CONTENTS

Figures, Table, and Exhibits xi
Preface to the Second Edition: The Face of Online Learning Today xiii
The Authors xix
Acknowledgments xxii

PART ONE: RETHINKING EDUCATION FOR AN ONLINE WORLD  1

1 Online Learning in the Twenty-First Century  3
   Online Learning Today  6
   Current and Emerging Technologies  8
   Emerging Issues for Both Faculty and Administrators  9
   Technology for Online Teaching Is Chosen Without Faculty Input • Governance
   Issues Have Emerged • Intellectual Property, Course Design, and Course Ownership
   Issues • Just Like Faculty, Students Need to Be Trained to Learn Online • Instructor
   Workload

   Recent Developments in K–12 Online Learning 16
   The Effectiveness of Distance Delivery 18
Contents

2 The Art of Online Teaching 21
Lack of Preparation 22
Who Should Teach Online? 23
Training, Training, and More Training 24
Using Mobile Technology in Faculty Training 27
New Processes, New Relationships 28
Online Pedagogy 30
Keys to Success 30
Ensuring Access to and Familiarity with Technology • Establishing Guidelines and Procedures • Achieving Maximum Participation • Promoting Collaboration • Promoting Reflection
The Final Transition: Assessing and Evaluating Students and Ourselves 41
Supporting Instructors to Make the Transition 43

3 Administrative Issues and Concerns 45
Faculty Time, Compensation, and Questions of Tenure 47
Program Planning and Development 49
Another Look at Faculty and Student Support, Training, and Development 52
Governance and Intellectual Property 54
Student Retention 56
Some Last Thoughts on Administrative Issues and Concerns 58

4 The Tools of Online Teaching 61
Technology in the Twenty-First Century 62
Matching the Technology to the Course 64
What Are Web 2.0 Technologies? 70
Common Forms of Web 2.0 Technologies • Using Web 2.0 Tools in Online Courses
Choosing Technology Wisely 75
When the Technology Is a Problem • Evaluating Technology • Use of Technology • Infrastructure • Instructional Strategy
When Money Is an Issue 81
Accessibility Is a Major Concern 82
PART TWO: TEACHING AND LEARNING ONLINE  85

5 Transforming Courses for the Online Classroom  87

Starting Over: Considerations in the Development of an Online Course  89

Who Are My Students?  •  Is This a Course That Will Successfully Transfer to the Online Environment?  •  How Do I Define Learning in This Content Area, and What Do I Want to See as the Learning Outcomes?  •  What Do I Want to Accomplish Through This Course?  •  What Guidelines, Rules, Roles, and Norms Need to Be Established for Course Completion?  •  How Do I Plan to Deliver Course Material?  •  How Comfortable Am I in Releasing Control to the Learners?  •  How Do I Want to Organize the Course Site?  •  How Will I Assess Student Performance in This Course?  •  How Will I Address Attendance Requirements?

The Process of the Course  106

Beginnings  •  Once the Course Has Started  •  Endings

6 Teaching Courses Developed by Others  119

A Focus on Content  121

Ability to Adjust the Course  122

Examples of Customization  123

When Customizing Is Not Possible  124

Building Community into the Process  125

Evaluating a Course Developed by Another  126

Issues of Intellectual Property  129

Courses with Rolling Admission  130

Final Thoughts on Teaching a Course Developed by Another  132

7 Working with the Virtual Student  135

If We Build It, They Will Come  136

The Successful Learner in the Online Classroom  137

Addressing Different Learning Styles  140

Recognizing and Working with Those Who Do Not Succeed  141

The Role of the Learner in the Online Learning Process  142

Knowledge Generation  •  Collaboration  •  Process Management
Maximizing the Potential of the Virtual Student 148

Use Best Practices from the Face-to-Face Classroom to Promote Participation Online

• If a Student Is Absent for a Week, Contact Him or Her to Determine the Reason
• If Students Have Technical Difficulties, Offer Support or Connect Them with Tech Support
• If Conflict Hurts Participation, Intercede with the Students Involved
• If Security Breaches Cause Nonparticipation, Report Them Quickly to Reestablish a Sense of Privacy
• Log On to the Online Classroom Three or More Times a Week (Daily If Possible!) to Keep the Discussion Moving
• Learn How to Ask Broad Questions That Stimulate Thinking to Promote Participation
• Include Humor in Your Posts to Help Students Feel Welcome and Safe
• Post a Welcoming Response to Student Introductions to Help All Join More Successfully

Teaching Students to Learn in the Online Environment 154

Respecting Student Intellectual Property 156

8 Online Classroom Dynamics 159

Group Dynamics and Online Classroom Dynamics 160

Applying What We Understand About Groups to Online Classes 163

Preferring • Unity • Disunity • Conflict-Confrontation
• Disharmony • Harmony • Performing • Concluding Thoughts About the Soul and Spirit Group

Other Ways of Looking at Online Groups 171

The Student • The Group • The Instructor/Facilitator • The Task • The Technology

Conflict Revisited 175

Working with Difficult Students 179

When It Simply Isn’t Working 181

9 Lessons Learned in the Virtual Classroom 187

A Look Back 187

The Myths 188

Lessons for Faculty 189

Instructors Need Not Fear Online Learning • Course Development Needs to Focus on Interactivity, Not Content • Instructor and Student Roles Need to Change

Lessons for Instructional Designers and Faculty Developers 191

Both Faculty and Students Need Training • Faculty Who Teach Online Need to Feel Supported