Index

Abbott, M. M., 122
Abercrombie, M.L.J., 185
Abstract conceptualization phase, of learning cycle, 64
Abstracts of drafts, 295
Academic “moves”, 31–32
Academic conversation, developing assignments for joining an, 242–244
Academic writing, view of knowledge underlying, 22–24
Active experimentation phase, of learning cycle, 64
Active learning: in discussion classes, 205–210; in lecture classes, 202–205
Active problem solving, 32
Active thinking, promoting. See Critical thinking tasks
Adler, M., 149
Advice-centered reviews, for coaching writing process, 298
Alaimo, P. J., 43, 283
Alexander, P. A., 28
“All about” writing, 26–27
Allen, D., 183
Alternative genres and styles, value of teaching, 56–59, 65
“And then” writing, 24–25
Anderson, P., 1, 13, 35, 97
Anderson, V., 269, 280
Angelo, T. A., 95, 113, 132, 157, 158, 176, 192
Anson, C., 1, 13, 35, 97
Aristotle, 117, 159
Assignment handouts for formal writing: examples of, 100–104; features of, 98–100; peer review of, 105, 106
Assignments, formal writing: alternative approaches to, 90, 91, 118–119; best practices in, 96–100; and closed-form prose, 107–111; conclusions on, 119; designing last assignment first, 96; five variations on same assignment, 92–94; formal exploratory essays, 116–117; giving assignment in class, 105–106; handouts for, 98–104; and learning goals, 95–96; and lectures, 204–205; microthemes, 111–115; peer review of handout for, 105, 106; reflection papers, 117; too many questions for, 104–105; traditional method for; Atkins, M., 205
Audience and purpose, 40–46, 229–230
Aufderheide, K. J., 299, 300

B
Baikie, K., 57
Bain, K., 3
Barkley, E. F., 184, 193, 194, 198, 202
Barnes, L. B., 159
Barry, L., 121, 157
Bartelt, P. W., 122
Bartholomae, D., 32, 75, 76, 77
Bateman, W. L., 149, 194, 206, 287
Bates, A. W., 131
Bawarshi, A., 48, 61
Bazerman, C., 19, 48
Beach, R., 33
BEAM, Bizup’s, 238–241
Beason, L., 80, 330
Beaufort, A., 3, 28, 40, 45, 48, 61, 228, 253, 255, 262
Beichner, R. J., 203
Belanoff, P., 57, 122, 139, 296
Belkeny, M. F., 28, 197
“Believing and doubting game”, 176, 181
Believing and doubting strategy, for small groups, 192
Bent, M., 241
Berger, P., 190
Berlinghoff, W. P., 116, 117
Berthoff, A., 135
Bio-poems, 137
Birkenstein, C., 28, 29, 31, 32, 41, 99, 239, 242
Bizup, J., 237, 238, 239, 240, 241, 247
Blaauw-Hara, M., 68, 73
Bligh, D. A., 186, 193, 202, 203
Blogs or electronic discussion boards: for class discussions, 209–210; for exploratory writing, 129–130
Boehrer, J., 159
Bonk, C. J., 130, 131
Bonwell, C., 149, 202, 203
Booth, W., 28, 33
Braddock, R., 68
Bradford, A. N., 28, 34
Brain research, and writing in different genres, 63–65
Brainstorming: exploratory talk for, 292–293; idea maps for, 308, 309
Branford, J. D., 28, 151, 202
Breihon, J. R., 168, 189
Bridwell-Bowles, L., 57, 58
Britton, J., 56, 57, 120, 152
Broad, B., 276
Bronfenbrenner, U., 59
Brookfield, S. D., 3, 4, 20, 131, 149, 184, 197, 198, 202, 205, 206, 207, 208, 209
Brossell, G., 219
Brown, A. L., 28, 151, 202
Brown, G., 205
Bruffee, K. A., 170, 183, 184, 185, 194, 196, 198
Bubier, J. L., 122
Calibrated Peer Review (CPR), 299–301
California Critical Thinking Disposition Inventory, 21
California Critical Thinking Skills Test, 21
Carlson, J. A., 159
Carmichael, S., 71
Carrithers, D., 44, 159, 253
Carroll, L. A., 40, 59, 60, 61, 78, 228
Carter, M., 40, 48, 256, 260
Case studies and simulations, 159
Cashin, W., 212, 213, 218, 220
Chapman, O. L., 299
Chappell, V., 170
Charney, D., 302
Chase, C. I., 212, 214, 219, 220
Check/Plus/Minus system, for evaluating exploratory writing, 142–143
Chicago style, Modern Language Association (MLA) style versus, 103
Cho, K., 301
Christensen, C. R., 159, 206
Class discussions: active learning in, 205–210; brainstorming in, 292–293; online strategies for, 209–210, 299; problems as starters for, 8
Clegg, V., 212
Clendinnen, I., 101
Clinchy, B. M., 28, 197
Clonethink, 198
Closed-form academic prose: assignments leading to, 107–111; features of, 49–50; open-form writing versus, 50; value of teaching, 55–56, 65
Coaching students in critical thinking, 9–10. See also Critical thinking tasks
Coaching the writing process: abstracts for, 295; commenting on papers, 312–313, 317–336; conclusions on, 314–316; conferences for, 304–312, 336; by designing good assignments, 291–292; exploratory writing or discussion for, 292–293; and grading criteria, 292; models feedback on short assignments, 313–314; peer reviews of drafts for, 295–302; prospectuses for, 249, 294–295; rubrics for, 267–289, 314; and time management, 290–291, 314–316
Cocking, R. R., 28, 151, 202
Cognitive dissonance, 29–30
Cohen, A. J., 157, 178, 226, 227, 308
Colomb, G., 28, 33, 56, 326, 329
Comments, teachers': general principles for, 334–336; general strategy for, 322–333; at late-draft stage, 312–313; purpose of, 318–321; suggestions for end comments, 333–334; and writer’s dignity, 317
Concrete experience phase, of learning cycle, 64
Concrete operational reasoners, 28
Conferences: group, 312; one-on-one, 304–312, 336
Conformity, and group work, 200–201
Connolly, P., 57
Connors, R. J., 73, 74
Conrad, J., 282
Contemporary issues journals, 135–136
Cooper, C. R., 135, 269
Cornell Critical Thinking Test, 21
Creativity exercises, change-of-pace, 131, 136–138
Crib sheets, 218
Critical Incident Questionnaires (CIQs), 208
Critical thinker, defined, 20
Critical thinking: coaching students in, 9–10; and course design, 5–6; defined, 2–4, 20; link between writing and, 4, 17–38
Critical thinking tasks: conclusions on, 160; designing, 6, 150–160; ways to give, 6–8
Cross, K. P., 95, 113, 132, 157, 158, 176, 184, 192, 193, 194, 198, 202
Cully, M., 113, 122
Cultural codes, knowledge of, 166, 173
Daiute, C., 35
Darwin, C., 26, 27, 216
Data dump writing, 27
Data-provided assignments, 154–155
Davis, B. G., 159, 186, 202, 203, 206, 208
Decentering tasks, 30, 119, 156
Deep learning, and research on writing, 97
Depew, K. E., 119
Derrida, J., 50
Devet, B., 68
Dewey, J., 2, 3, 183
Di Gaetani, J. L., 159
Dialogues or argumentative scripts, 157–159
Dickson, M., 139
Dictionary habit, 170, 181
Diederich, P., 268, 269, 278
Dillard, A., 50, 119
Dillon, J. T., 149
Discussion classes: active learning in, 205–210; brainstorming in, 292–293; online forums for, 209–210, 299; problems as starters for, 8
DiTiberio, J. K., 62, 123, 197
Donovan, S., 198
Dostoevsky, F. M., 137
Double-entry notebooks, 135, 178–179
Drabick, D.A.G., 122
Drafting and redrafting, 24. See also Revision, teaching
Drenk, D., 90, 91, 111, 112, 178, 291
Duch, B., 183
Earenfi ght, T., 253
Ede, L., 196
Editing-oriented philosophy, 82, 83
Egothink, 198
Eiseley, L., 119
Eison, J., 123, 149, 202, 203
Elbow, P., 24, 30, 33, 57, 122, 138, 176, 192, 296
Elder, L., 20
Elements of Style, 70, 74
Empirical research report, template for, 256, 259–260
Ennis, R. H., 20
Erickson, P. B., 130
Errors in student writing: recent studies on, 73–79; responding to, 80–84. See also Feedback, teachers’ written Essay exams: conclusions on, 223; framing questions on, 221; grading, 221–223; importance of, 211; improving use of, 215–223; overemphasizing, 37; problems with, 212–215; take-home exams, 218–219
Evidence, to support arguments, 9
Evidence-finding strategy, for small groups, 192–193
Exam preparation journals/notebooks, 136, 218
Exam questions: focus and clarity of, 219–220; framing, 221; problems as, 8
Expert insider prose, skills and knowledge for, 253–256
Exploratory essays: formal, 116–117; and research projects, 249–250
Exploratory writing: blogs for, 130–131; conclusions on, 144–145; and critical thinking, 7, 8; evaluating, 142–143; examples of, 120–121; explaining, 126–130; methods for assigning, 125–126; objections to, 122–125; teacher time required for, 143–144; twenty-two ideas for incorporating, 131–142; value of, 121–122
Expressivism, 56
Fagen, R., 53
Faigley, L., 33
Fawkes, D., 20, 21
Felder, R., 203
Fink, L. D., 96, 149, 202
Fiore, M. A., 299
Fishman, S. M., 122
Flavell, J. H., 156, 165
Flower, L., 25, 26, 28, 33, 323
Flynn, E. A., 56
Fontaine, S. L., 57, 122
Formal writing assignments: alternative approaches to, 90, 91, 118–119; best practices in, 96–100; and closed-form prose, 107–111; conclusions on, 119; designing last assignment first, 96; five variations on same assignment, 92–94; formal exploratory essays, 116–117; giving assignment in class, 105–106; handouts for, 98–104; and Kolb’s learning style phases, 63, 64; and learning goals, 95–96; and lectures, 204–205; microthemes, 111–115; peer review of handout for, 105, 106; reflection papers, 117; too many questions for, 104–105; traditional method for, 89–90, 91
Fox, H., 84, 85
Francoz, M. J., 179
Freed, J. E., 149
Freewriting exercises: and class discussions, 206, 207; defined, 120; focused, 127–128, 139, 140. See also Exploratory writing
Freie, J., 176
Freisinger, R., 122
Fullinwider, R., 190
Fulwiler, T., 57, 122
Galbraith, K., 158
Garrison, R. D., 130, 131
Garvin, D. A., 206
Genres: alternative, 56–59, 65; helping students think about, 46–50; knowledge of, 256; and reading strategies, 164; student learning and awareness of, 59–65
L

Lacan, J., 50
Lancaster, R., 58
Langenhan, J., 43, 283
Larson, R. L., 228
Leamnson, R., 149

Lecture classes: advice on, 202–203; and exploratory writing tasks, 203; and formal writing assignments, 204–205; and minute papers, 204; summaries of, 157, 204

Lee, F. D., 90, 111, 112, 178, 291
Librarian/subject teacher partnerships, 241
Light, R. J., 1, 9, 241
Ling, T., 44
Linsky, M., 159
Listening skills, and group productivity, 197

Literature review: and establishing a controversy, 243; “gap in knowledge”, 244; “state of the art”, 243–244
Lloyd-Jones, R., 68
Lockwood, J. A., 52, 53
Lunsford, A. A., 28, 73, 74, 196
Lutzker, M., 241

M

MacDonald, S. P., 48, 135, 228, 229, 253
MacDonald’s four-stage schema of students’ development as writers, 228–229
MacGregor, J., 183
Maimon, E. P., 156
Major, C. H., 184, 193, 194, 198, 202
Marchitell, H., 179
Marginal notes approach, and difficult texts, 177
McCarthy, L. P., 115, 168, 189
McLeod, M., 100, 101, 102, 103, 104, 291
McTighe, J., 96
Meacham, J., 130

Meaning-constructing tasks: defined, 97; two dimensions of, 98
Meisenhelder, S., 56
Metacognitive reflection strategy, for small groups, 194–195

Metadisciplines and metagenres, 256, 257
Metaphor games, extended analogies, 138
Meyers, C., 3, 9, 29, 149, 203
Microtheme assignments: defined, 111; examples of, 111–112; for formative assessment, 113–115
Miller, A., 159
Miller, C., 48
Milton, J., 247

Mini-guided research paper, 245, 247–248
Minute papers, 132, 133, 204

Modern Language Association (MLA) style, 103
Moran, C., 57
Morton, T., 198
Moskovitz, C., 299, 300

Moves, academic, 31–32

Mullin, W. J., 153, 156
Mulroy, D., 68
Myers, A. C., 113, 122
Myers, G., 48, 200
Myers-Briggs inventory, 62, 197

N

Naïve audience, writing for, 42
National Conference on Undergraduate Research (NCUR), 224, 253
National Survey of Student Engagement (NSSE) surveys, research based on, 97
Nichols, L., 43, 283, 304
Nilson, L. B., 297
Noguchi, R. R., 68, 71
Norman, D. A., 151
Novice/expert theory, 28
Nowacek, R. S., 48, 60, 61, 228, 278
NSSE/WPA research and assignment design, 97

O

Obama, B., 109
Odell, L., 269
Online discussion forums, 209–210, 299
Orr, R. L., 131
Orwell, G., 50

Outlines: disadvantages of, 294; tree diagrams versus, 308, 310, 311

P

Paine, C., 1, 13, 35, 97
Paired interviews, for coaching the writing process, 293

Palloff, R. M., 131
Papers, research. See Research assignments/papers
Paragraph templates, 141–142
Patchan, M. M., 302
Paul, L., 122
Paul, R. W., 20, 176
Peer review of an assignment handout, 105, 106
Peer review workshop strategy, for small groups, 194
Peer reviews of drafts, for coaching writing process, 295–302

Performance reflection, structural template for, 261
Perkins, D., 20
Perry, W., 22, 28, 166, 193
Peterson, D., 169
Piaget, J., 27, 34, 156, 183
Pinkava, B., 155
Pink, S., 30, 171
Pittendrigh, A., 216
Plato, 30, 132, 137, 164, 172, 188, 221
Poetic writing, 56
Polanyi, M., 3
Pollock, J., 191
Poole, G., 131
Porter, M. E., 202, 203
Positivist model of writing process, 33
Practical proposal, template for, 256, 258
Pratt, K., 131
Presentations, daily paper, 207–208
Preskill, S., 131, 149, 184, 197, 198, 202, 205, 206, 207, 208, 209
Prince, M., 203
Problem-posing assignments, 153–154
Problems: motivation, 2–3; as small group tasks, 7; as writing assignments, 7
Prospectives, 249, 294–295
Puzzled audience, writing for, 42
Qualley, D., 57, 117
Quammen, D., 119
Quizzes, on reading material, 168
RAFT and TIP, for formal writing assignments, 98, 100, 255, 256, 291, 315
Ramage, J. D., 116, 170, 326, 329
Reading difficult texts: assignments that require, 177–180; causes of students’ reading difficulties, 161–166; conclusions on, 180–182; suggested strategies for, 166–176, 180–182
Reading guides, 174–176, 181
Reading logs, 136, 177
Reflection papers, as formal writing assignments, 117
Reflective observation phase, of learning cycle, 64
Reich, C., 129
Research assignments/papers: disappointment over, 224; models for, 252; short, meaning-constructing, 231–235; sources for, 230–231, 236–241; titles and introductions to, 250–252, 325
Research in the major, departmental collaboration to teach undergraduate, 253–262
Research skills, teaching: asking of research questions, 236, 237, 238; and backward design, 235–236; conclusions on, 262–263; designing last assignment first, 244–250; function of research sources, 236–241
Research writing: difficult subskills of, 229–231; and students’ development as writers, 227–229; and students’ misperceptions about research, 226–227
Response-centered reviews, for coaching writing process, 296–298
Revision, teaching, 33–37
Revision-oriented commenting strategy, 82–84, 321–322
Reynolds, J., 299, 300
Rhetorical thinking: audience and purpose, 40–46; conclusions on, 51; and genre, 46–50; importance of, 39–40; sample questions to spur, 46
Rienecker, L., 50
Ritter, K., 226
Roberts, J., 162, 163, 168, 179
Roberts, K., 162, 163, 168, 179
Robertson, E., 169
Robinson, W. S., 73
Rogers, C., 197
Role-playing, of unfamiliar perspectives, 156
Rowe, M. B., 206
Rubrics: analytic versus holistic, 270; author’s approach to using, 279–282; conclusions on, 289; controversies about, 276–279; generic versus task-specific, 270–275, 292; and norming session, 286–287; simple to elaborate options, 282–286
Russell, A. A., 299, 300
Russell, D. R., 48
Scaffolding Writing and Rewriting in the Discipline (SwoRD), 301–302
Scaffolding assignments, 139, 140, 241–244
Schodt, D. W., 159
Schoer, L., 68
Schulz, J., 117
Schunn, C. D., 301, 302
Schwalm, D. E., 77
Sentence correctness, 67–68, 332–333, 335–336
Serious errors, 81
Shakespeare, W., 25, 104, 105, 129, 243, 334
Shaped exercises, low-stakes, 131, 140–142
Shaughnessy, M., 76, 77, 331
Shaw, H., 288
Sidorauski, M., 251
Simpson, N. J., 299, 300
Singer, P., 109, 308
Slavin, R. E., 198
Small groups: advantages of goal-oriented use of, 185–186; best size for, 196; conclusions on, 201; controversy over using, 198–201; designing collaborative tasks, 190–196, 293; promoting critical thinking in, 7; sequence of activities for, 186–189; tips for working well together, 196–198
Smith, K. A., 149, 198, 203
Smith, L., 320, 321
Socrates, 155, 172
Sommers, N., 28, 40
Sources for a research paper: citing and documenting, 231; how to find, 230; integrating sources into a paper, 230; purpose of, 230, 236–241
Spandel, V., 318, 319, 320
Spear, K., 198, 296
Spell checkers and grammar checkers, 85–86
Spelling errors: on essay exams, 221, 222; marking, 330–331
Spellmeyer, K., 116
Spencer, J., 157, 178, 226, 227
Spender, D., 57
Springer, L., 198
Stanley, C. A., 202, 203
Stanne, M. E., 198
Status-marking errors, 81
Steffens, H., 207
Steiner, R., 157, 204
Stern, S. J., 101
Sternberg, R. J., 163, 164
Stewart, T. L., 113, 122
Stiggins, R. J., 318, 319, 320
Stikkers, K., 196
Stockdale, E., 241
Stray Jorgensen, P., 50
Strunk, W., 70, 74
Stylistic grammar, 70
Summaries of lectures, 157, 204
Summary writing approach, and reading difficult texts, 178, 181
Summers, L., 30, 171
Surface reading, school culture that rewards, 162–163
Swales, J. M., 48
Swan, J., 326
Swartz, R. J., 172
Sweet, A., 206
Tarule, J. M., 28, 197
Teachers’ comments: general principles for, 334–336;
general strategy for, 322–333; at late-draft stage, 312–313; purpose of, 321–322; revision-oriented commenting strategy, 82–84, 321–322; students’ responses to, 318–321; suggestions for end comments, 333–334; and writer’s dignity, 317
Template assignments, 155
Ten-year rule, for experts in a field, 255
Thaiss, C., 54, 56, 58, 60, 94, 194, 228, 256, 260, 278, 287
Thesis statement writing, 141
Thesis support assignments, 152–153
Thesis-governed writing: assignments leading to, 107–
111; description of, 22–24; immature essay structures versus, 24–27; low-stakes shaped exercises to practice, 140–142
Thesis-seeking essays, 116, 125
Thinking pieces, 245–246
Thinking rhetorically: audience and purpose, 40–46; and genre, 46–50; importance of, 39–40; sample questions to spur, 46; as transferable skill, 51
This, as a pronoun, 332
Thomas, L., 119
Time-outs for freewrites, during heated discussions,
207
Timesaving strategies: for coaching writing process,
314–316; for exploratory writing, 123, 143–144. See also Coaching the writing process
TIP (Task as Intriguing Problem) and RAFT (Role, Audience, Format, Task), 98, 100, 255, 256, 291, 315
Tishman, S., 20
Titles and introductions, of research papers, 250–252, 325
Tobias, S., 133
Tobin, J., 251
Traditional school grammar, 70
Translations, writing, 179–180
Tree diagrams, instead of outlines, 308, 310
Trefil, J. S., 166
Treglia, M. O., 320
Treisman, U., 183
Troutman, P., 241
Turabian, K. L., 101
Tutors, from university’s writing center, 302–304
Two-sentence summaries, for coaching writing process, 295
U
Undergraduate research in the major, departmental collaboration to teach, 253–262
Universal reader, problem of, 276–278
V
Van Allen, J., 120, 121
Vaughan, N. D., 130, 131
Vilardi, T., 57
Villanueva, V., 56
Vocabulary and syntax, difficulties with, 166, 181, 182
Voss, J. F., 28
Vygotsky, L. S., 183
W
Walvoord, B. E., 115, 168, 189, 269, 280
Wang, L., 299, 300
Wardle, E., 48, 228
Watson Glaser Critical Thinking Appraisal, 21
Weaver, M. R., 320
Weimer, M., 122, 163, 202, 203
Weisberg, R., 122
White, E. B., 70, 74
White, E. M., 223, 269, 287
Wiener, H. S., 199
Wiggins, G., 96
Wilhelm, K., 57
Williams, J. M., 28, 33, 56, 74, 78, 326, 329
Willingham, D. T., 166, 255, 326
Witte, S., 33
Wordiness, 331, 332
Workload, managing teacher, 143–144. See also Timesaving strategies Writing: and critical thinking, 4, 17–38; eight steps for integrating critical thinking and, 2–10; organizational problems in, 24–29; as a process, 10;
and student engagement, 1; thesis-governed, 22–24, 107–111. See also Writing process, coaching the Writing assignments: conclusions on, 14; discouraging beliefs about, 10–13; and immature essay structures, 24–27; problem-focused, 7, 35. See also Informal and exploratory writing; Research assignments/papers Writing assignments, formal: alternative approaches to, 90, 91, 118–119; best practices in, 96–100; and closed-form prose, 107–111; conclusions on, 119; designing last assignment first, 96; five variations on same assignment, 92–94; formal exploratory essays, 116–117; giving assignment in class, 105–106; handouts for, 98–104; and Kolb’s learning style phases, 63, 64; and learning goals, 95–96; and lectures, 204–205; microthemes, 111–115; peer review of handout for, 105, 106; reflection papers, 117; too many questions for, 104–105; traditional method for, 89–90, 91
Writing centers, referring students to, 302–304

Writing conferences: group paper, 312; one-on-one, 304–312, 336

Writing process, coaching the: abstracts for, 295; by commenting on papers, 312–313, 317–336; conclusions on, 314–316; conferences for, 304–312, 336; by designing good assignments, 291–292; exploratory writing or discussion for, 292–293; and grading criteria, 292; models feedback on short assignments, 313–314; peer reviews of drafts for, 295–302; prospectuses for, 249, 294–295; rubrics for, 267–289, 314; and time management, 290–291, 314–316

Writing-across-the-curriculum (WAC) movement:
  background on, 17; and essay exams, 213–215; overview of, 19–21; traditional writing instruction versus, 17–18

Writing-in-the-disciplines (WID), 19

Y

Yamane, D., 167

Yanez, A., 48

Yeats, W. B., 110

Yoshida, J., 137

Young, A., 57, 118, 122

Z

Zawacki, T. M., 54, 56, 58, 60, 94, 194, 228, 256, 260, 278, 287

Zeiger, W., 116

Zemsky, R., 11

Zhang, K., 130, 131

Zinsser, W., 317

Zull, J. E., 29, 63, 64, 166, 319, 320, 326