Index

ABCDE model (sharing bad news), 99
Abrahamson, S., 235
Ackerman, Nathan, 127
acronyms, professional, 163 activity-passivity model, doctor–patient relationship, 8 Adeleye, A.O., 100 adverse reactions, openness about medication errors, 111–112 affective empathy, 91, 92 Agedahl, K.M., 76
Alma-Ata Declaration (WHO, 1978), 9, 119
ALOBA (agenda-led, outcome-based analysis), 202, 208, 215 American Board of Internal Medicine Patient Assessment for Continuous Professional Development, 224 American Board of Medical Specialties, Maintenance of Certification assessment, 225 Ammentorp, J., 50–51
apprenticeships, 173
Archer, J., 213–214, 216 assessment of communication skills, 221–228 checklists, 225, 226
current practice, 222–227
effective doctor–patient communication, 30–33 and feedback, 245–246
formative assessment, 212, 222–223, 233, 235, 237, 239 future considerations, 227–228 generalizability theory, 226–227
historical context, 221–222 identity of assessors, 223–224 levels of, 221
matters assessed, 223
methods, 225–227
peer assessment, 223 rating scales, 225, 226 reasons for, 222–223
self-assessment, 223, 235
standard for passing, 227 summative assessment, 222, 223, 233, 235
when assessment made, 224–225
see also communication, clinical;
Communication Assessment Tool (CAT); doctor–patient relationship; Objective Structured Clinical Examinations (OSCEs); performance assessment; workplace-based assessment Association of American Medical Colleges (AAMC), 12, 120 audio-taping of consultations, 10, 23 authoritarian medical consultation, 152 authoritative interaction style, 22 bad news, breaking, 98–103 coping strategies, 101 culture, effect of, 100
current practice, 99–101
definition of ‘bad news,’ 98 effect on professionals, 100–101 end of life tasks, 148
future directions, 101
historical context, 98–99
protocols, 99
SPIKES model, 27, 99, 109 training needs, 101
see also end of life issues
Baile, W.F., 99
Baldwin, T.T., 50
Balint, Enid, 8, 40
Balint, Michael, 8, 11, 22, 91, 174, 234
Balint Groups, 22
Balls, Jennifer, 118
Bandura, A., 50, 182
BARD model, 25
Barnett, M., 186–187
Barrows, Howard, 11, 235
Barth, J., 50
Bates, Victoria, 12
Bateson, Gregory, 127
BATHE Method, 92
Baumal, R., 187

© 2016 John Wiley & Sons, Ltd. Published 2016 by John Wiley & Sons, Ltd.
Index

Beach, M.C., 32, 83
Beale, E.A., 99
Beckett, D., 189
Beckman, Howard, 10, 23 behaviourism, 171, 181–185, 186, 194, 200
current practice, 182–183
defined, 181
future directions, 184
historical context, 181–182
influence on medical education, 181 and simulation, 182, 183, 184
Benbassat, J., 187 benign paternalism see paternalism Bensing, J., 31, 42, 92
Berger, John, 174
Berk, R.A., 227
Berkhof, M., 51
Berne, Eric, 11, 22
Best Evidence Medical Education, 13
Betancourt, J., 119, 120
Bevan, Aneurin, 7 biomedical model/biomedicine, 22, 57 challenges to biomedical model, 8–9 dehumanisation of biomedicine, 172 dominance of biomedical model, 7, 58 traditional medical history, 77 western modern medicine based on, 117 biopsychosocial model, rise of, 8–9, 152
Black, P., 212
Blanch-Hartigan, D., 93–94
Bleakley, A., 122–123, 184
Bligh, J., 184
Blumgart, H., 92 body language, 93, 112, 162
Bombeke, K., 44, 45–46
Boston Women's Health Collective, 9
Bower, P., 41, 44
Bowlby, John, 127
Bradley, P., 53
Branch, W.T., 46
BREAKS model (sharing bad news), 99
Brent, M., 160
Brinkman, W.B., 245
Bristol Royal Infirmary Inquiry (2001), 13, 52
Bromiley, Elaine, 162
Brown, G.W., 128
Brown, J., 51
Brown, R., 100
Buckman, R., 98
Build a Relationship task, 31, 33 Burford, B., 216, 244
Burgers, C., 99
Burke, L., 51
burnout, 92
Butow, P.N., 78–79
Byrne, Patrick S., 10, 23, 40
Calgary-Cambridge model, 43, 92, 132, 152, 159, 183 communication teaching, 215
effective doctor–patient communication, 30, 31
medical interview, 24–25 cancer, 73, 82–83, 175
Cannon-Bowers, J.A., 51 care workers, communication skills required, 140 case histories, 172
see also medical history case-based discussion, 241
CAT (Communication Assessment Tool), 33, 34, 35 Centre for the Advancement of Interprofessional Education, 160 Centre for Workforce Intelligence, 164
Charles, C., 81
checklists, assessment, 225, 226
Chewning, B., 82
Chicago model, 215
Childers, J.W., 106 children and young people, communication with, 131–137 capacity issues, 132, 133
competence issues, 132
consent to treatment, 132, 133
current practice, 131–133
doctor's role, 133
future directions, 133–135
historical context, 131
and social media, 133–134 clinical communication see communication, clinical Clinical Examination (predecessor to OSCE), 234 Clinical Oncological Society of Australia, 92 critical reasoning, 70, 79 closed approach to question asking, 76 Cochrane, Archie, 9
Cochrane Collaboration/Review, 9–10, 43 codified knowledge, 186–187 cognitive behavioural model, 152 cognitive empathy, 91, 92, 93 cognitive processes, simulation, 202–204 cognitiveivism, 200
Cohen-Cole, S., 24
Coll, Xavier, 117 collaboration, experiential learning, 193–194 communication, clinical as cause of medical error communication between health professionals, 109–110
communication between health professionals and patients, 109 reducing errors in communication with patients, 109 communication, clinical (cont’d)
- complaints, responding to, 112–113
- contemporary practice, challenges, 36
- core tasks, 69–71
- direct, in open disclosure, 112
- diversity issues, 119–126
- future directions, 37
- healing quality, 34–35
- humanistic, 174–175
- interprofessional see interprofessional communication
- medical school and workplace, sharing problems between, 189
- risk and uncertainty, 87–90
- teaching see under teaching and transfer, 49–50
  see also doctor–patient relationship; error, medical; skills, communication Communication Assessment Tool (CAT), 33, 34, 35
competence issues
- assessment of communication skills, 224
- children and young people, communication with, 132
- cultural competence, 119, 120
- older patients, working with, 139 ‘unconscious incompetence,’ 194, 195
- complaints, responding to, 112–113 Complaints against Doctors (Klein), 175 compliance, in doctor–patient relationship, 8 ‘concerns’ (clear verbalized statement of an emotion), 93
concordance concept, 11
conflicts and emotional stress, skills in dealing with, 162–163
consensus statements, 26, 27, 33
consent to treatment, 132, 133
constructivism, 171, 194, 200 consultation models, 5, 21–29
  current practice, 25, 27
  future directions, 27–28
  historical overview, 21–25 interruption of patients by doctors, 23, 78 and patient-centredness, 11 process of doctor–patient communication, 21–22
  see also doctor–patient relationship Consumer Assessment of Healthcare Providers and Systems Hospital Survey, 224
consumerism, 16, 22, 23 context, experiential learning, 193 continuity of care, 59 Core Skills Framework learning portfolio, 162
core tasks, 69–71, 74
  clinical reasoning, 70
content and process, 70 specific issues and core skills, 69–70 UK Council of Clinical Communication in Undergraduate Medical Education, 69–70, 121
counter-transference, 91 critical reflection, 206, 208–209, 210
Crossley, J., 242, 245 ‘cues,’ unpleasant emotions, 93 cultural competence, diversity issues, 119, 120 curriculum
  assessment, 223
  elderly patients, working with, 140, 142, 143
  information gathering, 76
  learning outcomes, 221 motivation issues, 194, 195
  and patient-centredness, 45–46
  unintentional/null, 45 see also ‘European Undergraduate Curriculum in Geriatric Medicine’ (Masud); learning; medical education;
    teaching; training requirements curriculum, unintentional/null, 45 Cushing, Annie, 81
Cusimano, M.D., 227
Davies, H., 244
de Haes, H., 31
deafness, 139
death and dying
  attitudes of healthcare professionals to, 149 preferred place of death, 148 preparation for death, 147 in United States, 105 view of death as failure of healthcare, 148 see also end of life issues
decision making
  children and young people,
    communication with, 132, 133
  elderly patients, working with, 143 shared, 27, 82–83
Decker, S., 201
Degner, L.F., 82–83
Del Piccolo, L., 79
dementia care settings, 140, 142
DeNisi, A., 212
Dent, E.F., 160
Department of Health, UK, 133
End of Life Care Strategy, 147
Descartes, René, 7
Dewey, John, 206
Dickson, D., 92 DIREC (Detection, Identification, Response to Emotion Cue), 94 direct observation of procedural skills (DOPS), 241, 243, 244 Disease-Illness Model, 24
diversity issues, 117
  in clinical communication, 119–126 cultural competence, 119, 120
current practice, 121–123
future directions, 123–124
historical context, 119–121
overview, 117–118
staff resistance, assessment, 122
teaching, 119
DNACPR (decision not to attempt cardiopulmonary resuscitation), 149
The Doctor, His Patient and the Illness (Balint), 9, 174 doctor–patient relationship activity-passivity model, 8
current practice, 57–58
effective communication see communication emotions, responding to see emotions, responding to future of, 57–64
guidance-cooperation model, 8
history, 6–20
models see consultation models mutual participation model, 8 national drivers and training policy, 12–13 observation of, 10, 23
as partnership, 58
patient in, 15
process of doctor–patient communication, 21–22 public inquiries, 13–14 status of doctor, 7 study of, 9–10
therapeutic alliance, 7
traditional model, 59 training on, 11–13
trust in, 13–14
see also communication, clinical; health professionals; patient; patient-centredness Doctors’ Interpersonal Skills Questionnaire, 216, 224
Dogra, Nisha, 117, 120, 121, 122, 124
Donaldson, L., 243
DOPS (direct observation of procedural skills), 241, 243, 244
Draper, J., 183
Dreyfus, H.L., 182
Dreyfus, S.E., 182
Dual Process Theory, 201
Dubos, René, 174
Dunning, D., 214
Duties of a Doctor (GMC), 12
Dwamena, F., 42–43
E4 Model, 25, 30
education, medical see medical education educational performance measure (EPM), 224 Edwards, A., 87
E-health, 60
elaboration, experiential learning, 193 elderly patients, working with see older patients, communication with electronic health record (EHR), 15–16, 36 Elwyn, G., 27, 58 emotions, responding to, 91–97 disagreement concerning importance of response, 91–92 empathy, 91, 92–93
evidence on doctors’ responses to patients’ emotions, 92–94
historical context, 91
missed opportunities, 93 negative emotions, 92, 93 positive outcomes from doctors’ responses, 92–93 potential future directions, 94 why doctors fail to respond, 93–94
empathy
  affective, 91, 92
  bad news, breaking, 99
  cognitive, 91, 92, 93
defined, 44
  and history of clinical communication teaching, 172 of medical students, 93, 94, 196 neutral, 92
  patient outcomes, 109
  relationship building, 72, 73, 74
  response to patients’ emotions, 91, 92–93 End of Life Care Strategy (DoH), 147 end of life issues, 118, 147–150 challenging nature, 148–149
current practice, 148
decision not to attempt cardiopulmonary resuscitation (DNA CPR), 149 definitions, 147
training requirements, 148–149
see also death and dying Eng, T.C., 100 engagement, motivational interviewing, 105 Engel, George, 8, 11
epistemic assumptions, 207
Epstein, R.M., 225
Eraut, Michael, 184 error, medical, 108–114 common nature of, 108 communication causing communication between health professionals, 109–110 error, medical (cont’d)
communication between health professionals and patients, 109
reducing error in communication with patients, 109 communication resolving consequences of, 111
defined, 108
future directions, 113
historical overview, 108
medication, 111–112 openness about, 111–112 reducing, 109
supporting colleagues following, 113 see also communication, clinical; complaints, responding to Esmail, A., 120
Essential Elements of Communication in Medical Encounters (Kalamazoo consensus statement), 30, 31, 33, 34 ‘European Undergraduate Curriculum in Geriatric Medicine’ (Masud), 139 Evans, K., 184, 187, 188 evidence-based medicine, 9–10, 12, 16, 88 evoking, motivational interviewing, 105 experiential learning, 171, 193–199
current practice, 194–197
future directions, 197–198
historical context, 193–194
motivation, 194–195
reductionism and holism, 196 repeated practice, 195 transfer, 196–197
expert patient, 61 expert-guide, doctor as, 28 expert-in-charge, doctor as, 28 facilitative interaction style, 22 facilitator, doctor as, 28 Fallowfield, L., 50, 51 family consultation, 117, 127–130 advantages of working with whole family, 129
current practice, 127–128
future directions, 128–129
genogram (family tree), 128
historical context, 127
verbal aspects, 128
Family Law Reform Act 1969, 133 Fatiregun, A.A., 100 feedback, 211–218
and assessment, 245–246
bad news, breaking, 101
complexity, 215 content, 245
current practice, 213–215
defined, 211–212
effectiveness, 212–213 feedback-standard discrepancy, 212 and formative assessment, 212
future directions, 215–216
historical context, 211–213
influences on, 213–214
models, 214–215
and simulation, 202–204
female doctors, 173–174 feminism, birth of, 9, 22, 23 financial interests, 174 Fook, J., 207, 208
Ford, J.K., 50
formative assessment, 212, 222–223, 233, 235, 237, 239
Foundation Programme (two-year), 139, 162
Four Habits Model, 25, 31
Frambach, J.M., 123 frames of reference, 207 Francis Report (2013), 13, 14, 52, 162
Frankel, Richard, 10, 23
Freidson, E., 8
Freud, Sigmund/Freudian theory, 11, 151
Friedman, Milton, 12
Gardner, F., 207, 208
Gattrellari, M., 83
General Medical Council (GMC), UK, 13, 15, 43, 122, 159, 216, 235 Duties of a Doctor, 12
Tomorrow’s Doctors, 12, 24, 119, 139, 176 workplace-based assessment, 243–244
generalizability theory, 226–227
genogram (family tree), 128 global rating scales, 225, 226 global scoring, 236–237
globalisation, 15–16
of medical education, 120–121, 122
Gordon, F., 161
Gray, M., 57
Green, A.R., 122 guidance-cooperation model, doctor–patient relationship, 8 Guile, D., 188
Gulbrandsen, P., 51
Hafferty, F.W., 53
Hager, P., 182, 189
Hagerty, R.G., 100
Haggerty, J.J., 59
Haidet, P., 44
Haley, Jay, 127
Hall, Judith, 10
Halpern, J., 92–93
Hamilton, J., 122
Harden, R.M., 234
Hargie, O., 121
Harlen, W., 212
Harris, J., 188
Hattie, J., 212, 213
Hawkes, G., 161, 164
Health Belief Model, 22 health literacy, 15
health professionals bad news, breaking see bad news, breaking death and dying, views of, 149 effect of breaking bad news on, 100–101 errors in communication between, 109–110
errors in communication with patients, 109 historical development of role of doctor, 5, 6–20
response to patients’ emotions disagreement concerning importance, 91–92
evidence on, 92–94 positive outcomes from doctors’ responses, 92–93
why doctors fail to respond, 93–94
see also doctor–patient relationship healthcare leadership model, 162 patient-centred care, evidence of effect on outcomes, 42–43
as a right, 7–8
hearing difficulties, 139
Heath, Iona, 15
Heaven, C., 52, 190
Heron, John, 11
Six Category Intervention Analysis, 22–23
higher-level thought, evidence of, 203 high-fidelity simulation, 201, 202, 203, 204 history see medical history HIV patients, 83, 101
Hobgood, C., 120
Hodges, B., 226
Hodkinson, P., 182
Hojat, M., 46
holism, 196
Hollender, Marc, 8 hospice care, 175
hospital care, 174
Hughes, E., 94
Hulsmans, R. L., 13
Humphrey-Murto, S., 227, 228 Hutchins, H., 51
hypnosis, 151
hypothesetico-deductive reasoning, 79 iatrogenesis (harm caused by medical treatment), 9
Illeris, K., 189
Illich, Ivan, 9, 175
Illingworth, Rosie, 11
Illness as Metaphor (Sontag), 175 illness framework, 77 ‘Illness Scripts,’ 200–201
imitative learning, 173
information gathering, 44
and clinical reasoning, 79 communication errors, 109
current teaching practice, 78–79
future directions, 79
historical context, 76–78
medical history, 76, 77, 78
questions, asking, 76
skills, 78–79
whole systems and networking, 14
see also medical history
information sharing, 81–86
communication errors, 109
current teaching practice, 82–83
future directions, 83
historical context, 81–82
perceived inadequacy of from patient perspective, 10
and shared decision making, 82–83
skills, 82–83
information technology, 15–16 Institute of Medicine (US), 42, 105 interaction styles, taxonomy, 22 International Alliance of Patients’ Organizations, 43
Internet, and democratisation of knowledge, 15 interpersonal skills see skills, communication interprofessional communication, 159–167 awareness of own role, 160–161 being proactive, 162 challenges, 160–164 common language and consistency in interpretation of confidentiality, 163 conflicts and emotional stress, skills in dealing with, 162–163
courage, need for, 162
eythics between professions, understanding/dealing with, 161
overview, 159–160
respect towards and trust in abilities of other professions, 163–164 time factors, 164
understanding different professions’ roles and responsibilities, 161–162
whistleblowing, 162
see also communication, clinical interviews, 11, 12, 31, 44, 72, 104, 123, 172, 215, 222
bad news, breaking, 99, 101 Calgary-Cambridge Guide to the Medical Interview, 24–25
consultation models, 24, 25
core tasks in clinical communication, 69, 70
family, 128
information gathering, 78, 79
interviews (cont’d)

information sharing, 81, 82, 83
mental health, 153, 155
observed/video-taped, 140, 143 older patients, communication with, 138, 139, 140 poor-quality, 154 semi-structured, 100
student, 122, 224
transformative learning, 202, 203
see also Calgary-Cambridge Guide to the Medical Interview; motivational interviewing

Irvine, Sir Donald, 14
Irving, P., 92

Jaeger, R., 213
James, M., 212
jargon, professional, 163 Johns, C., 207
Jolly, B., 245
Joshi, R., 224

Kai, J., 119
Kapowitz, S., 100
Karnik, N., 120
Kennedy, Ian, 9, 52, 53
Khalil, R.B., 100
King, J., 213
Kings Fund (charity), 14
Kirkpatrick, D.L., 204
Klein, Rudolf, 175

Kogan, J.R., 244
Kolb, D.A., 195
Konkola, R., 187
Korsch, Barbara, 9, 72, 193
Kruger, J., 214
Kruger-Dunning effect, 214
Krupat, E., 44, 46
Kurtz, S.M., 183, 196

language, 9, 98
barriers, 124 body, 93, 112, 162 clarity of, 32, 82, 141 common, 21, 160, 163
incomprehensible, 81
Latin, 173
medical/scientific writing, 53, 173 problems in elderly, 138 sign, 119, 139
and training, 45, 53, 54 see also diversity issues; sociolinguistic matters

Lannen, P., 50
Latin, 173
Lave, J., 183
Layton, D., 187
Lazare, Aaron, 10
learner recontextualisation, 188

learning
disintegrated, 187
experiential, 171, 193–199 ‘front loading,’ 182–183
imitative, 173
levels of, 51
patient-centredness, 43–46 situated and work-based, 171, 186–192 transformative, 200–205 vicarious, 202
workplace supporting, 52, 187–188 see also curriculum; medical students;
teaching; training requirements

learning conversations, 189 learning cycle (Kolb), 195

Leicester Assessment Package, 215

Lempp, H., 120
Levinson, W., 79, 223
Ley, Philip, 175
Libbrecht, N., 228
Lie, D., 124
Liénard, A., 50, 51
‘lifeworld,’ and ‘medicines world’, 9
Lipkin, M., 251
Lipps, Theodor, 91
Livingston, S.A., 227

London College of Surgeons, establishment (1745), 6 Long, Barrie E.L., 10, 23, 40
Lurie, S., 122
Lussier, M.T., 27–28

Maguire, P., 10

Maintenance of Certification assessment, American Board of Medical Specialties, 225

Marks, M., 227
Mayer-Salovey-Caruso Emotional Intelligence test, 228 Mazzi, M.A., 92
McEvoy, M., 121
McKeown, Thomas, 174
McMath, J.C., 76
McMillan, S.S., 42
McWhinney, Ian, 11, 43, 77
Mead, N., 41, 44
medical education
diversity issues, 122
eyearly medical schools, 173
globalisation, 120–121, 122
and history of clinical communication teaching, 173–174
influence of behaviourism on, 181 reflection, 182
simulation-based, 201–202 types of knowledge worked with, 186 see also Best Evidence Medical Education; curriculum; learning; medical students; teaching; training requirements; transfer of communication/knowledge; ‘UK Consensus Statement on the Content of Communication Curricula in Undergraduate Medical Education’ (Von Fragstein, et al); UK Council of Clinical Communication in Undergraduate Medical Education medical error see error, medical medical history, 7, 21, 22, 23, 172
information gathering, 76, 77, 78
The Medical Interview (Lipkin), 251
Medical Interview Teaching Association, UK, 12 Medical Nemesis (Illich), 175 medical schools see under medical education; medical students; situated and work-based learning; training requirements Medical Schools Council Assessment Alliance, 228 medical students
empathy, 93, 94, 196
interviews, 122, 224
medical schools, types of learners created by, 52–54
and patient-centredness, 43–46
training, impact, 49–56 women and working-class students, 173–174 working with elderly, attitudes on, 138 see also learning; teaching medicine biomedical model, western medicine based on, 117 evidence-based, 9–10
‘Illness Scripts,’ 200–201 professionalisation of, 6–7 ‘real,’ 79
see also biomedical model/biomedicine ‘medicines world,’ and ‘lifeworld’, 9 Meetings between Experts (Tuckett), 35
mental health, 118, 151–155 balanced approach requirement, 153–154 biopsychosocial model, rise of, 8–9, 152
current practice, 152–154
future implications, 154
historical context, 151–152
modern psychiatry, 151, 153, 154 optimal treatment requirement, 153–154 psychoanalysis, 7, 22, 91, 153
psychodynamic models, 11, 152, 153
psychosocial sciences, 7, 23
see also Palo Alto Mental Research Institute of Brief Therapy Mesmer, Franz, 151
Mezirow, J., 206, 207, 208
Miall, T.A., 76, 94
Mid Staffordshire Hospital, Francis Report into neglect in (2013), 13, 14, 52, 162 Milan’s Systemic Model (family therapy), 127 Miller, A., 244
Miller, E., 122
Miller, G.E., 51, 221
Miller, Henry, 174
Miller, William, 104, 105
Mind-Body dualism, Cartesian, 7 mini-CEX (mini-clinical evaluation exercise), 222, 225, 241, 242 MINT (Motivational Interviewing Network of Trainers), 104
Mishler, E., 9
Mizrahi, T., 44
mobile tablet technology, 238
Morgan, S., 42
Morse, D.S., 73
motivation
  and change, 104, 105, 106 and experiential learning, 194–195 external/extrinsic, 194, 196 internal, 73, 194
  pre-training, 51
motivational interviewing, 27 aims, 105
  current practice, 104–106
  facilitating change through, 104–107
  future directions, 106
  historical context, 104
  method, using four overlapping processes, 105 principles, benefits of using, 105 training, 104, 106
  uses of, 104
see also interviews
Motivational Interviewing (Miller and Rollnick), 105
MSF (multisource feedback), 241, 242, 244 Mulley, A.G., 83
multiagency models, 163 multisource feedback (MSF), 241, 242, 243, 244 Murray-Garcia, J.L., 120 mutual participation model, doctor-patient relationship, 8 Myers, T., 101

Nambisan, Vinnie, 118
National Health Service (NHS) clinical communication teaching, history, 175 Institute for Innovation and Improvement, demise of, 163 Leadership Academy, 161, 162 mini-CEX modified for, 242 origins, 7, 8
Quality and Service Improvement Tools, 163 Nazar, M., 122
Neighbour, R., 23, 24, 215 neoliberalism, 12
Nettleton, S., 117
Network Therapy, 127
Neumann, M., 44, 73
neutral empathy, 92
NHS see National Health Service (NHS)
Noble, L.M., 45 nurses, communication skills required, 140 Nursing and Midwifery Council, 159

Objective Structured Clinical Examinations (OSCEs), 176, 196
assessment, 222, 225, 227, 233–234
Clinical Examination (predecessor to OSCE), 234 see also assessment of communication skills Objective Structured Long Examination Record (OSLER), 222, 225 older patients, communication with, 117, 138–146
competences and skills required, 139
current practice, 139–142
dementia care settings, 140, 142
future directions, 142–143
health issues, 138
historical context, 138
interventional studies, 140 length of training courses, 140 negative attitudes of doctors and students, 138 research requirements, 143 residency training programmes, internal medicine (US), 139 sensory impairment in elderly, 139
training requirements, 139–142, 143
OPTION grid, shared decision making, 27 oral history see medical history OSCEs (Objective Structured Clinical Examinations) see Objective Structured Clinical Examinations (OSCEs)
OSLER (Objective Structured Long Examination Record), 222, 225
Osler, William, 7
Oswald, A., 46
‘othering,’ concept, 119
Our Bodies, Ourselves (Boston Women’s Health Collective), 9 over-medicalization, 9 paediatric consultations, 131–132
see also children and young people, communication with Palo Alto Mental Research Institute of Brief Therapy, 127 parent, adult, child relationships (transactional analysis), 8, 11, 22 Parle, M., 50
Parsons, Talcott, 8 partnership, doctor-patient relationship as, 58 Patient-Centred Clinical Method, 31 paternalism, 11, 24, 28
in welfare state, 7–8 patient dissatisfaction with information provision, 10 in doctor-patient relationship, 15 errors in communication with health professionals, 109 interruption by doctor during consultation, 23, 78
see also doctor-patient relationship patient partnership agenda, 12 Patient Perception of Patient Centredness questionnaire, 224 Patient Satisfaction Questionnaire (Royal College of General Practitioners), 244 Patient-Centred Interviewing, 31 patient-centredness, 5, 23, 27, 40–48 attitudes, 44–45
concept analysis, 41
whether concept of patient-centred care justified, 43 culture and curriculum, effect of, 45–46 decline in, 46
definitions, 41, 42
dimensions, 41–42
empathy, 44
evidence of effect of patient-centred care on healthcare outcomes, 42–43 evolution of term ‘patient-centred,’ 40–42
future directions, 46
interactive components of patient-centred approach, 41 interventions to foster, 46 interviewing to gather information, 44 and models of doctor–patient relationship, 11 origins of term, 8–9
paediatric consultations, 131–132 patient-centred care, 22, 42–43 systematic review, 41
teaching and learning with medical students, 43–46 Patient–Practitioner Orientation Scale, 44 Patient’s Charter, UK, 12
Paul, C.L., 98
PEARLS Method, 92
pedagogic recontextualisation, 188
peer assessment, 223
Pendleton, D., 23, 175, 202, 214, 215 Percival, Thomas, 6
performance assessment, 233–240
current practice, 235
future directions, 238–239
global scoring, 236–237
historical context, 234–235
integration in teaching and testing, 237–238 responsibility, scoring, 236–237 testing time, 237
see also assessment of communication skills; workplace-based assessment personal characteristics, 50 Pleiffer, C., 44, 45
Picker Institute Europe, 14, 16 planning, motivational interviewing, 105
Platt, F.W., 76
Pollock, Kristian, 11
Poole, A.D., 72, 73 postgraduate communication curriculum, 13 private-sector management principles, 12 professional artistry, 206 professional failures, 13–14 professionalisation of medicine, 6–7 professionalism, 5, 6, 53, 224, 237, 238 history of doctor–patient relationship, 13, 14 training, impact of, 52, 53
workplace-based assessment, 241, 242, 244
pseudo-concordance, 11 psychiatry, 151
psychic assumptions, 207
psychoanalysis, 7, 22, 91, 153
psychodynamic models, 11, 152, 153
psychometrics, 238
psychosocial sciences, 7, 23
public inquiries, 13–14 Pyramid of Assessment (Miller), 182 qualitative research, 122 Quality and Service Improvement Tools (NHS), 163 randomised controlled trials, 13, 50 Rathert, C., 42 rating scales, global, 225, 226 Ray, E.B., 100
recontextualisation, 188–189, 190 reductionism, 7, 21–22, 196 reflective practice, 202, 206–210 clinical communication skills teaching, incorporating, 208–209 critical reflection, 206, 208–209, 210
future practice, 207–208
future directions, 209–210
historical context, 206 reflection in action, 206 reflection on action, 206
The Reflective Practitioner (Schon), 182 Regehr, G., 226
relationship building, 72–75
communication errors, 109
current practice, 73–74
future directions, 74
historical context, 72–73
relationship-centred care, 14 repeated practice, experiential learning, 195 respectful challenging, concept of, 53 Reznick, R.K., 225
Richard, C., 27–28
right to healthcare, 7–8 risk and uncertainty, communication about, 87–90
current practice, 88
future directions, 88–89
historical context, 87–88 prognosis of illness, 88
Roberts, C., 123
Rogers, Carl, 8
Rollnick, S., 105
Roter, Deborah, 10, 223
Royal Colleges, UK
assessment by, 225
Royal College of General Practitioners, 23, 123, 243, 244 Royal College of Physicians, 14, 15 standards established by, 6 Royal Pharmaceutical Society, UK, 11
Russ-Eft, D., 52
Rutter, M., 128
Sackett, David, 10
safeguarding hubs, multiagency, 163 safeguarding of patients, 14 Salas, E., 51
Salmon, P., 70, 195, 196
Sanson-Fisher, R.W., 72, 73
Satterfield, J.M., 94
Saunders, Dame Cicely, 147, 175
SBAR (Situation, Background, Assessment and Recommendation) tool, 109, 110 SBAR technique, 53 schema-driven approaches, clinical reasoning, 79 Scholl, I., 41–42
Schön, Donald, 182, 206, 208
Schwartz Center Rounds, 162, 163 scientific paradigm, rise of, 7 Seale, C., 120
Sears, K.P., 123
SEGUE Framework, 27, 31
self-assessment, 223, 235 self-efficacy, 50, 51
self-knowledge, 160–161 self-regulation theories, 246 semantic theory, 203
sensory impairment, in elderly, 139
Sep, M.S.C., 99
Shared Decision Making model, 27
Shaw, J.M., 100, 101
Shipman, Harold, 13
’sick role,’ 8
Sigerist, Henry, 16
sign language, 119, 139 Silverman, J., 99, 159, 183, 190, 196 simulation, 53, 186, 200
and behaviourism, 182, 183, 184 cognitive, psychomotor and attitudinal domains, 201 disease acceleration recognised by student, 203–204
feedback and cognitive processes in, 202–204
high-fidelity, 201, 202, 203, 204
medical education, 201–202 risk-reducing effect, 202 see also transformative learning situated and work-based learning, 171, 186–192, 201
current practice, 187–190
future directions, 190–191
historical context, 186–187
medical school and workplace, 189
recontextualisation, 188–189, 190
Situated Learning (Lave and Wenger), 183
Situational Test of Emotional Understanding/Management, 228 Six Category Intervention Analysis (Heron), 22–23 Skelton, John, 221, 236–237 skills, communication assessment see assessment of communication skills competence issues, 139
conflicts and emotional stress, dealing with, 162–163 core skills, 69–70
critical reflection, incorporating, 208–209
information gathering, 78–79
information sharing, 82–83
models for teaching and assessing, 30–33 patient perspectives on essential skills, 33–34 and relationship building, 73–74 versus skilled communicators, 197 staged model of skills learning, 182 see also communication, clinical social cognitive models, 87 social constructivism, 200 social media, pros and cons, 133–134 Society of General Internal Medicine, US, 11 sociocultural assumptions, 207 sociolinguistic matters, 15, 120–121 SOCRATES mnemonic, 203
Sontag, Susan, 175
SPIKES model (sharing bad news), 27, 99, 109 Standard Patient Program, US, 235 standard setting, categorisation, 227 Standardized Patient, US, 235
Stegers-Jeger, K., 123
Step, M.M., 100
Stewart, M., 10, 41
Stillman, Paula, 11
Stone, J., 94
‘Stop the Silent Misdiagnosis’ (Mulley), 83 Strategic Therapy, 127 Street, R.L., 34–35
Structural Family Therapy, 127 structure, importance, 69 structured long case, 225 students see medical students successful enactment concept, 51 Suchman, A.L., 73
summative assessment, 222, 223, 233, 235 ‘sympathetic vibrations,’ 92 sympathy, 91 systems theory, 127 Szasz, Thomas, 8
talking therapies, 7 ‘talking therapies,’ concept, 151, 152
Tann, M., 226
Tarbuck, Andrew, 117
Task Force on the Doctor and Patient, American Association of Medical Colleges (1980s), 12
Tate, S., 206
Taylor, J., 119
Taylor, Keith, 11
Taylor, M., 188

teaching
of clinical communication
- critical reflection, incorporating, 208–209
- history, 171, 172–178
- models, 30–33

didactic, 105
diversity, 119
‘front loading,’ 182–183
information gathering, 78–79
information sharing, 82–83
performance, assessment, 237–238

see also communication, clinical;
- curriculum; training requirements;
- transfer of communication/knowledge

Team Assessment of Behaviour, 243 teamworking, 14 technical rationality, 206 telemedicine, 60
tervalon, M., 119–120
Thatcher, Margaret, 12
Themmen, A., 123
therapeutic alliance, 7
Thorndike, E.L., 181
Three-Function Model, 31, 92, 152 time factors, interprofessional communication, 164
Timperley, H., 212

Tomorrow’s Doctors (GMC), 12, 24, 119, 139, 176

*Toronto consensus statement on doctor–patient communication,
evidence-based (1991)*, 10

trade guilds, 6

training requirements, 11–12
- apprenticeships, 173
- bad news, breaking, 101
- competences and skills required, variation in, 139
- elderly patients, working with, 139–142, 143
- end of life issues, 148–149
- factors improving chance of transfer, 50–52
- future directions, 54
- impact, 49–56
- and language, 45, 53, 54
- motivational interviewing, 104, 106
- policy, 12–13
- transfer and clinical communication, 49–50
- types of learners created by medical schools, 52–54
- ways in which workplace supports
  learning, 52

see also transfer of communication/knowledge transactional analysis, 8, 11, 22

transfer of communication/knowledge,
- factors improving chance of, 50–52
- long-term, 50
- situated and work-based learning, 196
- successful, 51
- transfer metaphor, 181–182, 183
- see also training requirements transference, 91

transformative learning, 200–205
- facilitation of, 202
- feedback and cognitive processes in simulation, 202–204
- historical context, 200–201
- simulation-based medical education, 201–202

see also simulation

Transformed Clinical Method, 11

transtheoretical model (TTM), of change,
- 104, 132

traumas, psychological, 22

trust
- in abilities of other professions, 163–164
- and assessment, 246
- in doctor–patient relationship, 13–14
- Tuckett, David, 10, 35
- Turner, Margot, 117

‘u-health’ (ubiquitous health service), 60

Uitterhoeve, R.J., 50

‘UK Consensus Statement on the Content of Communication Curricula in Undergraduate Medical Education’
(Von Fragstein, et al), 139, 188

UK Council of Clinical Communication in Undergraduate Medical Education, 233

United Kingdom Clinical Aptitude Test
(UKCAT), 224

United States
- American Board of Internal Medicine Patient Assessment for Continuous Professional Development, 224
- American Board of Medical Specialties, 225
- Association of American Medical Colleges (AAMC), 12, 120
- death and dying in, 105
- and doctor–patient relationship, 12
- mini-CEx developed in, 222, 225, 241, 242
- performance assessment, 235
- residency training programmes, internal medicine, 139
- sociolinguistic studies, 120–121
- United States Medical Licensing Examination, 224, 228
Index

The Unmasking of Medicine (Kennedy), 9, 175
USMLE (United States Medical Licensing Examination), 224, 228

Vail, L., 99
van Dalen, J., 195
van den Eertwegh, V., 50, 195, 197 Van Oers, B., 189
VandeKieft, G.K., 99
Veloski, J., 212
vicarious learning, 202 victim blaming, 15
video-taping, 10
Violato, C., 244–245
Von Fragstein, M., 123, 139, 188
Vygotsky, L.S., 184

Waitzkin, H., 10
Wald, H.S., 36
Warren, E., 25
Wass, V., 122, 124, 216
Weakland, John, 127
Weiner, Norbert, 211 welfare state, paternalism, benign, 7–8 Wenger, E., 183
Whelan, G.P., 224
whistleblowing, 162
Whitney, S.N., 99

‘Whole Person Health’ (biopsychosocial concept), 8–9 whole systems, 14
Wilkinson, J.R., 244
Wilkinson, T.J., 53
William, D., 212
Williamson, P.R., 73
Wittmann, E., 99
Woloschuk, W., 45
Wood, D.F., 190 workplace recontextualisation, 188
workplace-based assessment, 241–248
  current practice, 242–245
  future directions, 245–246
  historical context, 241–242 World Health Organisation (WHO)
  Alma-Ata Declaration (1978), 9
  Surgical Safety checklist, 110
Wynia, Matthew, 14

Yoder, L.H., 42
Young, B., 70, 195, 196

Zagreb, Croatia, 36
Zieky, M.J., 227
Zimmerman, C., 79
Ziv, A., 226
‘Zone of Proximal Development’ (Vygotsky), 184