INDEX

α-characteristic 285

Acid Rain game 286
air pollutants 2–3
air pollution evaluation in Switzerland 39–41, 63–66
data 47–52
  summary statistics 48
empirical results 52–63
life satisfaction estimates for air pollutants 60 life satisfaction estimates for movers 57
life satisfaction estimates for nonmovers 53–54
life satisfaction robustness checks for nonmovers 58
literature review 41–44
methodology
  fixed effects 44–45
  structural equation modelling (SEM) 45–47
air temperature simulation 23–24
results 26–28
  forecasting during breaks 28–30
  setup 24–26
altruism 115, 159–160
anthropogenic climate change 1
Arrow–Debreu model 101–102
Autometrics algorithm 10, 12, 13, 30 average resident consumption (ARC) 182–184, 192 balanced contributions property 289 balancedness 295
bilateral trade openness 210
BlowUp and Cluster (BUC) estimator 58–59
Bondareva–Shapley theorem 295 break detection
  designed indicator functions 9–12
  properties at breaks 12–19
  properties under null or no breaks 19–23
break functions 9–12
  properties at breaks 12
  potency for unknown break date 13–17 power for known break date 12–13
  uncertainty of break date 17–19
  properties under null or no breaks 19–23
  specifications 10
break-indicator saturation 7–9, 30–32
  designed indicator functions 9–12
  properties at breaks 12–19
  properties under null or no breaks 19–23
simulated model surface air temperature 23–24
results 26–30
simulation setup 24–26
breaks in time series 7–9 Calibrated Sorting (CS) 42 carbon dioxide (CO₂) decomposition and dynamics of industrial emissions 71–73, 87–89 cities in China
data issues 76–77
data sources 77
decomposition framework 76 decomposition patterns 78–82 scale of composition effects 77 technique effect 77–78
carbon dioxide (CO₂) decomposition and dynamics of industrial emissions (Continued) effects of foreign direct investment (FDI) 82–83 estimation results 85–87
instrumental variable 84
proxies for environmental regulations 84–85
literature review
composition 73
decomposition methodology 74 effect of environmental regulation 74 environmental regulations 75–76 foreign direct investment (FDI) 74–75 scale 73
technique effects 73–74 carbon dioxide (CO₂) emissions 1, 2–3 from manufacturing and construction sectors 216–217 carbon emissions and GDP 206 carbon monoxide (CO) 2
annual averages by municipality 65
correlation with life satisfaction 48
Heckman selection model 61
life satisfaction estimates 53–54, 57, 60 life satisfaction robustness checks 58
marginal willingness to pay (MWTP) 41
causal indicators 46–47 characteristic function 283–284
China 4
China, economic evolution 173–176, 191–194 background information 176–177
ecological vulnerability of Western China 177 geographical conditions 177–180
location map 178
innovative knowledge estimation 193
method and data statistics 180–182
Loess Plateau 190–191
Qinghai-Tibet Plateau 188–190
Sichuan Basin 184–185
Xinjiang Region 187–188
Yunnan-Guizhou Plateau 185–187
research findings 182–185
China, industrial CO₂ emissions 71–73, 87–89 cities
data issues 76–77
data sources 77
INDEX

comparison of distributive properties 296–298
free riding (fr) 298–301
Rawlsian solution 291
Minimum Feasible Core (MF Core) 292–293
Nash Bargaining Solution and Nucleolus 293–294
Strong e-Core and Least Core  292
solution concepts 282–283
Chandler and Tulkens solution 288
Core and declinations 284–285
Core, applicability 285–288
Nucleolus 290–291
Nucleolus, computing 291
Shapley value 289–290
standard coasitional game and characteristic function 283–284 Core concept 284–285
applicability 285–288
Least Core 292
Minimum Feasible Core (MF Core) 292–293
Strong e-Core 292
country welfare function 294 Cramer’s rule 106
critical discount factor 263–264, 274
Critical Path Method (CPM) 225 cultural evolution 4–5
data generating processes (DGPs) 8 deposit-refund as an incentive 154–156 double dividend studies 96–97 double externality 230
duty-orientation 161
econometric modeling of climate change 2 economic evolution in ecologically fragile regions 173–176, 191–194
background information 176–177
ecological vulnerability of Western China 177
geographical conditions 177–180
location map 178
innovative knowledge estimation 193
method and data statistics 180–182
Loess Plateau 190–191
Qinghai-Tibet Plateau 188–190
Sichuan Basin 184–185
Xinjiang Region 187–188
Yunnan-Guizhou Plateau 185–187
research findings 182–185
economic globalization 207 economic targets 251–254, 268
dynamic game 260–263
sustainability 263–264
extensions
asymmetry in technology 266
comparative statics analysis 266–268
symmetric countries 264–265
literature review
loss-aversion and reference-dependent preferences 256–257 rationality of individuals and political entities 254–256
model 257–259
calculations and proofs 273–277
static game 259–260
effects indicators 46–47 energy balance model (EBM) 24–25
Environment Management Systems (EMS) 226, 231–234
environmental agencies, international (IEAs) 5 environmental economics, a new direction 1–2, 5–6 overview
air pollutants and CO₂ emissions 2–3 cultural evolution, globalization and environmental innovation 4–5 econometric modeling of climate change 2 environmental sustainability, waste management and recycling 3–4 international environmental agreements (IEAs) 5 evironmental innovation (EI) 4–5, 221–224
articles surveyed 227–230
determinants 230–232
Environment Management Systems (EMS) 231–234
economic effects 234–235 environmental effects 235–238
future research 244
knowledge advances 224–230
full network diagram 225
longest source-sink path diagram 226 policy inducement mechanism 238–241
Environmental Kuznets Curve (EKC) 49–52, 203
Environmental Regulation Index (ERI) 84–85 environmental sustainability 3–4, 95–98, 107
model
cconsumer’s optimization problem 98–99
government’s optimization problem 99–101
environmental sustainability (Continued)
optimal tax structure
individual effective marginal tax rates 104–105
optimal commodity taxation 106
Samuelson rule, greened 101–104
theoretical background 109–110

foreign direct investment (FDI) 3 effect on CO₂ emissions 74–75, 82–83
estimation results 85–87
instrumental variable 84
proxies for environmental regulations 84–85
globalization 202
free riding (fr) 298–301
gains and losses 299
index coefficients 309
pay-offs 308
potential loss index 300 game theory (GT) 279–280, 301–302

cooperative versus noncooperative approach 280–282 numerical comparison of solution concepts 294–296
characteristic values with asymmetric countries 296
comparison of distributive properties 296–298
free riding (fr) 298–301
Rawlsian solution 291
Minimum Feasible Core (MF Core) 292–293
Nash Bargaining Solution and Nucleolus 293–294
Strong e-Core and Least Core 292
solution concepts 282–283
Chandler and Tulkens solution 288
Core and declinations 284–285
Core, applicability 285–288
Nucleolus 290–291
Nucleolus, computing 291
Shapley value 289–290
standard coalitional game and characteristic function 283–284 general-to-specific approach 8, 10 glacier melting 1
global warming 1, 202
equivalent decline in GDP 1
globalization 4–5
globalization and climate change 201–203, 217 analysed analytical framework 203–205 theoretically predicted effects 204

empirical results
CO₂ from manufacturing and construction sectors 216–217 greenhouse gases and carbon emissions 215–216 overall globalization index 210–215 empirical strategy
data resource and descriptive statistics 207 greenhouse gas (GHG) emissions 209 instrumental variable view 207–210
model 205–207
literature review 203
GMM system 58
government’s optimization problem 99–101 grand stable coalition (GSC) 281–282, 295 green moral index (GMI) 149
greened Samuelson rule 95–98, 101–104, 107
model
customer’s optimization problem 98–99
government’s optimization problem 99–101
optimal tax structure
individual effective marginal tax rates 104–105
optimal commodity taxation 106
theoretical background 109–110 greenhouse gases (GHGs) 1, 202, 207
globalization 209
gross domestic product (GDP) and carbon emissions 206

Heckman selection model 59
air pollutants 61
hedonic pricing models 42
household cooperation in waste management 111–114, 131
future research 132–133
initial conditions 114
age and gender 119–120
conformity preferences 116–117
constraints inhibiting cooperation 117–118 demographic characteristics 118–121
dwelling size and community characteristics 120
education and income 119
habit 118
moral motivation 114–117
political preferences 117
INDEX

pro-environmental preferences 115–116

time and space constraints 118

intervention 121

charges 123–124

charges, concerns about 125–126

communication 126–129

communication, concerns about 129–131

convenience 122

convenience, enhancing 122–123

policy cues 131–132

household waste management incentives 143–144, 164–166

economic incentives 151

empirical analyses 157

information policies 156–158

subsidies versus deposit-refund 154–156

taxation 151–154

incorporation of behavioural instruments into practice 159

complex individual motivations 159–160

empirical analyses 165

nudges 163–164

personal norms versus social norms 162–163

social pressures 160–162

waste management framework 144–145

infrastructure 146–147

private versus public waste collection 147–148

regulatory framework 145–146

Willingness To Pay (WTP) 148–150

Huber-skip M-estimators 21 human-induced climate change 1 impulse-indicator saturation (IIS) 2, 8 impulses 8

income  see permanent income indicator functions 9–12

properties at breaks 12

potency for unknown break date 13–17

power for known break date 12–13

uncertainty of break date 17–19

properties under null or no breaks 19–23

innovation 4–5

intergovernmental organizations (IGOs) 205

international environmental agreements (IEAs) 5, 253

self-enforcing 260, 268

international environmental agreements (IEAs), cooperative game theory (CGT) 279–280, 301–302

cooperative versus noncooperative approach 280–282

numerical comparison of solution concepts 294–296

characteristic values with asymmetric countries 296

comparison of distributive properties 296–298

free riding (fr) 298–301

Rawlsian solution 291

Minimum Feasible Core (MF Core) 292–293

Nash Bargaining Solution and Nucleolus 293–294

Strong e-Core and Least Core 292

solution concepts 282–283

Chandler and Tulkens solution 288

Core and declinations 284–285

Core, applicability 285–288

Nucleolus 290–291

Nucleolus, computing 291

Shapley value 289–290

standard coalitional game and characteristic function 283–284

international environmental cooperation 251–254, 268

dynamic game 260–263

sustainability 263–264

extensions

asymmetry in technology 266

comparative statics analysis 266–268

symmetric countries 264–265

literature review

loss-aversion and reference-dependent preferences 256–257

rationality of individuals and political entities 254–256

model 257–259

calculations and proofs 273–277

static game 259–260

inverse distance weighting (IDW) 48

Inverse Mills ratio 59

Konjunkturforschungsstelle (KOF) globalization index 4, 202, 204, 206

Last Millennium (LM) simulation 23

life satisfaction and permanent income 39–41, 63–66

data 47–52

summary statistics 48

empirical results 52–63
life satisfaction and permanent income
(Continued)
life satisfaction estimates for air pollutants 60
life satisfaction estimates for movers 57
life satisfaction estimates for nonmovers 53-54
life satisfaction robustness checks for nonmovers 58
literature review 41-44
methodology
fixed effects 44-45
structural equation modelling (SEM) 45-47
life satisfaction approach (LSA) 40 linear programming (LP) 291
Location Theory 174
Loess Plateau (China) 190-191
economic evolution comparison 183
location 179-180
searched word categorized comparison 183
searched word record count 182
Logit model 59
loss-aversion 251-254, 268
dynamic game 260-263
sustainability 263-264
extensions
asymmetry in technology 266
comparative statics analysis 266-268
symmetric countries 264-265
literature review
rationality of individuals and political entities 254-256
reference-dependent preferences 256-257
model 257-259
calculations and proofs 273-277
static game 259-260
main path analysis literature 221-224
articles surveyed 227-230
determinants of EI 230-232
Environment Management Systems (EMS) 231-234 economic effects of EI 234-235 environmental effects of EI 235-238 further research 244 future developments 241-243 knowledge advances in EI 224-230
full network diagram 225
longest source-sink path diagram 226
policy inducement mechanism 238-241
Marginal Benefit (MB) 144-145 marginal external cost (MEC) 144-145
marginal willingness to pay (MWTP) 2, 41
calculation 43, 44
life satisfaction estimates 55-56
Probit-adapted model 55-56
maxmin principle 285, 291 Mill ratio 59
minmax principle 285
most cooperative emissions, interdependence of 274 multinational enterprises (MNEs) 203
Municipal Solid Waste (MSW)
management 111-114, 131
future research 132-133
household incentives 143-144, 164-166
economic incentives 151-158
incorporation of behavioural instruments into practice 159-164
waste management framework 144-150
initial conditions 114
age and gender 119-120
conformity preferences 116-117
constraints inhibiting cooperation 117-118
demographic characteristics 118-121
dwelling size and community characteristics 120
education and income 119
habit 118
moral motivation 114-117
political preferences 117
pro-environmental preferences 115-116
time and space constraints 118
intervention 121
charges 123-124
charges, concerns about 125-126
communication 126-129
communication, concerns about 129-131
convenience 122
convenience, enhancing 122-123
policy cues 131-132
private versus public waste collection 147-148
Nash Bargaining Solution 5
Nash Bargaining Solution, revisited 293-294
Nash emission levels 265
dynamic game 260-262
static game 259, 260
Nash emissions 273
Nash equilibrium 259–260, 261, 295 coalition-proof 287
partial agreement Nash equilibrium (PANE) 287, 295
strong 287
Nash reversion 260–261
net-benefit functions 273–274 nitrogen dioxide (NO₂) 2
annual averages by municipality 64
correlation with life satisfaction 48
Heckman selection model 61
life satisfaction estimates 53–54, 57, 60
life satisfaction robustness checks 58
marginal willingness to pay (MWTP) 41, 43
nonconvex games 305–306
non-cooperative game theory (NCGT) and IEAs 280–282, 287 non-OECD countries 4–5
non-transferable utility (NTU) 282 norms, personal and social 162–163 Northern Hemisphere climate model 8–9 surface air temperature simulation 25
results 26–30
Nucleolus 290–291
calculation 291
nudges 163–164
OECD countries 5, 164, 202, 208, 209, 211–214, 215, 216
optimal tax structure
individual effective marginal tax rates 104–105
optimal commodity taxation 106
Our Common Future 2
overall globalization index 210–215
ozone (O₃) 2, 39
annual averages by municipality 63
correlation with life satisfaction 48
Heckman selection model 61
life satisfaction estimates 53–54, 57, 60
life satisfaction robustness checks 58
marginal willingness to pay (MWTP) 41
Pareto-efficiency 101–103, 105
Pareto-improvement 103–104
partial agreement Nash equilibrium (PANE) 287, 295
particulate matter (PM) 2
marginal willingness to pay (MWTP) 43
particulate matter (PM₁₀) annual averages by municipality 65
correlation with life satisfaction 48
Heckman selection model 61
life satisfaction estimates 53–54, 57, 60
life satisfaction robustness checks 58
Pay As You Throw waste disposal charges 123–124 pay-off functions 287
free riding (fr) 308
proof 306–310
peer effects in recycling 160 permanent income and life satisfaction 39–41, 63–66
data 47–52
summary statistics 48
empirical results 52–63
life satisfaction estimates for air pollutants 60
life satisfaction estimates for movers 57
life satisfaction estimates for nonmovers 53–54
life satisfaction robustness checks for nonmovers 58
literature review 41–44
methodology
fixed effects 44–45
structural equation modelling (SEM) 45–47
personal norms 162–163
Pigovian Tax 123, 152
Poisson Pseudo Maximum Likelihood (PPML) 210 policy inducement 238–241 political entities, rationality of 254–256 political globalization 207 political parties 251 pollution 202
pollution haven hypothesis (PHH) 201 pollution taxes 96–97
Porter Hypothesis 222, 231, 238 narrow perspective 238–239 strong perspective 240
weak perspective 239–240
power endowment 296
Probit-adapted model 44
life satisfaction estimates 53–54, 55
marginal willingness to pay (MWTP) 55–56
Prospect Theory 256
Pure Characteristics (PC) sorting 42
INDEX

Qinghai-Tibet Plateau (China) 188–190
  economic evolution comparison 183
  location 177–178
  searched word categorized comparison 183
  searched word record count 182
QuickNet neural network 10

Random Utility (RU) sorting 42
rationality of individuals and political entities 254–256
Rawlsian maxmin principle 291
  Minimum Feasible Core (MF Core) 292–293
  Nash Bargaining Solution and Nucleolus 293–294
  Strong e-Core and Least Core 292
Rawlsian Nucleolus 5, 293–294 recycling 3–4
recycling of household waste 113–114
Reduced-Stage Game (RSG) models 281
reference-dependent preferences 256–257
Research & Development (R&D) 173 root mean square of error of approximation (RMSEA) 45–46, 56 root mean square residual (RMSR) 46
Roy’s identity 99

Samuelson rule, greened 95–98, 101–104, 107 model consumer’s optimization problem 98–99
government’s optimization problem 99–101 optimal tax structure individual effective marginal tax rates 104–105
  optimal commodity taxation 106
  theoretical background 109–110
sea level rise 1
Search Path Count (SPC) 225
seemingly unrelated regressions (SURE) 62
Shapley value 289–290
  weighted 290
shrinkage-based penalized likelihood methods 10, 17 Sichuan Basin (China) 184–185
  economic evolution comparison 183
  location 178–179
  searched word categorized comparison 183
  searched word record count 182
small stable coalition (SSC) 281 social approval in recycling 160 social globalization 207 social norms 162–163
social responsibility 161 specific-to-general approach 8 split-half approach 11, 13–14 step functions 8
step-indicator saturation (SIS) 2, 8 structural breaks 8
structural decomposition analysis (SDA) 74 structural equation modelling (SEM) 2, 39–41, 63–66
data 47–52
  summary statistics 48
empirical results 52–63
  life satisfaction estimates for air pollutants 60
  life satisfaction estimates for movers 57
  life satisfaction estimates for nonmovers 53–54
  life satisfaction robustness checks for nonmovers 58 life satisfaction studies 43–44
literature review 41–44
methodology
  fixed effects 44–45
  panel data 45–47
subsidies as incentives 154–156 sulfur dioxide (SO2) 2, 39
  annual averages by municipality 64
correlation with life satisfaction 48
  Heckman selection model 61
  life satisfaction estimates 53–54, 57, 60
  life satisfaction robustness checks 58
  marginal willingness to pay (MWTP) 41, 43
summer smog 56–57
superadditive games 283, 295–296
  proof 306
supermodular games 283
surface air temperature simulation 23–24
  results 26–28
  forecasting during breaks 28–30
  setup 24–26
sustainability 3–4
Switzerland, air pollution evaluation 39–41, 63–66
data 47–52
  summary statistics 48
empirical results 52–63
  life satisfaction estimates for air pollutants 60
  life satisfaction estimates for movers 57
life satisfaction estimates for nonmovers 53–54
life satisfaction robustness checks for nonmovers 58
literature review 41–44
methodology
fixed effects 44–45
structural equation modelling (SEM) 45–47
tax structure, optimal
individual effective marginal tax rates 104–105
optimal commodity taxation 106
taxation rates 95–96
household waste management 151–154 technological inefficiency 273 time series, breaks in 7–9 total factor productivity (TFP) 78 trade openness 210
transferable utility (TU) 282
t-statistic 15
t-statistic 18
Tucker–Lewis index (TLI) 45–46 volcanic break functions 15–17 volcanic eruption detection 7–9, 30–32
designed indicator functions 9–12
properties at breaks 12–19
properties under null or no breaks 19–23
simulated model surface air temperature 23–24
results 26–30
simulation setup 24–26
warm-glow behaviour 115, 159 waste management 3–4, 111–114, 131
future research 132–133
initial conditions 114
age and gender 119–120
conformity preferences 116–117
constraints inhibiting cooperation 117–118
demographic characteristics 118–121
dwelling size and community characteristics 120
education and income 119
habit 118
moral motivation 114–117
political preferences 117
pro-environmental preferences 115–116
time and space constraints 118
intervention 121
charges 123–124
charges, concerns about 125–126
communication 126–129
communication, concerns about 129–131
convenience 122
convenience, enhancing 122–123
policy cues 131–132
waste management incentives 143–144, 164–166
economic incentives 151
empirical analyses 157
information policies 156–158
subsidies versus deposit-refund 154–156
taxation 151–154
incorporation of behavioural instruments into practice 159
complex individual motivations 159–160
empirical analyses 165
 nudges 163–164
 personal norms versus social norms 162–163
 social pressures 160–162
 waste management framework 144–145
 infrastructure 146–147
 private versus public waste collection 147–148
 regulatory framework 145–146
 Willingness To Pay (WTP) 148–150
 Willingness To Pay (WTP)
 household waste 148–150
 empirical analysis 150
 winter smog 56–57
 Xinjiang Region (China) 187–188
economic evolution comparison 183
location 179
searched word categorized comparison 183
searched word record count 182
Yunnan-Guizhou Plateau (China) 185–187
economic evolution comparison 183
location 179
searched word categorized comparison 183
searched word record count 182