General Introduction ........................................... vii

Chapter 1. Innovation Processes, Innovation Capabilities and Knowledge Management ................. 1

1.1. Does knowledge management improve the performance of innovating enterprises? ....................... 2
    1.1.1. Does empirical research confirm the existence of a connection between knowledge management and the performance of innovative enterprises? ....................... 2
    1.1.2. Beyond the enterprise: knowledge management, innovative territories and innovation projects ......... 4
1.2. Innovation capability and knowledge management ...................................... 7
    1.2.1. The decomposition of innovation: invention and commercialization .................................... 8
    1.2.2. Innovation activities and aptitudes ................................................................. 11
    1.2.3. Dynamic capability and knowledge processes ................................................. 15
    1.2.4. Innovation capability as dynamic capability rooted in the management of knowledge .................... 17

Chapter 2. Knowledge Typology and Knowledge Processes at the Service of Innovation ......................... 21

2.1. Knowledge generation ............................................... 24
    2.1.1. Knowledge creation: a process of combination/recombination of background knowledge ................. 25
    2.1.2. Absorption and integration of knowledge ...................................................... 31
2.2. Knowledge application .............................................. 35
    2.2.1. Codification and personalization: two complementary strategies of knowledge alignment .................... 36
2.2.2. The role of architectural knowledge in the process of knowledge alignment ........................................ 39
2.3. Knowledge valorization ........................................ 42
  2.3.1. Patents: protection and knowledge management instruments ........................................ 44
  2.3.2. Cooperation agreements: instruments of anticipation of knowledge management strategies .......... 48

Chapter 3. Managing Knowledge to Innovate: Open and Distributed Innovation Models ......................... 53
  3.1. Open innovation ............................................ 54
    3.1.1. The concept of open innovation .......................... 55
    3.1.2. The two facets of open innovation ....................... 56
    3.1.3. Open innovation modalities ................................ 57
    3.1.4. The importance of intellectual protection ................. 58
    3.1.5. Advantages and drawbacks of open innovation .......... 59
    3.1.6. Implementation of open innovation ....................... 61
  3.2. User innovation ............................................ 61
    3.2.1. The concept of user innovation .......................... 63
    3.2.2. Lead users activities ..................................... 65
    3.2.3. Competencies of user-innovators ......................... 66
    3.2.4. Implementation of user innovation ....................... 68
  3.3. Innovating with communities ................................. 72
    3.3.1. Social interactions and knowledge production within communities ................................ 74
    3.3.2. Communities in the firm: between governance and spontaneity .......................................... 75
    3.3.3. Innovating with external communities: the role of the middleground ..................................... 77
  3.4. Crowdsourcing ............................................ 79
    3.4.1. A typology of crowdsourcing ................................ 79
    3.4.2. The relevance of crowdsourcing for innovation ........ 82
    3.4.3. Crowdsourcing platforms .................................. 83
    3.4.4. Crowdsourcing and other open innovation models .......... 85

General Conclusion ............................................ 87
