues, 73; website showing representations of work by, 90, 94

Murnane, R., 4

N

National Board certification, 79–80, 83, 89

National Board for Professional Teaching Standards (NBPTS), 89, 95, 104

National Council of Teachers of English, 014, 67

National Council of Teachers of Mathematics, 68

National Writing Project, 24, 25, 72, 79, 95, 104

Networks of influence: building connections to create, 77–78; connections making connections, 79–80; tightening connections and, 82–85; working against status/position to maintain, 80–82. See also Social interactions

Newsday (journal), 66

Noguera, P., 84

Nonaka, I., 68

Norms/routines, 44–45

O

Oakes, J., 66, 84

Online resources. See Website resources

Orange County Department of Education, 63

Organization of activities, 43–44

P

Perkins, D., 42

Phi Delta Kappan (journal), 66

Physical layout, 42–43

Pointer Mace, D., 91, 92

Portfolios, 12

Possible Lives: The Promise of Public Education in America (Rose), 89

Practice. See Classroom practice

Prior knowledge/experience influence, 40–42

Public education: overseen/overlooked aspects of, 2–4; putting the “public” back into, 1–2. See also “Going public”

Publication/presentation opportunities, 104

R

Reflection opportunities, 102–103

“Reification” process, 45

Representations: applying ideas across contexts through, 51–53; articulating and sharing lessons through, 74–75; as “boundary objects” spreading new ideas, 68–69; connections between social interactions and, 57n.3; gaining new information and perspective through, 48–51; impact on teacher learning by, 45–53; Internet used to create new forms of, 92–94; using language to articulate experience and, 75–77; making tacit knowledge explicit through, 46–48; new opportunities for practice, 105–106; opportunities for reflection and, 102–103; searching for different means to create, 77–78; “three trains” drawing (Capitelli) as, 52fig–53, 68; website resources for creating, 89. See also Teacher learning

Rose, M., 89

Rosenholtz, S. J., 6

Ruff, W., 90

S

Schielack, J. F., 68

Scholar study programs, 8–10

Scholarship of teaching, 23–24

School districts: current emphasis on data collection by, 103; failure to provide support for teacher’s inquiries, 6–7, 101–102; knowledge broker roles facilitated by, 104–105. See also Administrators; “Going public”

“School within a school” academy, 25

Scientific method, 96, 97

- Seely Brown, J., 69
- SERVE (Southeast Regional Vision for Education), 72, 80, 83
- Sevon, G., 69
- Shirley, 4
- Shulman, L. S., 5, 93
- Smagorinsky, P., 40
- Social interactions: applying ideas across contexts through, 51–53; connections between representation and, 57n.3; gaining new information and perspective through, 48–51, 72–73; impact on teacher learning by, 45–53; making tacit knowledge explicit through, 46–48. See also Networks of influence
- Sockett, H., 11
- Solomon, G., 42
- Spiro, R. J., 92
- Stanford University, 94
- Stankowski, L., 38, 39, 51, 52
- State Staff Development Council (Mississippi), 67
- Stenhouse, L., 11
- Stigler, J., 93
- Student learning: changing conceptions about, 5; different interpretations of, 5; emphasis on collecting data on, 103. See also Learning
- Students: co-constructing low achievement with, 78; examining underachievement of male African-American, 17–20, 22; taking account of background of, 18–20
- T
- Teacher development: immediate impact vs. long-term, 10–11; of personal skills vs. advancing field, 7. See also CASTL scholars
- Teacher learning: doing creative work vs. improvement in, 8; engaging colleagues in, 71–72; gaining access to resources for, 73–74; gaining new perspectives through, 72–73; lack of support for, 6–7, 101–102; new forums for constructive examination of, 96–98; sources of lifelong, 70–71. See also Learning; Representations; Teaching strategies
- Teacher learning experiences: on concept mapping technique, 16, 22–23; finding space/support for examining teaching, 20–26; improving ELD instruction, 33–39; introducing three teachers with, 15–17; leading to leadership, 69–74; motivations for inquiries leading to, 69–70; navigating contexts/cultures of teaching, 26–29; sense of shared commitment from, 29–30; shared with other teachers, 53–56, 72–73; teacher-administration relationships during, 28; with underachievement of African-American males, 17–20, 22
- Teacher learning influences: connecting practice, policy, and research to act as, 66–68; creating more responsive policies to act as, 63–66; current context as, 40fig, 51–53; four key, 39–40fig; growth of expertise, credibility, and, 68–69; prior knowledge and experience as, 40–42, 40fig; representations and social interactions as, 40fig, 45–53, 68–69; space, time, organization of activities as, 40fig, 42–45; support for practice/professional life as, 61–63
- Teacher Research Group (TRG): building credibility of, 79–80; creating support for practice/professional life, 61–63; described, 59; facilitating practice, policy, and research connections, 66–68; to help launch more responsive policies, 63–66; use of language to articulate experience/representations by, 75–77; video clips of classroom shared with, 78
- Teacher of the Year, 80, 83, 94
- Teachers: advancing the field vs. developing personal skills of, 7; barriers to self-examination of teaching by, 23–24; co-constructing low achievement of students, 78; differences in treatment of other professionals vs., 8–10, 13; doing creative work vs. learning to improve, 8; failure to provide support for inquiries by, 6–7, 101–102; knowledge broker role by, 104–105; launching “school within a school” academy, 25; new avenues for publication/presentation by, 104; opportunities for reflection/representation by, 102–103; working in public vs. in isolated places, 8–10
- Teaching: barriers to public examination of, 6–11, 24–25; barriers to self-examination

- by teachers, 23–24; benefits of public examination of, 4–6, 80–81, 106–107; chess metaphor for, 5–6; closing the preparation-practice gap, 94–96; finding space/support for examining, 20–26; navigating contexts/cultures of, 26–29; new forums for constructive examination of, 96–98; using portfolios to assess quality of, 12; recent developments affecting, 12–13. See also Website resources
- Teaching Children Mathematics* (journal), 68, 83
- Teaching profession: assumptions about nature/work of, 6–7; barriers to public examination of, 6–11, 24–25; benefits of public examination of, 4–6, 80–81, 106–107; developing personal skills vs. advancing field of, 7; navigating contexts/cultures of, 26–29; support for teaching practice and, 61–63; working in public vs. in isolated places, 8–10
- Teaching strategies: developing culturally engaged instruction, 74; Internet resources to improve, 12, 89–99; making adjustments to, 5. See also Classroom practice; Teacher learning
- Technological advances: CASTL program supporting use of, 91–92; contributing to changes in teaching, 12; teacher's ability to reach others facilitated by, 99. See also Website resources
- "Three trains" drawing (Capitelli), 52fig–53, 68
- Total Quality Management approach, 64
- TRG. See Teacher Research Group (TRG)
- Tyack, D., 2

U

- UC Berkeley, 85
- Understanding by Design* (Wiggins and McTighe), 64
- US News and World Report*, 106

V

- Valencia, S., 40

W

- Website resources: "class anatomy," 93; closing preparation-practice gap, 94–96; establishing teaching/learning collection on, 91–92; format examples used for, 93–94; GreatSchools.net, 98; Hutchingson's "going public," 89–90, 93, 94, 95, 99; on representations of different teacher's work, 90–91. See also Internet; Teaching; Technological advances
- Weinstein, R., 84
- Wenger, E., 45, 69
- Wideen, M., 40
- Wiggins, G., 64
- Wolk, E.: inquiries made by, 69–70, 71; as knowledge broker, 105; language used to articulate experience/classroom practice, 75–77; leadership demonstrated by, 85–86; learning experiences of, 61–63; making connections/building networks of influence, 78–85; participation in national venues by, 67–68; professional background of, 59; publication/presentation opportunities for, 104; representations created/collected by, 74–75; research skills developed by, 60; searching for different means to represent practice, 77–78; sharing perspectives with colleagues, 72; website showing representations of work by, 91

Y

- Yaddo (Saratoga Springs), 9

Z

- Zajonc, R. B., 40
- Zavala Elementary School (Texas), 4