CONTENTS

Preface xi
Acknowledgments xiv
About the Authors xv

CHAPTER ONE
Introduction to the Instructional Design Process 2

Getting Started 2
Why Instructional Design? 4
  Why Do Instructional Design? 4
  What Are the Benefits of Instructional Design? 5
Applying the Process to Both Academic Education and Training Programs 6
What Is Instructional Design? 8
  Education Versus Training 10
  Instructional Design and Human Performance Technology 10
Contexts for Instructional Design 11
  Premises Underlying the Instructional Design Process 12
Overview of Our Design Model 16
  Instructional Problems 16
  Learner and Context 17
  Task Analysis 17
  Instructional Objectives 17
  Content Sequencing 17
  Instructional Strategies 17
  Designing the Message 17
  Development of the Instruction 18
  Evaluation Instruments 18
  Ongoing Processes 19
Who’s Who in the Instructional Design Process 20
  Instructional Designer 21
  Subject-Matter Expert (SME) 21
  Evaluator 21
Answering the Critics 21
Questions . . . Questions . . . Questions 23
Summary 23
The ID Process 24
  Lean Instructional Design 24
Application 25
Answers 25
References 25
CHAPTER TWO
Identifying the Need for Instruction

Getting Started 28
Is Instruction the Answer? 30
Needs Assessment 31
- Types of Needs and Data Sources 33
- Conducting a Needs Assessment 37
- Example Needs Assessment Plan 39
Goal Analysis 41
- Six Steps of Goal Analysis 42
- Comparing Goal Analysis and Needs Assessment 43
Performance Assessment 44
Summary 45
The ID Process 46
- Lean Instructional Design 47
Application 47
- Problem 1 47
- Problem 2 48
Answers 48
- Problem 1 48
- Problem 2 48
Quality Management 49
Instructional Design: Decisions and Choices 49
References 50

CHAPTER THREE
Learner and Contextual Analysis

Getting Started 52
Types of Learner Characteristics 54
- General Characteristics 55
- Specific Entry Characteristics 55
- Learning Styles 56
- Academic Information 57
- Personal and Social Characteristics 57
- Culturally Diverse Learners 58
- Learners with Disabilities 59
- Adult Learners 60
Contextual Analysis 63
- Types of Context 64
- Conducting a Contextual Analysis 66
Summary 67
The ID Process 67
- Lean Instructional Design 68
CHAPTER FOUR
Task Analysis

Getting Started  74
Task Analysis  76
Preparing to Conduct a Task Analysis  77
Content Structures  77
Topic Analysis  79
Analyzing a Topic  80
Procedural Analysis  82
Going Beyond Procedural Analysis  86
The Critical Incident Method  90
Conducting a Task Analysis  92
Serving as Your Own SME  92
Techniques for Gathering Data  93
Recording Methods  94
Summary  95
The ID Process  95
Lean Instructional Design  96
Application  96
Answer  96
Quality Management  98
Instructional Design: Decisions and Choices  99
Instructional Goals  99
References  101

CHAPTER FIVE
Instructional Objectives

Getting Started  104
Function of Objectives  104
Three Objective Domains  106
Cognitive Domain  106
Psychomotor Domain  107
Affective Domain  109
Interrelation of Domains  109
CONTENTS

Developing Instructional Objectives 110
  The Basis for Objectives 110
  Approaches to Objectives 110
Writing Objectives in the Cognitive Domain 111
  Behavioral Objectives 111
  Optional Parts 112
  Cognitive Objectives 114
Writing Objectives for the Psychomotor Domain 117
Writing Objectives for the Affective Domain 117
Classifying Objectives 119
  Expanded Performance—Content Matrix Model 119
Pros and Cons of Writing Objectives 121
Summary 122
The ID Process 122
  Lean Instructional Design 123
Application 123
Answers 124
Quality Management 124
Instructional Design: Decisions and Choices 125
  Writing Objectives 125
  Refining the Objectives 125
  Putting It All Together 126
References 127

CHAPTER SIX
Designing the Instruction: Sequencing 128

Getting Started 128
The Posner and Strike Sequencing Schemes 130
  Learning-Related Sequencing 130
  World-Related Sequencing 132
  Concept-Related Sequencing 133
Elaboration Theory Sequencing 136
  Content Expertise Sequencing 136
  Task Expertise Sequencing 136
From Objectives to Sequencing 137
Summary 137
The ID Process 137
  Lean Instructional Design 137
Application 138
Answers 138
Quality Management 138
Instructional Design: Decisions and Choices 139
References 140
CHAPTER SEVEN
Designing the Instruction: Strategies

Getting Started 142
Why Instructional Strategies? 144
  Designing an Instructional Strategy 144
  Foundations for the Prescriptions 144
  Generative Strategies 145
Prescriptions for Instructional Strategies 146
  Prescriptions for Teaching Facts 149
  Prescriptions for Teaching Concepts 150
  Prescriptions for Teaching Principles and Rules 152
  Prescriptions for Teaching Procedures 154
  Prescriptions for Teaching Interpersonal Skills 157
  Prescriptions for Teaching Attitudes 159
Summary 159
The ID Process 160
  Lean Instructional Design 160
Applications 161
Answers 161
Quality Management 162
Instructional Design: Decisions and Choices 162
  Instructional Strategies 162
    Objective 1 162
    Objective 2 163
    Objective 3 163
    Objective 4 163
    Objective 5 164
    Objective 6 164
References 165

CHAPTER EIGHT
Designing the Instructional Message

Getting Started 170
Preinstructional Strategies 172
  Pretests 173
  Objectives 173
  Overviews 174
    Advance Organizers 175
Message Design for Text 176
  Signaling the Text’s Schema 177
  Explicit Signals 178
  Typographical Signals 178
Pictures and Graphics in Instruction 183
  Effectiveness 183
    Graphical Signals 184
Contents

The Function of Pictures 185
Using Pictures in Instruction 190

Summary 191
The ID Process 191
Lean Instructional Design 191
Applications 192
Answers 192
Quality Management 193
Instructional Design: Decisions and Choices 193
References 195

CHAPTER NINE
Developing Instructional Materials 200

Getting Started 200
Starting the Development of the Instruction 200
Staying Focused 202
Heuristics for Developing Instruction 203
Make It Concrete 203
Control the Step Size 205
Use Appropriate Pacing 205
Maintain Consistency 206
Use Cues 206

Putting Pen to Paper or Fingers to Keyboard 207
Preinstructional Strategy 207
Initial Presentation 207
Generative Strategy 208
Transitions 208
Cognitive Load 209

Group Presentations 217
Strengths 217
Limitations 218
Applications 218
Guidelines for Effective Lecturing 219
Distance Education 220

Self-Paced Learning 222
Strengths 223
Limitations 224
Guidelines for Effective Learning 224
Design Checklist 225
Changing Roles 225

Small-Group Formats 226
Strengths 226
Limitations 226
Formats 226
Summary 229
The ID Process 230
  Lean Instructional Design 230
Application 230
Answer 231
Quality Management 231
Instructional Design: Decisions and Choices 231
References 232

CHAPTER TEN
Design Considerations for Technology-Based Instruction 238

Getting Started 238
  Affordances of Technology-Based Instruction 240
Individualized Computer- and Web-Based Instruction 240
  Drill-and-Practice 241
  Tutorials 241
  Simulations 242
  Games 242
  Hypermedia 243
Design Considerations for Individualized Computer and Web-Based Instruction 243
  Interface Design 244
  Learner Control 245
  Feedback 246
  Remediation 248
  Designing Interactions 249
  Using Multimedia 252
Design Considerations for Group-Based Distance Instruction 255
  An Individualized Approach to Distance Instruction 256
  A Group Approach to Distance Instruction 256
  Avoiding the Shovelware Trap 257
Summary 258
The ID Process 258
  Lean Instructional Design 258
Application 259
Answer 259
Quality Management 259
Instructional Design: Decisions and Choices 260
  Objective 1 260
  Objective 2 260
  Objective 3 261
  Objective 4 261
  Objective 5 261
  Objective 6 261
References 261
CHAPTER ELEVEN
The Many Faces of Evaluation 268
Getting Started 268
Purposes of Evaluation 270
  Formative Evaluation 270
  Summative Evaluation 273
  Confirmative Evaluation 273
Relationship Among Formative, Summative, and Confirmative Evaluations 274
  The Role of Instructional Objectives 274
  Multiple Data Sources Equal Increased Information 275
  Processes and Products 275
  Time of Testing 275
  When to Evaluate 275
Relationship Between Evaluation and Instructional Objectives 276
  Matching Measures to Objectives 276
Suggested Measures for Alternative Outcomes 277
Validity and Reliability of Tests 277
  Validity 277
  Reliability 279
  Relationship Between Validity and Reliability 282
Standards of Achievement 282
  Relative Standards 282
  Absolute Standards 283
  Measurement Issues 284
  Standards Versus Conventional Measurement 284
Student Self-Evaluation 286
  Pretesting 286
  Testing for Prerequisites 286
  Testing for Improvement in Performance 287
  Benefits of Pretesting 287
  Whether or Not to Pretest 288
Summary 288
The ID Process 289
  Lean Instructional Design 290
Application 291
Answer 291
Instructional Design: Decisions and Choices 291
References 293

CHAPTER TWELVE
Developing Evaluation Instruments 296
Getting Started 296
Testing Knowledge 298
  The Relationship Between Evaluation and Instructional Objectives 298
  Objective Tests 298
Contents

Constructed-Response Tests 305
Testing Skills and Behavior 311
  Preliminary Considerations 313
  Types of Skill/Behavior Assessments 314
Attitudes 323
  Two Uses of Attitude Assessment 324
  Observation/Anecdotal Records 324
  Assessment of Behavior 325
  Questionnaire/Survey 326
  Interview 328
Summary 329
The ID Process 329
  Lean Instructional Design 330
Applications 330
Answers 330
Instructional Design: Decisions and Choices 331
  Objective 1 331
  Objective 2 332
  Objective 3 332
  Objective 4 332
  Objective 5 332
  Objective 6 332
  Example of Performance Checklist 333
References 333

CHAPTER THIRTEEN
Using Evaluation to Enhance Programs: Conducting Formative and Summative Evaluations 334
Getting Started 334
A Basic Model for Formative Evaluation 336
  Purposes 336
  Audience 337
  Issues 337
  Resources 337
  Evidence 338
  Data-Gathering Techniques 338
  Analysis 339
  Reporting 340
Types of Formative Evaluation 341
  Connoisseur-Based Studies 341
  Decision-Oriented Studies 342
  Objectives-Based Studies 343
  Public Relations-Inspired Studies 343
  Quick-Turnaround Evaluation Studies 343
Stages of Formative Evaluation 344
Summative Evaluation: Determining Program Outcomes 345
  Evaluation Versus Research 346
Program Effectiveness 347
  Summative Evaluation Methods 348
Innovation 392
Communication 393
Social System 393
Time 394
The CLER Model 395
Configuration 395
Linkages 396
Environment 396
Resources 396
Planning the Implementation with the CLER Model 399
Configuration 399
Linkages 400
Environment 400
Resources 400
Analysis of the Situation 400
Implementation Plan 400
Tichy’s TPC (Technical, Political, Cultural) Framework 401
Developmental Stages and Information Decision Process Models 402
Implementation Decisions 403
Program Promotion 403
Instructional Delivery 403
Materials 404
Instructors 405
Scheduling 405
Instructor Training 405
Role of Supervisors 407
Summary 408
The ID Process 408
Lean Instructional Design 408
Application 409
Answers 409
Instructional Design: Decisions and Choices 410
References 410

CHAPTER SIXTEEN
Instructional Design Project Management 412
Getting Started 412
Project Management 414
Project Planning 414
Management Activities 420
Completing the Project 421
Project Agreement and Proposal Preparation 422
Instructional Design Shortcuts 427
Flexibility of the Instructional Design Process 427
Contents

Instructional Design in Organizations 427
  Purposes and Role 428
  Placement Within the Organization 428
  Budgetary Support 429

Working with the Subject-Matter Expert and Consultants 429
  The Subject-Matter Expert in Different Roles 430
  Working with Other Consultants and Team Members 431

Legal Considerations in ID Project Management 431
  Contracts 432
  Government Regulations 432
  Common Legal Problems in Training 432

Summary 434

The ID Process 434
  Lean Instructional Design 435

Application 435

Answers 435

Instructional Design: Decisions and Choices 435

References 436

APPENDIX A Sample Instructional Design Documentation 439

APPENDIX B A Sample Instructional Unit 449

Glossary 459

Index 463
Designing Effective Instruction