

Contents

List of Contributors	xi
About the Contributors	xiii
Foreword	xvii
Acknowledgements	xix
1 Introduction, Andrew Adams	1
1.1 Aims of the book	1
1.2 The investment trust industry	1
1.3 Types of splits	3
1.4 The crisis and its significance	5
1.5 Overview of the five parts of the book	6
PART ONE: THE CRISIS	7
2 Past Financial Crises, John Newlands	9
2.1 Introduction	9
2.2 The trust boom of 1888–89	10
2.3 The 1920s’ trust boom and the Wall Street crash	12
2.4 The 1970s’ trust boom	14
2.5 The trust boom of 1993–94	16
2.6 The hurdle-rate warning of 1872	17
2.7 Conclusion	19
2.8 References	20
3 Evolution of the Split Trust Sector, John Newlands	21
3.1 Introduction	21
3.2 The first investment trust	23
3.3 The second milestone	24
3.4 Edinburgh, 1873 – the split capital concept is born	24
3.5 The first major crisis – Sykes v. Beadon , 1878	25
3.6 1929 to 1965 – back to basics	26
3.7 The birth of Dualvest	27

3.8	Splits terminology	28
3.9	Other early splits	28
3.10	Tax changes after 1979	30
3.11	New boost to the attractions of splits	31
3.12	The hybrid, or quasi-split capital trust	33
3.13	1997 – beginnings of the new splits era	33
3.14	Technical developments and structural changes	34
3.15	Aberdeen New Preferred breaks the mould	35
3.16	Key figures in the history of splits	36
3.17	Conclusion	37
3.18	References	37
4	The Crisis Unfolds, Andrew Adams	39
4.1	Introduction	39
4.2	Aggressive structures	39
4.3	Barbells	41
4.4	Big fees	42
4.5	Lack of information	43
4.6	The zero market expands	44
4.7	Mounting concern	46
4.8	“For whom the barbell tolls ...”	48
4.9	“Barbells unbalanced”	49
4.10	Change in market sentiment	50
4.11	Aberdeen’s half-day forum	53
4.12	Suspensions and liquidations	54
4.13	Conclusion	55
4.14	References	56
	PART TWO: RISK AND VALUATION MODELS	59
5	The Impact of the Structures, Peter Moles	61
5.1	Introduction	61
5.2	Future values for a trust with a prior claim	62
5.3	Valuing the claims	63
5.4	Value of shares in a traditional split	67
5.5	Traditional split with prior claim	69
5.6	Effect of the different structures on projected returns	70
5.7	Value sensitivity	71
5.8	Conclusion	72
5.9	References	72
6	The Risks, James Clunie	73
6.1	Introduction	73
6.2	Major influences on risk: asset allocation and capital structure	74
6.3	Risk for different share classes	77
6.4	Increasing risks and the onset of the splits crisis	78

6.5	Liquidity risk	79
6.6	Reputational risk	79
6.7	Traditional risk assessment measures	80
6.8	Traditional risk assessment measures became misleading	81
6.9	Improvements to traditional statistics	83
6.10	Using Monte Carlo simulation outcomes to illustrate risk	84
6.11	Conclusion	86
6.12	References	86
7	Valuing the Shares, James Clunie	89
7.1	Introduction	89
7.2	Background to valuing splits using closed-form option pricing	89
7.3	Problems with closed-form option pricing	92
7.4	A worked example using closed-form option pricing	94
7.5	Monte Carlo simulation	97
7.6	Pricing during the splits crisis	98
7.7	Pricing of splits compared with conventional investment trusts	99
7.8	Conclusion	99
7.9	References	100
	PART THREE: RESPONSE TO THE CRISIS	101
8	The Media Response, Andrew Adams	103
8.1	Introduction	103
8.2	Favourable view	103
8.3	The early warnings	104
8.4	Stronger warnings	106
8.5	Rupert Walker steps out of line	107
8.6	Increasing concern over zeros	108
8.7	The FSA steps in	108
8.8	More bad news	109
8.9	The men who wiped out billions	110
8.10	The Treasury Select Committee hearings	110
8.11	Bust-up in the trust industry?	112
8.12	Adverse sentiment goes too far	113
8.13	Comparison with other mis-selling disasters	114
8.14	Implications for the media's personal finance columns	114
8.15	Conclusion	115
8.16	References	116
9	The Regulatory Response, Peter Gardner and Geoffrey Wood	117
9.1	Introduction	117
9.2	The Financial Services Authority	117
9.3	The FSA's approach to regulation	118
9.4	The regulations	119
9.5	The tasks and impact of the FSA	120

9.6	Financial market background	120
9.7	The FSA's initial response	121
9.8	The FSA proposals and questions	123
9.9	Objections from the investment trust sector	123
9.10	The FSA's powers and investigations	123
9.11	The FSA's response	124
9.12	Conclusion	126
9.13	References	126
10	The Political Response, John McFall MP	129
10.1	Introduction	129
10.2	The Committee's enquiry	130
10.3	Misleading impressions	132
10.4	Responsibility within the industry	133
10.5	Compensation	135
10.6	Looking to the future	135
10.7	Conclusion	137
10.8	References	138
	PART FOUR: MANAGEMENT ISSUES	141
11	Corporate Governance, Robin Angus	143
11.1	Introduction	144
11.2	What legislation can – and cannot – do	144
11.3	The splits crisis really was different	145
11.4	How much could directors have been expected to foresee?	146
11.5	The new AITC Code of Corporate Governance	148
11.6	How can directors provide an “objective view”?	150
11.7	Monitoring managers, communicating with shareholders	151
11.8	Initial involvement and continuing information flow	152
11.9	Changes to the Listing Rules	155
11.10	Conclusion	156
11.11	References	156
12	Some Ethical Considerations, Andrew McCosh	159
12.1	Introduction	159
12.2	The existence of senior debt	159
12.3	Pressing the press	161
12.4	Peddling the paper	163
12.5	Forced sales of assets	164
12.6	Charges	165
12.7	Mutual assistance programme	166
12.8	It pays to advertise	169
12.9	If it isn't working, reconstruct it	171
12.10	Why did the shareholders not rebel?	172
12.11	Conclusion	173
12.12	References	174

13	Reputational Risk, Piers Currie	175
13.1	Introduction	175
13.2	Reputational risk	175
13.3	The downward slide of reputation	177
13.4	The rise and fall of equity funds' reputation	179
13.5	Reputational risk in the regulatory framework	180
13.6	An introverted façade: "The best kept secret in the City"	181
13.7	Tensions: Barbarians within	182
13.8	Recognising outside stakeholders	184
13.9	Knowledge, rocket science and disclosure	185
13.10	Gossip, fat cats and fast cars: The public gallery	186
13.11	Image restoration strategies	187
13.12	Reputational consequences	188
13.13	Conclusion	189
13.14	References	189
 PART FIVE: LOOKING FORWARD		191
14	Product Innovation and Marketing, James Clunie	193
14.1	Introduction	193
14.2	Understanding investors' needs	193
14.3	Managing investor expectations	194
14.4	Product design	196
14.5	Stress-testing new products	197
14.6	A decision-making framework for complex investment products	198
14.7	New launch documentation and risk warnings	200
14.8	Risk awareness and client suitability	202
14.9	Client servicing	202
14.10	Conclusion	203
14.11	References	203
15	Some Implications for the Fund Management Industry, David Harris	205
15.1	Introduction	205
15.2	Where did the industry go wrong?	205
15.3	A role in education	207
15.4	Stakeholder investment products	209
15.5	Compensation and the AITC Foundation	210
15.6	Conclusion	211
15.7	References	213
16	Lessons for the Future, Andrew Adams	215
16.1	Introduction	215
16.2	Corporate governance	215
16.3	The Association of Investment Trust Companies	217
16.4	Financial advisers	219
16.5	Financial education	220

16.6	The financial press	221
16.7	The regulators	222
16.8	Conclusion	224
16.9	References	225
Appendix A	For Whom the Barbell Tolls . . . , Andrew Adams and Robin Angus	227
Appendix B	Response to FSA Consultation Paper 164, Andrew Adams and Robin Angus	233
Index		241