Contents

About the Contributors viii
Acknowledgments xv

1 Editors’ Introduction 1
  Jack Martin, Jeff Sugarman, and Kathleen L. Slaney

Part I  Philosophical/Conceptual Approaches 21
2 Philosophical Anthropology 23
  Matthew LaVine and Michael A. Tissaw
3 Conceptual Analysis 39
  Timothy P. Racine
4 Philosophical Hermeneutics 53
  Frank C. Richardson
5 An Aristotelian Analysis of the Structure of Human Action 70
  Blaine J. Fowers
6 Phenomenology: Methods, Historical Development, and Applications in Psychology 85
  Frederick J. Wertz
7 Theory for and as Social Practice of Realizing the Future: Implications from a Transformative Activist Stance 102
  Anna Stetsenko
8 Rhetoric and Psychology: Ending the Dominance of Nouns 117
  Michael Billig and Cristina Marinbo
Contents

Part II Historical Approaches 133

9 Historical Thinking as a Tool for Theoretical Psychology: On Objectivity 135

   Thomas Teo

10 The History of Psychological Objects 151

   Adrian Charles Brock

11 Historical Ontology 166

   Jeff Sugarman

12 Historiometry 183

   Dean Keith Simonton

13 Statistical Thinking in Psychological Research: In Quest of Clarity through Historical Inquiry and Conceptual Analysis 200

   James T. Lamiell

Part III Narrative and Social Psychological Approaches 217

14 Narrative Psychology and Life Stories 219

   Ruthellen Josselson and Brent Hopkins

15 Narrative Hermeneutics 234

   Mark Freeman

16 Life Positioning Analysis 248

   Jack Martin

17 Positioning Theory 263

   Rom Harré

18 The Personal Position Repertoire (PPR) Method as Based on Dialogical Self Theory 277

   Hubert J.M. Hermans

19 Subjectivity as Socioculturally Constituted Experience 293

   Suzanne R. Kirschner

20 A Transdisciplinary Psychosocial Approach 308

   Paul Stenner

Part IV Theoretical Studies of Scientific, Professional, and Life Practices 325

21 Allies in Interdisciplinary Spaces: Theoretical Psychology and Science Studies 327

   Kareen Ror Malone and Lisa M. Osbeck
22 “I’m Not That Kind of Psychologist”: A Case for Methodological Pragmatism in Theoretical Inquiries into Psychological Science Practices
Kathleen L. Slaney

343

23 The Value of Experiments in Psychology
Jan Smedslund

359

24 Feminism and Theoretical Psychology
Alexandra Rutherford, Kate Sheese, and Nora Ruck

374

25 Surprisability and Practical Rationality: Knowledge Advancement through the Explication of Interpretation
Brent D. Slife, Clayton T. Johnson, and Amy C. Jennings

392

26 Empirical Philosophy: Using Your Everyday Life in Theoretical Psychology
Svend Brinkmann

409

27 Theoretical Bases of Psychotherapeutic Practices
John Chambers Christopher, Samuel C. Gable, and David M. Goodman

424

28 Contemporary Psychoanalysis: The Post-Cartesian Turn in Theory and Practice
Roger Frie

441

Index

458