Index

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>A</th>
<th>Assertiveness (example), being caught in the middle, 23–42</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Accountability, 122</td>
<td>Assumptions about learning, 252</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Acknowledgment of doubt/anxiety/guilt, 61</td>
<td>Attitudes, disabling, 86</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Action forcing process, 276–277</td>
<td>Authentic anxiety, 158</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Acts of service, 244</td>
<td>Authentic statements, 253</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Adaptability, 156–157</td>
<td>Authenticity in leadership, 157–158, 168–169</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Advice: to avoid advice, 74; examples of clients’ wishes for, 71; fundamental question about, 66; on interacting with clients, 329–330; limitations of, 69; reasons for seeking, 70; wishes for, example of, 71</td>
<td>Authoritarian leadership, 296</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>After-action reviews, 261</td>
<td>Authorities, dependence on, 82–83</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Anonymous data collection, 333–337</td>
<td>Awareness of “felt sense,” 283</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Anxiety: acknowledgment of, 61; avoiding, about being yourself, 164; bearing, 157; constructive use of, 157–158; conversations about, 155; and courage, 156–157; forms of, 2; of guilt, 161; levels of, 156; as symptom of other feelings, 3</td>
<td>Awareness versus teaching, 112–115</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Archetypes, 3, 145, 211–212</td>
<td>Axelrod, Emily, 291</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Aresto, Joe, 297</td>
<td>B</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Argyris, Chris, 72, 296</td>
<td>Barbeau, Rosemarie, 179</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Arrien, Angeles, 181</td>
<td>Barua, Anish, 140</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Assertiveness (example), being caught in the middle, 23–42</td>
<td>Bearing witness, 79</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Assumptions about learning, 252</td>
<td>Bell, Mike, 140</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Attitudes, disabling, 86</td>
<td>Bender, Kees Jan, 140</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Authentic anxiety, 158</td>
<td>Black, Will, 241</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Authentic statements, 253</td>
<td>Block, Peter, 13, 69, 149, 307, 365, 393</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Authenticity in leadership, 157–158, 168–169</td>
<td>Bloom, Harold, 8</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Authoritarian leadership, 296</td>
<td>Bolster, Cliff, 152, 249</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Authorities, dependence on, 82–83</td>
<td>Boundaries, blurring of, 79–80</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Awareness of “felt sense,” 283</td>
<td>Budgeting process, 277</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Awareness versus teaching, 112–115</td>
<td>Index</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
Bureaucracy, 294
Business and philosophy, marriage between, 153

C
Camson, Barry, 319
Capability development, 268
Capacities, talking about our, 238
Careless Society, The (McKnight), 86
Caring for the clients, 256
Case of Priscilla and the Red Pen (example), 97–103
Centeredness of consultants, 270, 278–279
Centrality of relationships, 182–183
Chairs, importance of, 311
Challenges for consultants, 229–230
Challenges for women, 226–227
Change: beliefs about leadership and, 149–150; clients’ demands for, 81–82; definition, 82; elements that spark, 318–319; enabling occurrence of, 238; how employees view, 46; initiating through surveys, 339; labor of as clients’ job, 180–181; leadership methods chosen to bring about, 341; moment of (kairos), 163–164; paradoxes in, 177; proposing, 62; seeds of, 260–261; sustainable, 48; wish to change our fate, 196–197
Change efforts: as mind in search of body, 176; reasons for failure, 342; unproductive, 18–19
Change management paradigm, 292–297
Change process, building your, 347
“Changes of the heart,” 32
Changing organizations, process of, 197
Chaos, order from, 10
Character, 164–165
Chardin, Pierre Teilhard de, 163
Checklist for client interaction, 329–330
Choice, freedom of, 258
Choices, framing versus prescribing, 60 collaboration, 300; through our pain, 222–223
Connelly, Dianne, 141
Connolly, Cyril, 157
Consciousness, shifting our, 406
Consciousness and room design, 309
Constructive criticism, 237
Constructive uses of anxiety, 158
“Consultant, flawed” (Murphy) (fictional example), 23–42
Consultants: abuse of, 230; assumptions about clients, avoiding, 390; in the background, 137; centeredness of, 270, 278–279; challenges for, 229–230; collaborative role of, 253; ego satisfaction of, 114; as evocateurs, 232–233; “good,” 231; as guides through chaos and suffering, 191; guilt and, 109–112; as holders of collective possibility, 239; hubris of, 105–109; identification with clients, refraining from, 113; as learners, 269; meanings of presence of, 256; most common recommendations by, 14; moving into the future as work of, 196; as perturbers, 126; playing the fool, 188–191; role of, 192, 268–269, 380; self-awareness of, 72, 269–271; willingness to face clients’ questions, 73
Consulting: and building relationships, 175–176; building the business, 233–234; as form of facilitated learning, 254; four phases of, 126; Laing’s process of transformation in, 193–194; love-hate relationship with, 10; nature of, 9–11; new direction of, 79–80; “nightmares,” 383–387, 390–391; as series of interventions, 209; versus therapy, 176; value of, 15
Consulting fees, 206
Consulting problems, common: boss behavior, 393–394; conflict resolution, 400; “fixing” people, 399–400; helpless and political managers, 396; low performers, 396–397; needing clear definitions of direction, 401–402; obsession with elected officials, 395–396; paradox of wanting innovation and reassurance, 401; setting high standards/measurements, 402–403; taking pilot projects to large scale, 398–399; wanting measurable, hard data, 397–398; wanting to improve communication, 394–395
Content, discovery questions about, 131
Content of consulting meetings, 94
Context, 104, 131
Contracting: at beginning of relationships, 205; good faith responses during initial, 91–92; meaning of, 78; the relationship as first thing, 205–206; social, 126–127
Control: and blurred boundaries, 79–80; clients’ requests for more, 70; problems with the word, 111–112; surrendering in leadership, 241–248
Conversations: about anxiety, 155; about our capacities, 238; difficult, as opportunities for engagement, 62; engagement through, 48–49, 168–169; first- and third-person perspectives, 45–48; importance of to creating relationships, 319; versus meetings, 152; as tools, 10
Cooperrider, David, 127, 317–318
Coping skills, development of, 212
Core beliefs of homeopathic consultation, 255
Core skills of engagement, 59–61
Cost, questions about, 132
Courage: and anxiety, 156–157; definition, 155; secret of, 161
Creating new beginnings, 62
Creative solutions, 302
Crisis, the existential, 158, 159, 161
Cross-functional nature of teams, 293
Csikszentmihalyi, Mihaly, 251
Culture: change of in meetings, 372;
common, 73; dependence on authorities in, 82–83; dominant versus non-dominant, 216–217; future searches and, 144–145; how it becomes known, 239; of negative conditions, 128; shifts in organizational, 295
Cynicism, 294

D
Daly, Lou Ann, 267
Dannemiller, Kathie, 10, 297, 299, 315, 370, 391
Data collection, 332–333, 333–337
Deep structure of human existence, 156
Defenses, colluding with clients’, 71
Defensiveness: creation of, 296; feedback on, 111; letting go of consultants’, 95
Definitions: change, 82; community, 238; courage, 155; detachment, 181; employee, 79; flawless, 242, 247; meaning, 104; oxymorons, 9; partners, 168; projection, 222; schizophrenia, 192–193; subcontractor, 79; symbols, 104
Democratic principles, 301–302
Deolalikar, Bapu, 140
Dependency of clients, 86
Design groups, 293
Despair, 161
Detachment, 181
Details as distractions, example of, 171
Detroit Edison, example of, 296–297
“developing” community. See Michigan’s Community Transformation Project
Diagnostic interviews, 168, 169–170
Diagnostic skills, 234
Differences and similarities in relationships, 214–218
Dilemmas: authenticity in leadership, 168–169; ethical, 333; of too much/not enough, 220–221
Directness, 203
Disagreements, being stuck in, 226
Disclosure versus withholding, 168
Disconnection, 214
Discovering Common Ground (Weisbord), 139
Discovery: basis for, 127–129; collaborative, 129–130; versus diagnosis, 127; efforts made during phase of, 130; engagement beginning with, 168–169; example of process of, 131–132
Dolan, Patrick, 77
Doubt, acknowledgment of, 61
Dreams/dream analysis, 376–381
Drexler-Sibbet Team Performance Model, 279–283
Duggan, Robert, 141

E
Education versus entertainment, 371–372
“Edutainment,” 370–372
Ego satisfaction, 114
Eliot, T. S., 356
Emery, Fred, 297, 299
Emery, Merylynn, 299
Emotional issues: client/consultant reactions, 94; consultant’s guilt, 109–112; consultant’s hubris, 105–109; dilemma of too much/not enough, 220–221; ego satisfaction, 114; feeling heard, 389; feeling understood, 94, 167, 181; focusing on in masculine experience, 177; following emotional paths, 197–198; guidelines for exposing, 94–95; hope, 159; need for connection/inclusion, 211–214; reactions of clients, 94; shame, 384–386
Employee, definition, 79
Employee Engagement Inventory. See McCormick Employee Engagement Inventory (MEEI)
Employee involvement change process, 292
Employee surveys. See Questionnaires
Employees: goals of, 346; measuring engagement of, 343; view of change by, 46
Empowerment leadership, 296
Enabling change, 238
Endings, initiating, 62
Engagement: beginning, with discovery, 168; of change through first-person view, 49–50; choosing over utility, 51; core skills of, 59–61; leadership by, 340; measuring employees’, 343; methods for, 372; and one’s personal stance, 52–55; of organization, 303; personal stance and, 52–55; replacement of disinterest with, 296–297; simple methods for, 372; stance fostering, 53; of system, 130–133; through conversations, 48–49; through first person perspectives, 49–50; through knowing your voice counts, 300. See also McCormick Employee Engagement Inventory (MEEI)
Engagement-enhancing questions, 151
Engagement paradigm, 291, 299–300
Enterprise integration, stages of, 279–283
Entertainment versus education, 371–372
Estey, Katharine, 140
Ethical dilemmas in data collection, 333
Ethics, 164
Evaluation, purpose of, 370
Evaluation forms: changing for the event, 373; for increasing accountability of participants, 368–369; intended purpose of, 370; for meetings/workshops, 367–368; usual questions on, 366–367; when to use, 369–370. See also Feedback
Event planning teams, 318
Evocateurs, consultants as, 232–234
Examples: The Case of Priscilla and the Red Pen, 97–103; collaborative discovery, 129–130; details as distractions, 171; Detroit Edison, 296–297; discovery process, 131–132; exposing content/emotion, 95; GoodJeans Company memo, 44–45; hospital in Hawaii, 302–303; leadership types, 340; leading from behind, 241–248; manufacturing company case, 259–260; the merger case, 275–276; Michigan’s Community Transformation Project, 355–362; post-intervention surveys, 344–345; power of words, 154; at school of philosophy and healing in action (SOPHIA), 141–144; school system conferences, 345; self-perception, 274–275; sexual harassment, 383; stance and conversation, 55–59; Taco Cabana intervention, 319–326; telling the truth, 203; when/when not to use anonymous data collection, 333–337; of wishes for advice, 71
Exceptions, seeking, 62
Existential crisis, 138, 159, 161, 163
Existential guilt, 161
Expectations of clients, 69
Experiences, elements of that we undervalue, 365–366
Experiences, “getting” versus understanding others, 181
Experts, 83–84, 86–87
Exposing content/emotion, example of, 95
Externalizing the problem, 334–335

F
Failure as symbol of mortality, 19
Failure of change efforts, reasons for, 342
Faith, 244, 247
Family and work, 183–184
Fear-based myths, 239–240
Fears, costs of not honoring, 18–19
Feedback: Questionnaires: and anonymous data collection, 335; for consultants, 233; importance of for learning, 257; meetings, resistance in, 92. See also Evaluation forms

Index
Feeling heard, 389
Feeling understood, 94, 167, 181
Fees, 206
Female and male selves, integration of, 195
Female-to-female relationships, 212–213
Feminine styles of consulting, 201
Fictional accounts/examples: “Consultant, flawed” (Murphy), 23–42; good/bad meetings, 90–91; from mythology, 194–196; Yoda as role model for homeopathic consultation, 256
Field, Sally, 365
First person perspectives, 45–48, 49–50
Flack, Jack, 56
Flawed Advice and the Management Trap (Argyris), 72
Flawless, definition, 242, 247
Flow: The Optimal Psychological Experience (Csikszentmihalyi), 251
Fools, wisdom of, 188
Fortitude, 161
Framing choices, 60
Framing client’s needs as deficiency, 86
Frankl, Viktor, 159
Freedom of choice, 258, 289
Friendship, need for, 161–163
Functional budgeting approach, 277
Future search: paradigm of, 145; paradox of, 139; phases for, chart, 142–143; phases of, 144; redefining, 146–147; and similar processes, 299
Future Search: An Action Guide (Weisbroad), 141

G
Gallwey, Timothy W., 66, 112–113, 258
Getting real, 273, 283
Goal clarification stage of team performance model, 280
Goals: of change effort, 346; employees’, 346; of partners, 85
Good/bad meetings (fictional example), 90–91
Good faith responses, 91–93
GoodJeans Company memo example, 44–45
Goodwill, extending, 60
Graphic recorders in meetings, 312–313
Grosnik, Phil, 89
Group process, 145, 223
Group trust, 281
Guarantees, accountability and, 61
Guidelines for exposing content/emotion, 94–95
Guilt, 61, 109–112
Gut feelings, 283–284

H
Healing art, 191–192
Heart level versus intellectual level, 270
Hemingway, Ernest, 154
Henning, Joel, 10, 43
Hierarchy systems, 231, 293
High, Jim, 56
High performance stage of team performance model, 282
History of consulting, 125–126, 138
Holographic world, hope in, 171–172
Homeopathic consultation: flawless, 253; focus of, 254–255; learning and cost, 252; natural power of learning, 250–252; overview of, 249–252; relationship between learning and results, 251; requirements for, 253; Yoda as role model for, 256
Honesty: telling the of conversations, 14–16; lack of self-awareness and, 72; with self, 270; telling the truth as foundation of engagement, 59–60. See also Truth
Hope, 159, 171–172, 224–227
Hospital in Hawaii example, 302–303
How and when questions, 132
I

Ideas as words, 155
Identification with clients, 113
Identity, importance of individual to change, 319
Illich, Ivan, 141
Impartiality in data collection, 332
Implementation, failed, 295
Implementation elements, 288–289
Implementation stage of team performance model, 282
Improving performance, 112–113
Inclusion, need for, 211, 213
Information, common databases of, 318
Information gathering, 92, 121
Initiating endings, 62
Inner Game of Tennis, The (Gallwey), 112–113
INOVA health care system change initiative, 344–345
Instrumental point of view, 50
Integration: of male and female selves, 195; need for, 195; process of, 197
Interventions: consulting as series of, 209; post-intervention surveys, 344–345, 347; pre-intervention surveys, 346; purpose as driver of, 316; Taco Cabana example, 319–326
Invitation, concept of, 247
Involvement, widening circle of, 302

J

Jacobs, Robert, 297, 299
James, Sylvia, 315
James, William, 156
Janoff, Sandra, 137, 139, 144, 297, 299
Janov, Jill, 125
Johnson, Henry, 389
Journey, life as a heroic, 158–159
Journey diagram, 158–159, 160
Journey of transformation, 194–195
Jung, Carl, 3, 104, 195

K

Kairos (moment of change), 163–164
Kanter, David, 203
Katz, Amy J., 383
Kellner-Rogers, Myron, 318
Keynote speaker as universal solvent, 73–74
Kim, Mac, 312
Knowledge, creating knew, 47–48
Koch, Ed, 365
Koenstebaum, Peter, 153
Kosinski, Jerzy, 405

L

Laing, R. D., 193–194
Language, symbols as shared, 105
Leaders, roles of, 342
Leadership: authenticity in, 157–158; beliefs about change and, 149–150; by engagement, 340; issues of for women, 223; methods to bring about change, 341; styles/models of, 340–341; surrendering control, 241–248; talk, topics of, 155–156
Leading from behind, example of, 241–248
Learning: in absence of feedback, 257; assumptions about, 252; and cost, 252; enabling occurrence of, 238; Gallwey on, 66; having reverence for, 254; to learn, 271–272; natural power of, 250–252; naturally through awareness, 113; “or else,” 284; and results, relationship between, 251
Learning design, 137
Learning disabilities, 270
Learning environments, effective, 267–268
Lessons learned: first-person perspectives, 46–47, 48; from stages of team performance model, 283–284
Letting versus making something happen, 113
Lewis, chuck, 312
Life as heroic journey, 158
Lighting, importance of, 311–312
Lippitt, Ron, 300, 316, 317–318
Listening without hearing, 277
Living topics, examples of, 155–156

M
Magill, Sam, 241
Making versus letting something happen, 113
Male and female selves, integration of, 195
Mandate, leadership by, 340
Manufacturing company case example, 259–260
Markowitz, Andrea, 7, 81, 97, 187
Masculine experience, focusing on, 177
McCormick, Marie, 339
McCormick Employee Engagement Inventory (MEEI): how to use, 345–348; overview of, 342–343; reasons for using, 344–345; text of the, 349–352
McGrath, Elizabeth, 167
McGregor, Douglas, 302
McKnight, John, 86, 238
Mead, Margaret, 377
Meaning, defining by context, 104
Meeting rooms: descriptions of large companies”, 309; designs that create tension, 309–310; furniture in, 311–312; graphic recorders in, 312–313; importance of design, 313; obstacles to change due to, 307–308; overcoming limitations of, 311–313; power of physical place, 306–309; voice amplification issues, 312
Meetings: brown bag lunches, 348; cause and effect issues, 366–367; versus conversations, 152; evaluating, 367–368; feedback, resistance in, 92; levels of consulting, 94–95; makeup of members, 317; planning, 144; questions asked about designing, 149. See also Evaluation forms
Menmi, Albert, 86
Men’s experience of consulting versus women’s, 179
Merger case example, 275–276
Metaphors, mythological, 194–196
Methods for engagement, 372
Michigan’s community transformation project, 355–362
Mini-conferences (walkthrus), 299
Moment of change, 163–164
Murphy, Ken, 23
Mythology: examples from, 194–196; fear-based myths, 239–240; fictional example from, 194–196; influence of myths, 82–83

N
Naming: the difficult issues, 60; importance of, 239–240; the problem, 71; resistant behavior, 93–94, 94
Nancy’s Checklist, 329–330
Need for connection/inclusion, 211–214
Neurotic anxiety, 158
Nichols, Sallie, 188

O
Objectivity of data collection, 332
O’Connell, John, 273
On Becoming a Person (Rogers), 168
“One brain, one heart” experience, 316
Onerous tasks, 62
Ontological anxiety, 158
Open-book management, 261
Order from chaos, 10
Organizational development, 138
Organizational engagement, 303
Organizational involvement for creative solutions, 302
Organizational necessities, 268
Orientation stage of team performance model, 279, 280
Orpheus, story of, 194–196, 197
Overcoming Organizational Defenses (Argyris), 296
Owen, Harrison, 297, 299
Oxymorons: constructive criticism, 237; context of, 7; definition, 9

P
Paradigm shifts, 316, 318
Paradigms: change management, 292–297; conflict management, 145; cross-functional nature of teams in change management, 293; engagement, 291, 299–300; future search, 145; partnership as consulting, 85–86
Paradox: in change, 177; of confrontational style, 191; examples of sitting with, 141–144; in future search, 139; inherentness of to consulting, 8, 9; as a tool, 10
Paradoxical intention, 191
Paradoxical nature of life, 121
Parallel organization, 292
Participative design, 299
Partners, definition, 168
Partnership: as consulting paradigm, 85–86; versus expert, 85; importance of, 234; relationships as, 234;
Passivity in meetings/conferences, 372–373
Pathological anxiety, 158
Patriarchal culture, 216–217
Patterns of female-to-female relationships, 212–213
Performance, improving consulting, 112–113
Performance through conversation, dealing with, 62
Personality, 8
Perturbers, consultants as, 126
Peters, Tom, 371
Pfeiffer, Bill, 74
Philosophy and business, marriage between, 153
Pidd, Colin, 140
Place questions, 132
Planning meetings, 144, 150
Plato, 155
Poems: “Flawless” (Wheatley), 5–6, 375–376; “The Midwife” (Barbeau), 180; “Untitled” (existential crisis), 162–163; “We Shall Not Cease From Exploration” (Eliot), 356
Point of view, openness to others’, 115
Polarities of too much/not enough, 220–221
Policy, questions about, 132
Politics of Experience, The (Laing), 193
Positive envisioning of future, 300
Post-intervention surveys, 344–345, 347
Powell, Colin, 371
Power and competition, 218–222
Power of words example, 154
Powerful, presence of women as, 185
Pre-intervention surveys, 346
Preferred futuring, 318
Presence, women’s, 185
Pride, of consultants, 105–109
Proactive theory, 128
Process for transformation, steps for, 193–194
Productive Workplaces (Weisbord), 139
Projection, 222–224
Promises, accountability and, 61
Properties of good questions, 151–152
Proposing change, 62
Provider-client relationships, 86
Purpose: awakening our sense of, 406; discovery questions about, 131; as driver of every intervention, 316

Q
Questionnaires, 339, 342–352. See also Evaluation forms; McCormick
Employee Engagement Inventory (MEEI)
Questions: for after-action reviews, 261; asked about designing meetings, 149, 150; consumers’, 119; for contracting the relationship, 205; control, 119–120; deepening, 120–123, 122; discovery, 118–119; for discovery process, examples of, 131–132; knowing a good one, 151–152; nature of, 118; shifting energy by reframing, 170; skills in constructing, 12; value of, 123

R
Reactions of clients, 94
Real time strategic change, 299
Reframing inquiries, positive to negative, 169–170
Reframing our work, 251
Relationships: acts of service in forming, 244; caring for clients, 256; centrality of, 182–183; consulting and building, 175–176; contracting at beginning of, 205; experience of “true,” 319; partnership, 234; patterns of female-to-female, 212–213; provider-client, 86
Renewal stage of team performance model, 282–283
Representation, leadership by, 340
Resistance: assumption of to change, 296; as expression of concerns, 91; and good faith responses, 91–93; increased, 294; to information gathering, 92; methods that create, 10; naming the behavior, 93–94; risk of dealing with, 95–96; rules of thumb for dealing with, 92–93; to sharing information, 92. See also Conversations
Responsibility, discovery questions about locus of, 131–132
Reviews, after-action, 261
Richardson, Tony, 140
Risk: dealing with resistance, 95–96; and death as giving meaning to life, 197; fear of, 14–15; as symbol of mortality, 19; and vulnerability, 18
Risks we fear: abandonment, 17; being a fool, 16–17; being assaulted, 17–18; being thought insane, 18
Roberts, Charlotte, 201
Rogers, Carl, 168
Roles: of consultants, 192, 253, 268–269, 386; design groups, 293; of early consultants, 125–126; of leaders, 342; steering committees, 293
Room design. See Meeting rooms
Rosenhan, David, 192–193
Rules for dealing with resistance, 92–93

S
Safety, wish for, 15
Safety of the environment, 257
Sagan, Carl, 192
Samples. See Examples
Sanchez, Nancy, 329
Sapra, Sharad, 140
Scapegoating, 222–224
Schizophrenia, 192–193
School of Philosophy AND Healing In Action (SOPHIA) example, 141–144
School system conferences example, 345
Schuster, John, 229
Schwinn, Carol, 355
Schwinn, David, 355
Scully, Matthew, 159
Self-awareness, consultants’: fitting yourself into the puzzle, 391; guilt, 109–112; hubris, 105–109; lessons learned, 269–271; letting go of defensiveness, 95; surrendering to what is, 182
Self-disclosure, 60
Self-perception, 274–275
Seligman, Martin, 192–193
Senge, Peter, 249
Sentence completion technique, 121
Service, 244, 247
Sexism, 221
Sexual harassment example, 383
Shah, Idries: Four Communities, 75–76; The Journey, 21–22; In the Land of Fools, 199; Milk and Buttermilk, 265–266; Two Sides, 135–136;
Shakespeare: The Invention of the Human (Bloom), 8
Shakespeare allusions: Hamlet, 164; King Lear, 189–191, 197; Romeo and Juliet, 7, 9; Twelfth Night, 187, 188–189
Shame, 384–386
Shared intent, 271–272
Shaw, George Bernard, 55
Sifford, Marilyn, 140
Similarities and differences in relationships, 214–218
Skills, perturbing, 126–127
Small steps, wisdom of next, 181–182
Social change process, 145
Spirituality in consulting, 229, 231–232
Stages of enterprise integrations, 279–283
Stance, one’s personal: as collaborator, 129; confronting others’, 62; and conversations, 55–59; and engagement, 52–55; of expert, 128–129; in fostering engagement, 53; impact of on consulting, 127–128; life as creating worth, 54–55; life as disappointment, 53–54; life as indulgence, 54; power of in conversations, 58; Shaw on, 55
Stance and conversation example, 55–59
Stance fostering, 53
Start speeds implementation, 302
Steering committees, 292–293
Steil, Gil, 140
Step-by-step consulting, 385–386
Stewardship, 247
Strategies: of engagement, 51–52; enterprise integration, 276; putting consultants in background, 137
Street view, 49–50, 50–52
Strength at the broken places, 157–158
Stress, reframing meaning of, 158
Structures of conference model©, 297–303
Subcontractor, definition, 79
Subjective value of symbols, 104
Summarization questions, 132
Surrendering to what is, 182
Surveys, initiating change through, 339.
See also Questionnaires
Sustainable change, 48
Symbols: considering power of, 97; definition, 104; failure as mortality, 19; for finding common/idosyncratic language, 103; Jung on, 104; keynote speaker as universal solvent, 73–74; mythological, 194–196; power of red pen (example), 103; risk as mortality, 19; round tables as participation, 308–309; as shared language, 105; as shortcuts to shared language, 105; subjective value of, 104; tools as, 105
System engagement, 130–133
Systemic issues, 131–132
Systems thinking, 171–172

T
Tables in meeting rooms, 311
Taco Cabana intervention example, 319–326
Tact, 189
Taking/supporting the other side, 60
Tasks, onerous, 62
Teaching versus awareness, 112–115
Team effectiveness, 335–337
Team Performance Model (Drexler-Sibbett), 279–283
Teamwork, 14, 80
Techniques, unproductive, 44
Telling the truth. See Truth, telling the Tension, meeting rooms designs that create, 309–310
Tension between organizational structure and process, 78
Therapy, paradoxical intention in, 191–192
Therapy compared to consulting, 176, 197
Third person perspectives, 45–48
Time lines, making, 146
Timing, 132, 189
Tolchinsky, Paul, 315
Tools, symbols as, 105
Top-down management, 294–295
Total quality management (TQM), 130
Traditional acupuncture institute (TAI), 141
Transformation process, Laing’s, 193–194
Trist, Eric, 297
Trust building stage of team performance model, 280
Trust-inducing principles, 301–302
Truth, telling the: Argyris on, 72; courage for, 283–284; creating safe environment for, 130; example of, 203–204; and feedback, 257. See also Honesty

U
Universal themes, 3
Unproductive change efforts, 18–19

V
“Visibility” rooms, 309
Voice, The (newspaper), 55–59
Voss, Nancy, 209
Vulnerability and risk, 18–19

W
“Walk your talk” motto, 155
Walkthrus, 299
Warner, John, 309
Weisbord, Marvin, 137, 144, 297, 299
Wheatley, Meg, 5, 79, 318, 374
When questions, 132
Whole-scale change, 200
Whole-system models, 49
Williams, Jan, 140
Wilson, Damon, 83
Wisdom: birth of, 185; of fools, 188; of next small step, 181–182;
Wishes for advice, example of, 71
Women: challenges for, 226–227; experience of consulting versus men’s, 179; leadership issues for, 223; “presence” of, 185; teaching women, 184
Women’s leadership collaborative, overview of, 210–211
Woods, Michelle, 140
Words: as ideas, 155; power of, 154; worth of at work, 61, 63
Work and family, 183–184
Workshops. See Conferences; meetings

Y
Yoda as role model for homeopathic consultation, 256