Index

abstinence, 185–6
analogies, 3–4
anonymity, 184–5
auscultation, 1
clinical evaluation
brain imaging, 162–3
chief complaint, 149–50
family history, 151–2
greeting, 147
hypnosis, 163
identifying information, 149 laboratory tests, 159, 161 medical history, 152
Mental Status Examination see Mental Status Examination neurological examination, 158–9 neurophysiologic assessment, 159–62
past psychiatric history, 150
personal history, 150–1 physical examination, 157–8
present illness history, 150 psychological and neuropsychological testing, 159 sedation, 163
structured instruments and rating scales, 159 substance use history, 152–3 Computer-Assisted Diagnostic Interview (CADI), 104–5 countertransference, 9, 16, 20, 26, 37–8, 43, 45–6, 84, 145 cultural diversity, 59
culture
assessment, 57
background knowledge and assumptions, 48 clinician–patient relationship, 56–7 competence
cultural diversity, 59
cultural information, 57, 58 ethnic matching, 58, 59 ethnocultural group, 59 multidisciplinary teams, 60 electronic communication, 48
ethnicity, 49
ethnocultural identity, 52–3
formulation, 51
functioning and disability levels, 56 and gender, 50–1
illness explanations and help-seeking behavior, 53–5 interpreters and culture-brokers connotations, 61
interactional system, 62 training, 62
triadic social system, 61 working guidelines, 60
limitation, 62–3
matrix, 47–8
psychosocial environment, 55
race, 49
rapid transportation, 48
social class, 49
defense mechanisms, 22, 38–40, 142
delusions, 117
directiveness, interview style, 91–3
ethnicity, 49, 59, 77
ethnocultural identity, 52–3
formulation
  biological contributions
  family history, 136
  medical illnesses, 136
  medications, 137
  neurovegetative factors, 137 physical condition, 137 substance use, 137 case formulation see treatment planning cultural, 51–3, 57, 62, 63 early childhood experiences abuse, 138
  academic history, 138–9 occupational functioning, 139 morality/conscientiousness, 143
  psychological factors
  coping strategy, 142
  defense mechanisms, 142
  theoretical approaches, 140, 141 relationships/marital history curiosity, 139
  religious/spiritual history, 139 stress, 139
  self-esteem, 144–5
  social factors, 138
  hallucinations, 87, 117, 118, 155, 165

listening
  blocks countertransference/insensitivity, 9 cross-cultural barriers, 8 disequilibrium state, 10 empathy/sensitivity, 9
  gender, 7–8
  patient/clinician similarities and differences, 7 regional variations, 9 crucial attitudes antidepressant medication, 11 complex understanding, 13 depression, 11
  diagnosis reliability and accuracy, 10 doctor–patient relationship, 14 empathy and therapeutic alliance, 12 finding patient, 11, 12
  inner experience, 10–12
  objective–descriptive examiners, 13 data processing, 6 disease orientation, 2
  factors, 5
  growth and maturity anticipation and curiosity signals, 28 clarification efforts, 28 empathy, 28
  flow of consciousness, 26 imagination, 27
  perceptual abnormalities, 27 self-education, 27
  transference/countertransference, 26 guiding depressed patient, 3 and hearing, 6–7
  history and physical examination, 1
  internalized objects, 5 laboratory and imaging examinations, 1 narrative–experiential, 4 and observation, 87
  oneself
  communication, 18
  countertransference, 20
  defense mechanism, 22
  inner experience, 16
  life experience, 16
  personal therapy, 16
  projective identification, 21 re-listening, 20
  supervision, 16
  therapeutic dyad, 16, 17 transference and countertransference, 16
  primary tools, 3–4
  psychological assessment components
  gender, 19
  neurobiological basis, 20 overt behavior, 18
  personality disorder, 18 psychobiological process, 20 skills, 2
  special clinical situations children, 23
  chronically mentally ill, 25 geriatric patients, 23–4 physically ill patients, 25–6 stance of curiosity, 6 symptomatic, 4
  theoretical perspectives, 14–16

Mental Status Examination
  (MSE), 81–3
  behavior, 154
  mood and affect, 155
  patient’s appearance, 154 patient’s cognitive functioning abstract constructions, 156 level of education, 156 Mini-Mental State Examination, 156–7 understanding, 156
  speech, 155
  thought process, 155
  metaphors, 3–4
  MSE see Mental Status Examination narrative–experiential listening, 4
neurophysiologic assessment
clinical EEG, 159–62
goals of, 160, 161
nonverbal communication, 86–7, 124, 127
paranoia, 117, 157
perception, 1
personality theory, 14
physician–patient relationship assessment and evaluation, 34, 35 children, adolescents, and families, 45 cross-cultural and ethnic issues, 44–5
culture, 56–7
defense mechanisms, 38–40
fantasy-based component, 33 importance and complexity, 32 information source, 33
patient’s mental status cognitive limitations, 42 insight-oriented psychotherapy, 41 interpersonal skill rehabilitation, 42 physical and emotional losses, 39 rapport, 35
reality-based component, 33 roles and motivations, 31, 32 sensitivity, 32
social connectedness, 31 terminally ill patients, 45–6 therapeutic armamentarium, 31 therapeutic/working alliance, 36 transference and countertransference, 37–8 treatment
phase, 42–3
settings, 43–4
professional attitude boundary violations, 179–80 coherent psychiatric frame abstinence, 185–6
anonymity, 184–5
autonomy and neutrality, 183 avoiding dual relationships, 182
confidentiality, 184
noncompulsive compensation, 183–4 self-respect and protection, 186–7 stability, 181–2
social interaction, 178 therapeutic modality, 178–9 WPA guidelines ethnic discrimination and cleansing, 178
on euthanasia, 176–7
geneic research and counseling, 177 media addressing, 178 organ transplantation, 177 sex selection, 177
on torture, 177
professional ethics attitude see professional attitude Declaration of Madrid guidelines, 176 principles of medical ethics, 174
psychiatric database
chief complaint, 77
core database, 75, 76
data identification, 77
family history, 79
past medical history, 78–9
past psychiatric history, 78
personal history, 79–81
personality disorder symptoms, 75
present illness history, 77–8
written, 65–6
psychiatric interviews baseline functioning, 68, 73 biological factors, 68, 73–4 clinical evaluation see clinical evaluation culture see culture diagnosis
biological–genetic etiology, 67 brain dysfunction, 67–72 mood swings, 67
symptoms, deficits, and behaviors, 66 directiveness, 91–3
environmental factors, 68 fact vs. feeling orientation, 95, 96 feedback, 96–8
formulation see formulation illness severity, 66
influencing factors cognitive capacities, 83 emotionally based biases, patient and interviewer, 84
physical/emotional distress, 83 racial, ethnic, and cultural factors, 85 situational factors, 84 interviewer attitude and behavior, 87–8 listening see listening Mental Status Examination, 81–3
nonverbal communication, 86–7
phases, 89–90
physician–patient relationship see physician–patient relationship professional attitude see professional attitude professional ethics see professional ethics psychiatric database
chief complaint, 77
core database, 75, 76
data identification, 77
family history, 79
past medical history, 78–9
Index

psychiatric interviews (cont’d)
  past psychiatric history, 78
  personal history, 79–81
  personality disorder symptoms, 75
  present illness history, 77–8
  written, 65–6
psychiatric disorder, 66
psychodynamic theory, 65
psychological factors, 74–5 setting, 85
special populations see special populations structure, 88–9
style and content, 65
supportiveness
  emotionally supportive interventions, 93 obstructive interventions, 94–5 techniques, 90
  treatment motivation and capacity, 75
  verbal communication, 85–6

race, 3, 7, 44, 49, 57, 77

similes, 3–4
social class, 49, 59
special circumstances
  emergency department crisis intervention, 111–12 laboratory results, 111 past diagnosis, 111
    setting of, 111
    staff concerns, 111
inpatients units
  additional information, 105 CADI, 104–5
  consensus diagnosis vs. TDA, 104 empathic statements, 105
  history and physical examination, 104
  institutional transference, 105–6 open-ended questions, 104 mass casualty/disaster situations, 113–15 medical wards attitude monitoring, 108–9 collateral information, 109 distractions, 108
    lack of comfort, 107
    lack of confidentiality, 108 lack of privacy, 106, 108
    mental status, 109
    patient’s hostility, 109–10 question specification, 107 role of consulting psychiatrist, 106 skeptical staff members, 107–8 visiting hours, 108
special populations
  children/adolescents
    child’s life, 121
    confidentiality, 123
    functional emotional development, 122 parents interview, 123 teacher and counselors information, 123 cross-cultural issues, 128 interpreters bilingual staff, 125–6 family/friends, 124–5
    remote interpreters, 126–8 psychosis patients formal thought disorder, 115, 118 past interactions and mental health providers, 115–16 psychotic thought content, 116–18 suicidal patients background information, 119 building good rapport, 119 dynamic risk factors, 120 protective factors, 119 rehearsal for, 119
    static risk factors, 119–20 suicidal attempts, 119
    suicidal ideation, 119
    suicidal plan, 119
    warning signs, 120
  telepsychiatry
    cost savings, 128
    equipment compatibility, 129 therapeutic alliance, 130 symbols, 3–4, 122
  symptomatic listening, 4 traditional unstructured diagnostic assessment (TDA), 104, 105 transference, 16, 26, 37–8 treatment planning
    differential diagnosis anxiety disorders, 169
      categorizing features, mental disturbance, 167, 168 DSM-IV-TR multiaxial system, 168, 169 physical signs and symptoms, 169 subcortical dementia, 169 external threat, 166
    initial treatment plan biological intervention, 170 initial deposition, 170–1 psychosocial intervention, 170 risk of assault, 166, 167 suicide
        estimated lifetime rates, 164 risk factors for, 164, 165
  verbal communication, 85–6