Index

A
Ability self-evaluation, 76
Accountant with soft skills scenario, 64
Active review tool, 183
After action review tool: applying to problem solving, 171–172; learning from others by using the, 173
Assumptions (questioning), 139, 150–152
Attention to detail: brainstorming, 103; self-assessment of your, 105; self-improvement planning, 106; taking notes and making checklists, 118–119
Attentive listening, 59
Authority: chain-of-command problem, 197; Gen Zers lack of old-fashioned “followship” to, 21, 26–28; Gen Zers lacking the soft skills to conform to, 16–19; interference of helicopter-parenting with, 14–15, 22; multiple boss problem, 197. See also Bosses

B
Baby Boomers: “everyone gets a trophy” style parenting by, 14; post-Boomer generational shift in the workplace, 11–16
“Bad attitudes”: considering, 95; dealing with people with, 200; individual employees who need an attitude adjustment, 97. See also Positive attitude
Basic project plan, 116–117
“Be a great employee” model of service, 234
Behavior self-evaluation, 77. See also High priority soft skill behaviors
“Best friend” programs, 242
Best interests model of citizenship, 210
“Blamer” attitude, 95
Bosses: chain-of-command problem with, 197; helping them to monitor your performance, 239; myth versus reality of “making friends” with your, 230–231; problem of multiple, 197. See also Authority; Employers; Managers

C
Cause and effect: negative outcomes of, 182; positive outcomes of, 18
Celebrating, 252
Chain-of-command problem, 197
Checklists, 118–119
China’s “Little Emperor Syndrome,” 14
Citizenship. See Good citizenship
Civic model of citizenship, 211
“Closed mindedness,” 147
Coaching. See Performance coaching
Collaboration: coordinating, cooperating, and, 250–251; using influence to get things done, 255. See also Teamwork
Communication style profiles, 71
Communitarian model of citizenship, 212
Communication: best practices for remote, 138; email, 41–42, 137, 138; Gen Zers’ habit of remote and interpersonal, 22–23; learning to use the “people list” for your, 128–131; listening skills as part of, 59, 126; people skills related to, 59; putting more structure into your, 132–133; putting more substance into your, 134–135; the “service” approach to one-on-ones between managers and direct reports, 235–236. See also Feedback; Interpersonal communication; People skills
Consistency. See Follow-through and consistency
Context. See Respect for context
Coordinating and cooperating, 250–251, 255
Corporate culture: on-boarding training to facilitate talent embrace of, 39–42; powerful stories on, 61–62; unlocking the power of soft skills as part of, 60–64. See also Good citizenship; Organizations

Critical thinking soft skill: “building strong thinking muscles” for, 140–141; characteristics of, 141–142; the missing basics of, 59; as one of the basic soft skills, 21, 24–26, 55

Cultural relativism: wide misunderstanding of the meaning of, 17; workplace problems encountered with, 17–19

Customer service: NYC lunch concession culture of pace and, 61; organizational importance of effective, 7, 56; unlocking the power of soft skills as part of, 60–64. See also Service

Customer service skills: how soft skills gap negatively impacts, 8; lessons learned on training, 47–49; on-boarding and up-to-speed training on, 40, 41; organizational importance of effective, 7, 56; of quick service restaurant “Ned Flanders” employees, 61. See also High priority soft skill behaviors; Service; Soft skills

D

“Debater” attitude, 95

Decision making: active review tool to use for, 183; brainstorming what it means to you, 177–178; critical thinking and, 59; decision/action trees for, 184–185; definition of, 79; self-evaluation of, 79, 81; teaching, 174–185. See also Problem solving

Decision making teaching: example of a decision making gap, 174; how to make young talent aware of and care about, 175–176; teaching and learning objective, 175; what the manager needs to remember for, 174–175

Decision/action trees, 184–185

Development investment paradox: answers to the problem of, 45–46; description of, 45

“Digital natives,” 13

Disney, 60

Diverse Gen Zer workforce, 13–14, 83

Dress code norms, 18–19

E

Economic collapse (2008), 13

Education: critical thinking skill gap and Gen Zers, 21, 24–26; teaching to the test, 25. See also Teaching style managers

Email communication: best practices for, 137; following either telephone or video communication, 138; training young talent on effective, 41–42

Empathy, 126

Employers: complaints about deficient soft skills of young talent by, 3–5; facing the hard realities of the soft skills gap, 29–31; Gen Zers’ customer-relationship to, 26; strategic benefits of bridging the soft-skills gap, 5–6. See also Bosses; Young talent

Engineer with soft skills scenario, 63

Enneagram model, 71

“Entangler” attitude, 95

F

Feedback: coaching style, 68, 72, 232; to focus on high priority soft skills, 44, 50, 52; myth versus realities of workplace and, 232, 233; performance management and talent development, 42, 239; provided for behaviors, 44; service approach to, 235; teaching people skills through, 123. See also Communication

Follow-through and consistency: brainstorming, 103; brainstorming and planning, 121; self-assessment of your, 105; self-improvement planning, 106
Followship soft skill: the missing basics of, 59–60; as one of the basic soft skills, 21, 26–28, 55
Friendships: “best friend” programs, 242; myth versus reality of “making friends” with your boss, 230–231. See also Relationships

G
Generation X (born 1965 to 1977):
  helicopter-parenting on steroids of Gen Zers by, 14–15, 22; manager complaints about soft skill deficiencies of, 3–4; soft skills gap growing steadily from, 10–11.
  See also Post-Boomer generational shift
Generation Y (born 1978 to 1989), 10–11
Generation Z beliefs: false sense of intellectual pluralism, 25–26; idealism and mission-driven work ethic, 222–223; in individual accommodation as the norm, 22; in non-conformity, 16–19; toward authority and fellowship, 14–15, 16–19, 21, 22, 26–28
Generation Z (born 1990 to 1999):
  effectiveness of self-directed learning by, 48–49; as first true “digital natives,” 13; as first truly global generation, 12; helicopter-parenting on steroids shaping, 14–15, 22; love of grown-ups and learning from them by, 50–51, 53; making up the most diverse workforce in history, 13–14; need for them to make reasonable workplace adaptations, 19; poor learning habits of, 25; soft skills gap growing steadily from Gen Y to, 10–11; as the tipping point in the post-Boomer generational shift, 12; as the ultimate non-conformists, 16–19; virtual reality and social media shaping, 15–16. See also Young talent
Globalization, 12
Goal-setting: research plan for acquiring skill, wisdom, and knowledge, 155; for specific desired behaviors, 44; for wisdom you wish to acquire, 146
Goals: alignment of organizational and individual, 43; how to make a basic project plan with, 116–117
Good citizenship: definition of, 202; followership and component of, 59; on-boarding and ongoing training in corporate, 41; reasons why Gen Zers don’t value, 26; self-evaluation of, 79, 81, 83; soft skill gap related to corporate, 4; teaching, 202–220. See also Corporate culture; Organizations
Good citizenship teaching: example of a good citizenship gap, 202–204; how to make young talent aware of and care about, 204–205; teaching and learning objective, 204; what the manager needs to remember for, 202–204
Good work habits: description of, 59; follow-through and consistency, 103, 105, 106, 121; how to teach, 98–122; initiative and going the extra mile, 103, 105, 106, 122; organization and attention to detail, 103, 105, 106, 118–119, 120; productivity, 102, 104, 106; self-evaluation of, 78, 80, 82; self-presentation, 102, 104, 106, 111; timeliness, 102, 104, 106, 112–115, 120; wellness, 102, 104, 106, 107, 108–110
Good work habits teaching: example of a good work habits gap, 98; how to make young talent aware of and care about, 100–101; teaching and learning objective, 100; what the manager needs to remember for, 98–100
Great Recession (2008), 13

H
Hand-held devices: nurse-manager on lack of professionalism and use of, 23; texting during meeting story on, 9
Hard skills. See Technical skills
Helicopter-parenting, 14–15, 22
High priority soft skill behaviors: build selection process with heavy emphasis on, 37–39; development investment paradox of training for, 45–46; effectiveness of self-directed learning for, 48–49; how to get employees to focus on, 44; identifying for each job position, 35; inclusion in employer branding and recruitment message, 36–37; leadership and management role in, 49–54; on-boarding and up-to-speed training on, 39–42; ongoing training on, 45–49; performance management and talent development for, 42–44; reinforcing between job offer and acceptance lag time, 39. See also Behavior self-evaluation; Customer service skills; Soft skills
Interviews: job, 38; of your “people list,” 131

J
Job description, 35
Job interviews, 38
“Job shadowing,” 38

K
Knowledge: proactive learning to increase, 139–161; research plan goals for acquiring, 155; study skills for building, 156–157; studying good information for stored, 141, 153
Labor market tiers: requiring years of education and formal training, 34; substantial technical training required, 33–34; threshold criteria, 33. See also Human capital management practices
Leaders: becoming a teaching style manager and, 51–53; performance coaching by, 49–54, 60; role in developing soft skill behaviors, 49–51. See also Managers
Learning: becoming a teaching style manager to facilitate, 51–53; critical thinking and proactive, 59; going beyond regular performance coaching for, 54; leader and manager roles in, 49–51; self-directed, 48–49. See also Teaching style managers
Lesson plans: designed to be highly flexible and easy to use, 68; good citizenship, 206–220; good work habits, 102–122; people skills, 126–138; personal responsibility, 86–89; positive attitude, 93–97; respect for context, 191–201; self-evaluation, 75–83; service, 225–240; teamwork, 245–257. See also Teaching style managers; Training
Listening skills, 59, 126
"Little Emperor Syndrome," 14
Loyalty: how challenging work creates personal, 242–243; problem of lack of, 202; teaching good citizenship to build, 202–220
M
Managers: becoming a teaching style, 51–53; complaints about deficient soft skills of young talent by, 3–5; facing the hard realities of the soft-skills gap, 29–31; performance coaching by, 49–54, 60; role in developing soft skill behaviors, 49–51; the "service" approach to one-on-ones between direct reports and, 235–236; strategic benefits of bridging the soft-skills gap, 5–6; two significance challenges of Gen Zers to their immediate, 53. See also Bosses; Leaders; Teaching style managers
Managing Generation X (Tulgan), 10
Marine Boot Camp, 6, 29, 39, 41
Meetings: "meeting manners" program to improve behavior during, 42; "poor meeting manners," 42; preparing for, 136; the service approach to attendance and participation in, 237–238
Micro-gap analysis, 120
Mission: Gen Zers preference for work driven by, 222–223; team player role in relation to the, 249
Mission-driven organizations, 222–223
Motivation: Gen Zers and mission-driven, 222–223; self-evaluation of your, 76
Multiple boss problem, 197
Myers-Briggs Type Indicator, 71
N
"Ned Flanders" employees story, 61
Needle-in-a-haystack job, 203
New Haven's safe pedestrian behavior campaign, 5
9/11/01, 13
Non-conformism: cultural relativism and, 17–19; definition of, 16; the problem with workplace, 16–19
Note taking, 118–119
O
On-boarding training, 39–42
Ongoing training: development investment paradox of, 45–47; supporting high priority soft skill behaviors, 45
Open mindedness, 147–149, 150–151
Organization work habit: brainstorming, 103; doing a time/motion study on your, 120; how to make a basic project plan to increase your, 116–117; self-assessment of your, 105; self-improvement planning, 106; taking notes and making checklists, 118–119
Organizations: alignment between corporate, division, and individual goals in, 43; the business case for bridging the soft-skills gap by, 5–6; mission-driven, 222–223; wellness initiative planning by, 108–110. See also Corporate culture; Good citizenship; Training
Outliers, 17
P
Peer group job, 203
"People list," 128–131
People skills: description of, 59; how to teach, 123–138; self-evaluation of, 78, 80, 82. See also Communication; Interpersonal communication for Meetings, 136; 7: Email Best Practices, 137; 8: Communicating Remotely, 138

People skills teaching: description of, 123; example of a people skills gap, 123; how to make young talent aware of and care about, 125; teaching and learning objective, 125; what the manager needs to remember for, 123–125

Performance: feedback on, 42, 239; helping your boss monitor your, 239; putting yourself on a plan to improve, 240

Performance coaching: become a teaching style manager for, 51–53; network systems administrator engaged in, 60; roles taken by leaders and managers in, 49–51; taking it to the next level beyond, 54

Performance improvement plan, 240

Performance management: continuous improvement through, 42–43; development investment paradox of ongoing training and, 45–47; how to get employees to focus on high priority soft skill behaviors, 44; when soft skill behaviors are spelled out as part of, 43–44. See also Productivity

Personal responsibility: description of, 59; how to teach, 84–92; self-evaluation of, 78, 80, 82

Personal responsibility teaching: example of a personal responsibility gap, 84; how to make young talent aware of and care about, 85; teaching and learning objective, 84; what the manager needs to remember for, 84

Personal sacrifice model of citizenship, 217–218

Personality profiles, 71

Phone communication, 138

“Poor meeting manners,” 42

“Porcupine” attitude, 95

Position profile, 35

Positive attitude: description of, 59, 90; how to teach, 90–97; self-evaluation of, 78, 80, 82, 96. See also “Bad attitudes”

Positive attitude lesson plans: 1: Considering Theories of How to Be Your Best at Work, 93; 2: Defining “Good Attitude” Behaviors with Your Team—or Any Individual, 94; 3: Considering Common Bad Attitudes, 95; 4: Considering Good Attitude Behaviors, 96; 5: For Individual Employees Who Need an Attitude Adjustment, 97

Positive attitude teaching: example of a positive attitude gap, 90; how to make young talent aware of and care about, 91–92; teaching and learning objective, 91; what the manager needs to remember for, 90–91

Post-Boomer generational shift: description of the, 11–12; Generation Z as the tipping point in, 12; globalization factor in, 12; helicopter-parenting on steroids factor in, 14–15, 22; human diversity factor in, 13–14; the information environment and “digital natives” factor in, 13; institutional insecurity factor in, 13; technology factor in, 12; virtual reality and social media factor in, 15–16. See also Generation Z (born 1990 to 1999)

Preparing for meetings, 136

Proactive learning: definition of, 59, 139; how to make young talent aware of and care about, 141–142; self-evaluation of, 79, 80, 82; teaching, 139–161

Proactive learning teaching: example of a proactive learning gap, 139–140; how to make young talent aware of and care about, 141–142; self-evaluation of, 79, 80, 82; teaching, 139–161 about, 141–142; teaching and learning objective, 141; what the manager needs to remember for, 140–141
Problem solving: critical thinking and, 59; definition of, 162; performance management and talent development of, 44; self-evaluation of, 79, 81, 83; teaching, 162–173. See also Decision making
Problem solving teaching: example of a problem solving gap, 162; how to make young talent aware of and care about, 164; teaching and learning objective, 163; what the manager needs to remember for, 162–163
Productivity: good work habits for effective, 102; self-assessment of your, 104; self-evaluation of, 77; self-improvement planning, 106. See also Performance management
Professionalism soft skill: as basic soft skill, 21–23, 55; five reasons to practice, 21–23; the missing basics of, 58–59; nurse-manager on lack of, 23
Project plan, 116–117
Q
Quality self-evaluation, 77
Questioning assumptions, 139, 150–152
R
“The realistic job preview,” 38
Relationships: approaching in terms of what you have to offer, 60; corporate citizenship, 4, 26, 41, 59; Gen Zers’ understanding of transactional, 189; identifying your “go to” people and building, 253; respect for context in complicated, 197. See also Friends; Service; Teams
Remote communication, 138
Rental car chain story, 61
Research (proactive learning), 153–155
Respect for context: definition of, 187; description of, 59; self-evaluation of, 79, 81, 83; teaching, 187–201
Respect for context teaching: example of a respect for context gap, 70–188; how to make young talent aware of and care about, 190; teaching and learning objective, 190; what the manager needs to remember for, 188–190
Respect for others model of citizenship, 208–209
Response power mantra, 89
S
Safe pedestrian behavior campaign, 5
Self-assessment: good work habits, 104–105; interpersonal communication, 127
Self-building job, 203
Self-directed learning, 48–49
Self-evaluation: assessment tools available for, 71–72; description of, 58–59, 69, 70; how to teach, 69–83
Self-evaluation lesson plans: 1: Introduction, 75; 2: Evaluating Yourself on Ability, Skill, and Will, 76; 3: Evaluating Yourself on Productivity, Quality, and Behavior, 77; 4: Evaluating Yourself on the Key Soft Skills Competencies, 78–79; 5: Drill Down on Understanding the Key Soft Skills,
80–81; 6: Explore Your Own Successes with the Key Soft Skills, 82–83
Self-evaluation teaching: example of a self-evaluation gap, 70; how to make young talent aware of and care about, 74; teaching and learning objective, 74; what the manager needs to remember for, 70–73
“Self-managed” teams, 241
Self-presentation: brainstorming, 102, 111; self-assessment of your, 104; self-improvement planning, 106
Service: “be a great employee” model of, 234; definition of, 221; as followership basic, 60; self-evaluation of, 79, 81, 83; teaching, 221–240. See also Customer service skills; Relationships
Service teaching: example of a service gap, 221; how to make young talent aware of and care about, 223–224; teaching and learning objective, 223; what the manager needs to remember for, 221–223
Skill-set: practicing good techniques for stored, 141, 153; practicing skills for building, 158–159; proactive learning to increase, 139–161; research plan goals for acquiring, 155
Social media: Gen Zers’ habit of remote and interpersonal communication through, 22–23; how Gen Zers has been shaped by virtual reality and, 15–16; nurse-manager story on young nurses using, 23. See also Virtual reality
Social norms: dress codes as example of, 18–19; how global media has changed, 18; problem of cultural relativism as it relates to, 17–19
Soft skills: comparing hard technical skills and, 55; description and importance of, 8; the missing basics in today’s young talent, 19–28; self-evaluation of your, 76; staffing strategy and hiring to ensure, 33, 34–39; unlocking the power of, 60–65. See also Customer service skills; Hard skills; High priority soft skill behaviors
Soft-skills gap: benefits of bridging the, 5–6; employer expectations and young talent, 3–5; facing the hard realities of the, 29–31; growing steadily from Gen X to Gen Y to Gen Zers, 10–11; as increasing workplace problem, 7–8; Marines’ Boot Camp example of bridging the, 6, 29, 39, 41; the missing basics in, 19–28; negative consequences of, 8–9; scenarios on the costly downsides of the, 57–58
Soft skills scenarios/stories: accountant with soft skills, 64; bored aerospace engineers, 15; cashier who provides excellent customer service, 56; computer programmer with soft skills, 62; dressing too casually and texting during meeting, 9; engineer with soft skills, 63; fast growing and profitable rental car chain, 61; forensic accounting associate “case study,” 11; hospital with high key metrics, 61; lack of inhibition in talking to the CEO, 6; laughing during an interview, 4–5; “Ned Flanders” employees of quick service restaurant, 61; network systems administrator engaged in coaching, 60; nurse-manager on lack of professionalism, 23; nurse who takes a personal interest in patients, 58; NYC lunch concession culture of pace, 61;
rising zero- to five-year U.S. intelligence agencies employee turnover, 30;
schedule adherence problem, 12–13;
showing the importance of soft skills, 57–58; young talent’s refusal to do cross-training/teamwork projects, 28.
See also Young talent
Solids standards model of citizenship, 215–216
Staffing strategy and hiring: as human capital management practice, 33, 34–35;
six steps in, 35–39
Staffing strategy and hiring process:
step 1: identify high priority soft skill behaviors for each position, 35;
step 2: look for talent from sources known for strong soft skills, 35–36;
step 3: include high priority soft skills behaviors in employer branding and recruitment message, 36–37;
step 4: look for red flags when hiring, 37;
step 5: build selection process with heavy emphasis on high priority soft skills, 37–39;
step 6: reinforcing high priority soft skill behaviors between offer and acceptance lag time, 39
“Stink bomb thrower,” 95
Stories. See Soft skills scenarios/stories
Suspending judgment, 139, 150–152

T
Talent development: continuous improvement through, 42–43;
development investment paradox of ongoing training and, 45–47; how to get employees to focus on high priority soft skill behaviors, 44; when soft skill behaviors are spelled out as part of, 43–44
See also Education; Learning; Lesson plans; Managers
Teaching to the test, 25
Team players: identifying and building relationships with “go to,” 253; mission-driven, 249; supporting and celebrating success of other, 252
Teamwork: defining the dimensions of, 247–248; definition of, 241; as followership basic, 60; self-evaluation of, 79, 81, 83; teaching, 241–257. See also Collaboration
Teamwork teaching: example of a teamwork gap, 241; how to make young talent aware of and care about, 243–244; teaching and learning objective, 243; what the manager needs to remember for, 241–243
Technical skills: comparing soft skills and, 55; as factor in post-Boomer generational shift, 12; gap in, 9; high demand for, 56–57; self-evaluation of your, 76
Theodore Roosevelt model of citizenship, 219
Time logs, 112–115
Timeliness: brainstorming, 102; doing a time/motion study on your, 120; self-assessment of your, 104; self-improvement planning, 106; time log to start living by a schedule for, 112–115
Time/motion study, 120–121
Training: labor market tier requiring substantial technical, 33–34; labor market tier requiring years of education and formal, 34; Marines’ Boot Camp, 6, 29, 39, 41; on-boarding and up-to-speed, 39–42; ongoing, 45–49. See also Lesson plans; Organizations

Transactional relationships, 189

Troubleshooting, 44

Turnover rates, 30

Wisdom: goal-setting for what you wish to acquire, 146; proactive learning to increase, 139–161; research plan goals for acquiring, 155; as result of contemplating multiple competing good perspectives, 141, 153, 160–161

Workplace: common myths about “service” in the, 227; gap between young talent behaviors and employer expectations in the, 3–5; Gen Zers as making up the most diverse one in history, 13–14; Gen Zers’ expectations about the, 189; myths versus realities in the, 229–233; need for Gen Zers to make reasonable adaptations in the, 19; problem of cultural relativism and non-conformism in the, 17–19; realities about service in the, 228; soft-skills gap as increasing problem in the, 7–8; strategic benefits of bridging the soft-skills gap in the, 5–6; teaching respect for context in the, 187–201

Yale University’s safe pedestrian behavior campaign, 5

Young talent: manager complaints about soft skill deficiencies by, 3–5; post-Boomer generational shift in, 11–16; strategic benefits of bridging the soft-skills gap of, 5–6. See also Employers; Generation Z (born 1990 to 1999); Soft skills scenarios/stories

Zeitgeist (non-conformist), 16–19

U

Up-to-speed training, 39–42

U.S. Air Force Special Operations Team, 256–257

U.S. Marine Corps: Marine Boot Camp, 6, 29, 39, 41; soft skills workforce among the, 60

V

Video communication, 138

Virtual reality: false sense of intellectual pluralism through, 25–26; how Gen Zers has been shaped by social media and, 15–16. See also Social media

W

Weigh station job, 203

Wellness: brainstorming, 102; considerations for your, 107; planning a wellness initiative on, 108–110; self-assessment of your, 104; self-improvement planning, 106