1 Developing contextual research that matters 1

Overview and introduction 2
Three core qualitative concepts: self-reflexivity, context, and thick description 2
  Self-reflexivity 2
  Context 3
  Thick description 3

A phronetic approach: doing qualitative research that matters 4
  Strengths of qualitative research 4

Foci of qualitative research 5
  Understanding the self 6
  Understanding relationships 6
  Understanding groups and organizations 6
  Understanding cultures 7
  Understanding mediated and virtual contexts 7

Moving from ideas to sites, settings, and participants 8
EXERCISE 1.1 Field/site brainstorm 9
  Sources of research ideas 10
CONSIDER THIS 1.1 Sources of research ideas 11
  Compatibility, suitability, yield, and feasibility 11

RESEARCHER'S NOTEPAD 1.1 Feasibility challenges with hidden populations 14
TIPS AND TOOLS 1.1 Factoring the ease of fieldwork 15

Moving toward a research question 15
RESEARCHER'S NOTEPAD 1.2 Published examples of research questions 16

FOLLOWING, FORGETTING, AND IMPROVISING 17

In summary 18
EXERCISE 1.2 Three potential field sites 18

2 Entering the conversation of qualitative research 20

The nature of qualitative research 21
  Inductive/emic vs. deductive/etic approaches 21
  Action and structure 22

CONSIDER THIS 2.1 Why am I standing in line? 23
EXERCISE 2.1 Action vs. structure 24
  Comparing qualitative and quantitative methods 24

Key characteristics of the qualitative research process 25
  Gestalt 25
  Bricolage 26
  The funnel metaphor 27
  Sensitizing concepts 28

Key definitions and territories of qualitative research 28

Historical matters 31
  The early days 31
  Ethically problematic research and the creation of the IRB 31
  Recent history 33
  Current controversies 33

In summary 34
EXERCISE 2.2 Research problems and questions 35

3 Paradigmatic reflections and theoretical foundations 37

CONSIDER THIS 3.1 A paradigm parable 38
Paradigms 39
  Positivist and post-positivist paradigm 39
  Interpretive paradigm 40

EXERCISE 3.1 Verstehen/understanding 41
  Critical paradigm 42
  Postmodern/poststructuralist paradigm 44
CONSIDER THIS 3.2 Whose stylistic rules? 45
Paradigmatic complexities and intersections 47
EXERCISE 3.2 Paradigmatic approaches 49
Theoretical approaches that commonly use qualitative methods 49
Geertz’s interpretivism and thick description 50
Symbolic interaction 51
CONSIDER THIS 3.3 How do I know myself? 52
Ethnography of communication 53
Feminism 55
Participatory action research 56
Sensemaking 58
Structuration 59
In summary 60

4 Fieldwork and fieldplay: Negotiating access and exploring the scene 64

A participant observation primer 65
Knock, knock, knocking on participants’ doors: negotiating access 66
Confessional tales of getting in 66
Riding my mentor’s coattails: Citywest 911 emergency call-takers 66
Becoming a full participant: Radiant Sun cruise ship 67
Accessing a closed organization: women’s minimum and Nouveau jail 68
Do some homework before approaching the scene 69
RESEARCHER’S NOTEPAD 4.1 Contact information log 70
Please don’t reject me! Seeking research permission 71
RESEARCHER’S NOTEPAD 4.2 Sample access proposal 73
Negotiating access to a virtual site 74
Abandoning the ego, engaging embodiment, embracing liminality 75
EXERCISE 4.1 Self-identity audit 77
Navigating those first few visits 77
Encouraging participant cooperation 78
RESEARCHER’S NOTEPAD 4.3 Initial reactions speak volumes 79
Seeking informed consent in the scene 80
TIPS AND TOOLS 4.1 Participant observation tips 81
Exploratory methods 81
Briefing interviews and participant information table 81
RESEARCHER’S NOTEPAD 4.4 Participant information table 82
Member diaries 82
Public documents and artifacts 83
Maps and narrative tours 83
EXERCISE 4.2 Map and narrative tour 84
In summary 85

5 Proposal writing: Explaining your research to institutional review boards, instructors, supervisory committees, and funding agencies 87

Getting started with institutional review 88
The IRB proposal: rationale, instruments, informed consent, and confidentiality 89
RESEARCHER’S NOTEPAD 5.1 Participant consent letter 90
RESEARCHER’S NOTEPAD 5.2 Gatekeeper permission letter 92
Different levels of IRB review 92
Exempt review 92
Expedited review 93
Full-board review 93
The quirks of IRB 94
Creating the scholarly research proposal 96
Title, abstract, and key words 96
TIPS AND TOOLS 5.1 Research proposal components 97
Introduction/rationale 98
Purpose statement 98
Conceptual cocktail party 98
Rationale 98
Literature review/conceptual framework 99
Research questions/foci 100
Methods 100
TIPS AND TOOLS 5.2 What belongs in a qualitative methods section? 101
Budget/timeline 101
TIPS AND TOOLS 5.3 What to include in a qualitative project budget 102
Projected outcomes 102
In summary 103
6 Field roles, fieldnotes, and field focus 105

Field roles and standpoints of participant observation 106
  Complete participant 107
  Play participant 109

CONSIDER THIS 6.1 Why “playing” = learning 110
CONSIDER THIS 6.2 When playing is uncomfortable 111
  Focused participant observer 111
  Complete observer 113

Writing fieldnotes 114
  Raw records and head notes 114
  Formal fieldnotes 116

RESEARCHER’S NOTEBOOK 6.1 Fieldnote header 117
  Economy versus detail 118
  Showing (and using dialogue) versus telling 118
  Making the familiar strange and the strange familiar 119
  Noticing the data as evidence 120

CONSIDER THIS 6.3 Noticing the data as evidence 121
  Analytic reflections 121

TIPS AND TOOLS 6.1 Fieldnote writing tips 122
  Fieldnote wrap-up 123

Focusing the data and using heuristic devices 123

FOLLOWING, FORGETTING, AND IMPROVISING 125

EXERCISE 6.1 Fieldnotes 127

In summary 127

7 Interview planning and design: Sampling, recruiting, and questioning 130

CONSIDER THIS 7.1 Yin and yang: taijitu 131
The value of interviews 132
EXERCISE 7.1 Self-reflexive interviewing 133
Who, what, where, how, and when: developing a sampling plan 134
  Random samples 134
  Convenience/opportunistic samples 134

TIPS AND TOOLS 7.1 Sampling plans 135
  Maximum variation samples 135
  Snowball samples 136
  Theoretical-construct samples 136
  Typical, extreme, and critical instance samples 137
  Determining the best sample 138

4 Interview structure, type, and stance 138
  Structure of interviews 139
  Interview types 140
  Interview stances 141

TIPS AND TOOLS 7.2 Interview structure, types, and stances 143

Creating the interview guide 143
EXERCISE 7.2 Strategizing interviews 144
  Wording good questions 144

RESEARCHER’S NOTEBOOK 7.1 Research questions versus interview questions 145
TIPS AND TOOLS 7.3 Interview question types 146
  Interview question types and sequencing 146
    Opening the interview 146
    Generative questions 147
    Directive questions 149
    Closing the interview 151
  Interview question wrap-up 151
EXERCISE 7.3 Interview guide 152

In summary 152

8 Interview practice: Embodied, mediated, and focus-group approaches 157

Negotiating access for interviews 158
Conducting face-to-face interviews 159
  Interview logistics 160
    Why good interviewing is so much more than asking questions 161
Technologically mediated approaches to interviewing 163
  Strengths of mediated interviews 163
  Disadvantages of mediated interviews 165

TIPS AND TOOLS 8.1 Mediated interviews: advantages and disadvantages 166
The focus-group interview 167
  The value of focus groups 167
  When to use focus groups 169
  Planning the logistical details of focus groups 169
  Conducting the focus group 169

TIPS AND TOOLS 8.2 Planning a focus group 170
  Moderating the focus group 172

Overcoming common focus group and interviewing challenges 173
RESEARCHER’S NOTEBOOK 8.1 Remedial–pedagogical interviews 175
9 Data analysis basics: A pragmatic iterative approach 183

Organizing and preparing the data 184
Analysis logistics: colors, cutting or computers? 186
Manual approaches 186
RESEARCHER’S NOTEPAD 9.1 Manual coding
visual display 187
Computer-aided approaches with everyday software 188
Data immersion and primary-cycle coding 188
Focusing the analysis and creating a codebook 190
RESEARCHER’S NOTEPAD 9.2 Codebook excerpt 192
CONSIDER THIS 9.1 Focusing the data analysis 193
Secondary-cycle coding: second-level analytic and axial/hierarchical coding 194
Synthesizing and making meaning from codes 196
RESEARCHER’S NOTEPAD 9.3 Analytic memos 197
RESEARCHER’S NOTEPAD 9.4 Loose analysis outline 198
FOLLOWING, FORGETTING, AND IMPROVISING 199
In summary 200
EXERCISE 9.1 Iterative analysis basics 201

10 Advanced data analysis: The art and magic of interpretation 203

Computer-aided qualitative data analysis software (CAQDAS) 204
Advanced approaches for analyzing qualitative data 207
Exemplars and vignettes 207
Developing typologies 210
Dramatistic strategy 211
Metaphor analysis 212
Visual data displays 213

RESEARCHER’S NOTEPAD 10.1 Table for organizing dissertation findings 215
RESEARCHER’S NOTEPAD 10.2 Matrix display 216
TIPS AND TOOLS 10.1 Flowchart depicting iterative analysis process 218
Explanation and causality 219
Discourse tracing 221
RESEARCHER’S NOTEPAD 10.3 Micro, meso, macro sources 222
FOLLOWING, THEN FORGETTING THE RULES 223
In summary 224
EXERCISE 10.1 Advanced data analysis/interpretation 224

11 Qualitative quality: Creating a credible, ethical, significant study 227

The criteria controversy 228
TIPS AND TOOLS 11.1 Eight “big-tent” criteria for excellent qualitative research 230
Worthy topic 231
Rich rigor 231
EXERCISE 11.1 Gauging worth and rigor 233
Sincerity 233
Self-reflexivity 233
Transparency 234
RESEARCHER’S NOTEPAD 11.1 Sincerity word cloud 235
Credibility 235
Thick description 235
Crystallization/triangulation 236
TIPS AND TOOLS 11.2 Inter-coder reliability 237
Multivocality 237
Member reflections 238
Resonance 238
Transferability and naturalistic generalization 239
Aesthetic merit 239
Significant contribution 240
EXERCISE 11.2 Gauging significance 242
Ethical research practice 242
Procedural ethics 243
Situational ethics 243
CONSIDER THIS 11.1 Recruiting difficult populations 244
CONSIDER THIS 11.2 Situational and relational ethics 244
Meaningful coherence 245
FOLLOWING, FORGETTING, AND IMPROVISING 246
CONSIDER THIS 11.3 The ten lies of ethnography 247
In summary 248

12 Writing Part 1: The nuts and bolts of qualitative tales 251
Types of tales 252
The realist tale 252
Creative, impressionist, and literary tales 253
RESEARCHER’S NOTE PAD 12.1 Poetic inquiry 255
The confessional tale 255
RESEARCHER’S NOTE PAD 12.2 Dialogue as a powerful literary tactic 257
The archeology of a qualitative essay 258
Writing the framing material: title, abstract, key words 258
Writing the introduction, the literature review, and the conceptual framework 259
Writing the research methodology and method(s) 260
RESEARCHER’S NOTE PAD 12.3 Methods data display 261
Writing the findings and analysis 262
Themes/topics 262
Chronology/life-story 263
Convergence/braided narrative 263
Puzzle explication strategy 264
Separated text 264
Layered/messy texts 265
EXERCISE 12.1 Which writing strategy? 266
Writing the conclusions and implications 266
FOLLOWING, FORGETTING, AND IMPROVISING 268
In summary 270

13 Writing Part 2: Drafting, polishing, and publishing 273
Writing to inquire 275
How to write qualitative evidence 276
Choosing the evidence 276
Rich, luminous, and thick evidence 276
Structuring the data in sections, paragraphs, and sentences 277
Formatting qualitative work 279
Visual representations 281
RESEARCHER’S NOTE PAD 13.1 Visual representation 282
Setting yourself up for success by considering the audience first 283
EXERCISE 13.1 Article format model 284
TIPS AND TOOLS 13.1 Journals that have published qualitative communication research 285
Submitting, revising, and resubmitting for journal publication 286
Git R done: overcoming common writing and submission challenges 288
How to write a lot 288
TIPS AND TOOLS 13.2 Steps for writing an ethnography 289
Addressing common challenges in qualitative writing 290
FOLLOWING, FORGETTING, AND IMPROVISING 294
In summary 294

14 Qualitative methodology matters: Exiting and communicating impact 296
Navigating exit from the scene 297
Give notice and say goodbye 298
Exits can be emotional 298
Don’t spoil the scene 298
Give back 299
RESEARCHER’S NOTE PAD 14.1 Thank you note 300
Ethically delivering the findings 300
FOLLOWING, FORGETTING, AND IMPROVISING 301
Moving toward research representations with public impact 302
Public scholarship 303
Staged performances 303
RESEARCHER’S NOTE PAD 14.2 Staged performance with impact 304
White papers 305
Grant applications and reports 305
TIPS AND TOOLS 14.1 White papers 306
Consulting 307
Media relations 307
Websites and web relations 308
Warning: doing research that matters can be terrifying 310
Overcoming lingering obstacles to public scholarship 310
EXERCISE 14.1 Making an impact via public scholarship 311
FOLLOWING, FORGETTING, AND IMPROVISING 312
In summary 313
