Contents

6 Notes on Contributors

8 Chapter 1
Being British and Going ... Somewhere
Lisa Tickner and David Peters Corbett

18 Chapter 2
‘The morrow we left behind’: Landscape and the Rethinking of Modernism, 1939–53
Chris Stephens

36 Chapter 3
Sculpture for the Hand: Herbert Read in the Studio of Kurt Schwitters
Megan R. Luke

54 Chapter 4
Science, Art and Landscape in the Nuclear Age
Catherine Jolivette

72 Chapter 5
Photography into Building in Post-war Architecture: The Smithsons and James Stirling
Claire Zimmerman

90 Chapter 6
Realism, Brutalism, Pop
Alex Potts

116 Chapter 7
The Independent Group’s ‘Anthropology of Ourselves’
Catherine Spencer

138 Chapter 8
Dada’s Mama: Richard Hamilton’s Queer Pop
Jonathan D. Katz

156 Chapter 9
Francis Bacon: Painting after Photography
Martin Hammer

174 Chapter 10
Vulgar Pictures: Bacon, de Kooning, and the Figure under Abstraction
Andrew R. Lee

196 Chapter 11
‘Export Britain’: Pop Art, Mass Culture and the Export Drive
Lisa Tickner

222 Chapter 12
Painting and Sculpture of a Decade ’54–’64 Revisited
Andrew Stephenson

244 Chapter 13
Varieties of Belatedness and Provincialism: Decolonization and British Pop
Leon Wainwright

265 Index