

Contents

Foreword	ix
Preface	xiii
The Author	xxi

Part One: The Changing Landscape of Marketing and Corporate Communication

1 New Opportunities for Marketing and Public Relations	3
2 New Challenges Facing Marketing and Public Relations	21

Part Two: Using Research to Strengthen Public Relations

3 Measuring Public Relations Programming	47
4 Setting Meaningful and Measurable Public Relations Objectives	79
5 Using Research to Shape Public Relations Strategy and Tactics	107
6 Evaluating Public Relations Programs for Continual Improvement	135

Part Three: Transforming Your Public Relations Program

7 Real Business Results: Proving—and Improving—PR ROI	167
8 From Concept to Reality	191

Appendixes

1 Delahaye Executive Audit	201
2 Delahaye Media Demographic Audit	215
3 Delahaye Journalist Audit	229
Index	237
About the International Association of Business Communicators	248