Contents

List of Contributors vii

Introduction xi

Thomas W. Kallert, Juan E. Mezzich and John Monahan

SECTION 1 Conceptual and clinical aspects of coercive treatment 1

1. Person-centred psychiatry perspectives on coercion and cooperation 3
   Juan E. Mezzich

2. Coercive treatment and stigma – is there a link? 13
   Wolfgang Gaebel and Harald Zaske

3. Mandated psychiatric treatment in the community – forms, prevalence, outcomes and controversies 33
   John Monahan

4. Is it possible to define a best practice standard for coercive treatment in psychiatry? 49
   Tilman Steinert and Peter Lepping

5. How to de-escalate a risk situation to avoid the use of coercion 57
   Dirk Richter

SECTION 2 Legal aspects of coercive treatment 81

6. Psychiatry and the law – do the fields agree in their views on coercive treatment? 83
   Julio Arboleda-Flórez
7. Reducing discrimination in mental health law – the ‘fusion’ of incapacity and mental health legislation
   George Szmukler and John Dawson
   97

8. Mental health care and patients’ rights – are these two fields currently compatible?
   Thomas W. Kallert
   121

SECTION 3 Ethical aspects of coercive treatment

9. Cross-cultural perspectives on coercive treatment in psychiatry
   Ahmed Okasha and Tarek Okasha
   153

10. Historical injustice in psychiatry with examples from Nazi Germany and others – ethical lessons for the modern professional
    Rael Strous
    161

11. Paternalism in mental health – when boots are superior to Pushkin
    Tom Burns
    175

SECTION 4 Users’ views on coercive treatment

12. The moral imperative for dialogue with organizations of survivors of coerced psychiatric human rights violations
    David W. Oaks
    187

13. Resisting variables – service user/survivor perspectives on researching coercion
    Jasna Russo and Jan Wallcraft
    213

14. Seventy years of coercion in psychiatric institutions, experienced and witnessed
    Dorothea S. Buck-Zerchin
    235

15. Coercion – point, perception, process
    Dorothy M. Castille, Kristina H. Muenzenmaier and Bruce G. Link
    245

SECTION 5 Coercion and undue influence in decisions to participate in psychiatric research

16. Ethical issues of participating in psychiatric research on coercion
    Lars Kjellin
    271

17. Coercion and undue influence in decisions to participate in psychiatric research
    Paul S. Appelbaum, Charles W. Lidz and Robert Klitzman
    293

Index

315