Index

Note: Page numbers with f and t refer to figures and tables respectively.

American Association of Critical Care Nurses, 37 Anonymity, 9, 22–3, 106–7
Argument Delphi, 6, 7t
‘Artificial consensus’, 23
Attrition in Delphi studies, 53–4
Bootstrapping, use of, 72
Burnard and Morrison’s content analysis framework, 144

Case study to explore role of midwifery assistant, 114 background, 114–15 Delphi method, use of, 115–16 enhancing response rates, 117 identifying and accessing sample, 117 initial considerations, 116–17 lessons from, 123
result and discussion, 121–2
Round 1, 118–19
non-midwifery duties by ward, 119t quantified non-midwifery duties by ward, 118t student’s non-midwifery duties, 119t
Round 2, 119–21
duties to be delegated to midwifery assistant, 120t duties to remain within registered professionals remit, 121t duties with no consensus, 122t

Clinical nursing research priorities, identification of, 36–40
Closed Round 1, examples of, 51–2t
Coding systems, 63
Communication methods, 57
Community nursing, 134
Concurrent validity, 101
Confidentiality, 106, 108 Consensus defining of, 45 level of, 46
Consensus building, 15
Consensus conferences, 16 Consent form, 106
example of, 112f
Contact details of experts, 56
Content analysis, 65, 72
Burnard’s method of, 73t manual, 65–6
by software packages, 66
Content validity, 100
Cost issue in Delphi project, 45
Cover letter, 59, 70
example of, 61f
for Round 2 classical Delphi, 75f Criticisms of Delphi technique, 20 expert ‘opinion,’ 23–7 implications of lack on anonymity, 22–3 lack of universal guidelines, 20–21 level of consensus, 27–8
size of expert panel, 21–2

Chi-square test, 91
Classical Delphi, 5–6, 7t
Clinical governance, 132

Dalkey, Norman, 2–4
Data analysis, 84
and reporting of results, 92, 95

The Delphi Technique in Nursing and Health Research, First Edition, © S. Keeney, F. Hasson and H. McKenna Published 2011 by Blackwell Publishing Ltd.

193
Data analysis (Cont.)

Round 1
content analysis, 85
demographics for sample profiling, 86

Round 2
consensus level, 86
and exclusion of items with consensus, 88
statistical analysis, 86–7, 87t and statistical feedback to panel, 87–8

Round 3
and decision to stop process, 88–9 and stability of responses, 91 statements gaining consensus, 90 statements not gaining consensus, 91
statistical analysis, 89, 89t use of mean to rank statements with level of consensus, 90, 90t statistical analysis used in published studies, examples of, 92, 93–4t

Decision Delphi, 7t
Delphi labels, 20t
Delphi Round 1, example of, 62f Delphi technique, 1 and anonymity, 9
quasi-anonymity, 9–10
applications of, 32
comparison with other consensus methods, 15 consensus conference, 16
nominal group technique, 15 consensus, concept of, 13–14 definitions of, 3–4 Delphi process idea-generation strategy, 5 original approach, 4–5 description of, 3 establishing methodological rigour in, 96, 103–4. See also Reliability; Validity ethical considerations in using of.
See Ethical considerations forms of, 4
group dynamics in, 10

history of, 2–3
main premise of, 3
non-consensus Delphi, 6 paradigm, debate on, 18–19 popularity within health care research, 14–15 purpose of, 3, 4 response rate, enhancing of, 12–13 rounds in, 10–11
Round 1, 11
subsequent rounds, 11–12
sampling and use of experts in employing expert panel, 8 expert, defined, 7–8
size of expert panel, 8–9
valid expert opinion, 9 types of, 6–7, 7t use in long-range forecasting, 101 use of, in nursing and health research area for gaining consensus, 5 for priority setting, 5
Demographic sheet, 59, 60f Developmental stages of Delphi method, by Rieger, 33t continuity and reflection, 36 novelty, 34
popularity, 34–6 scrutiny, 36
secrecy and obscurity, 32–4 Dillman’s Total Design Method, 64, 71
Disaggregative Delphi, 7t Disaggregative Policy Delphi, 6 Disease patterns, forecasting of, 34–5
Donabedian’s model for assessment of quality of care, 144
Douglas Aircraft Company, 2, 32 e-Delphi, 7t, 142
advantages of, 149 case study on. See Identification of benchmarks for adults with depression, study on disadvantages of, 149
Ethical considerations, 105
ethical principles, 105 principle of beneficence, 108 principle of justice, 106–8 principle of non-maleficence, 108 respect for human dignity, 106 role of researcher in Delphi study, 108–9 ethics documentation, 109 consent form, 109, 112f participant information sheets, 109t, 110–11f modified Delphi studies and, 105

Expert, 7–8, 24

Face-to-face interviews, 12, 54, 74
Face validity, 100
Filing system, 63
Focus groups, 107
Follow-up contacts, 64

Gatekeepers, identification of, 56
General Medical Services (GMS) contract, 148–9
Gordon, Ted, 34
Group dynamics, 10

Health care research, use of Delphi in, 14–15. See also Nursing and health research, Delphi methods in Helmer, Olaf, 2–4, 20, 34 Heterogeneous panels, 22
sample size of, 53
Homogeneous sample, 53

Identification of benchmarks for adults with depression, study on, 142, 148–9 benchmarks in health services, 143 data collection and analysis design of instrument, 144 pilot study, 144
Round 1, 144
Round 2, 145
Round 3, 145
discussion, 147–8
e-Delphi
reflections on, 149–50
use of, 142
ethical considerations, 145–6
results
Round 1, 146
Round 2, 146, 146t
Round 3, 147, 147t
total benchmarks achieving consensus, 147t sample selection, 142–3 setting consensus level, 143 Informed advocates, 24–5
Instructions to Delphi Round 1, 61f, 70
Internal validity, 100, 103

Kaplan, Abraham, 3
Kappa statistics, 91

Law of diminishing returns, 81 Letter of invitation, 57
example of, 58f
Likert scale, 76
Limitations of Delphi technique demanding nature of technique, 29–30 pressures of conformity, 28–9 Literacy skills of panellists, 44
Longitudinal cohort studies, 12

Mean, use of, 84
Median, use of, 84
Modified Delphi, 4, 7t, 106–7 case study on. See Primary care nursing, study on development directions for National Service Framework for Mental Health, 148

Nominal group technique (NGT), 15
Non-probability sampling techniques, 47
NUD*IST, 66, 127

Nurse researchers, use of Delphi by, 15
Index

Nursing and health research, Delphi methods in, 32 applications of, 37t historical application of developmental stages of Delphi method, 32–6, 33t identification of nursing research priorities, 36–40 trends of, 40–41

Objectives of Delphi exercise, 43–4
Office for Research Ethics Committee
Northern Ireland (ORECNI), 146

Online Delphi, 7t
Open-ended question, 55, 65
Open Round 1, examples of, 49–50t
Oracle of Delphi, 2

Panel size, in health applications, 53 Participant information sheet, 106
example of, 110–11f
information to be included in, 109t
Pilot testing, 63
Planning and execution activities for Delphi, 43
administrative responsibilities and duties, 57
actual question, development of, 61, 63 administration systems, 63 cover letters to panellists, 59 demographic sheet, sending of, 59, 60f design of questionnaire, 59 invitation to participate, 57, 58f
pilot testing, 63
content analysis, 65–6
process, 66–7, 66t development of Round 1
closed Round 1, examples of, 51–2t
deciding on ‘return by’ date, 56–7 gaining names and addresses, 56 modified approach, 55–6
open Round 1, examples of, 49–50t
traditional approach, 55 identification of panel of experts, 46 response rate and attrition, 53–5 sample size, 48, 53

sampling criteria, 47–8 selection of experts, 47 target population, determination of, 46–7 mailing, 64
maximising response rate, 64–5 preparation considerations, 43 availability of resources, 44–5
level of consensus, 45–6
preparation questions, 46t suitability of Delphi, 43–4

Policy Delphi, 4, 6, 7t, 24
Predictive validity, 101
Preparation questions, 46t Primary care nursing, study on development directions for, 125 aims of, 126
consensus conference, 129
expert panel, 126–7 modified Delphi technique
reflections on, 140–41
use of, 126
rationale for, 125
recommendations
clinical governance, 138–9
commissioning of health and
social care, 137
communication, 140
education, 140
generic and specialist roles, 138
leadership, 137–8
public involvement, 139–40
teamwork, 139
results
attitudes to nurse training and
education, 135
clinical governance, 132
commissioning of health and
social care, 129–31
communication, 135–6
education, 134
generic and specialist roles, 131–2
leadership, 131
multidisciplinary education in nurse training, 135 practical training versus academia, 135
public involvement, 133–4
teamwork, 133
Round 1 (focus groups), 127
Round 2 (postal round), 127–8 statements included in, 128f
Round 3 (postal round), 128–9
Process of Delphi, 69
first round
  bootstrapping, use of, 72 Burnard’s method of content analysis, 73t classical Delphi, 69–70
  content analysis, 72
  modified Delphi, 70–71
  return of, 71
  sample size and number of items, consideration of, 71 law of diminishing returns and, 81
Round 2, 74
  analysis, 76–7
  cover letter, 74, 75f follow-ups, 77
  instructions for, 74, 75f Likert scale, use of, 76 questionnaire, layout of, 75–6, 76f sample motivation, 77
Round 3, 78
  analysis, 79–80
  cover letter for, 78, 78f individual and group feedback, 78–9 instructions for, example of, 79f questionnaire, 79, 80f
  subsequent rounds, 73–4 continuation of, 81
decision on when to stop, 81 number of rounds, 81
and reaching consensus, 82
PROJECT-Delphi, 34
Project RAND, 2
Purposive sampling techniques, 126

Qualitative research software, 66
Quasi-anonymity, 9–10, 23, 107, 145

RAND Corporation, 3, 20, 32, 36
Real-time Delphi, 4, 7t Recruiting letters, 13
Reliability, 96–7
criteria to assess rigour, 99 dependence on expert judgements, 99 guidelines for ensuring reliability, 99 measurement of, 97–8
personal and situation-specific basis, influence of, 98–9 Reminders, use of, 64, 71
Rescher, Nicholas, 2
Research designs case studies, 1
experimental designs, 1 survey designs, 1
Researcher
role of, 108–9
skills of, 44
Researcher–panellist relationship, building of, 59
Research paradigm, 18
Response rate
for Delphi studies, 53
as measure of rigour, 99 strategies for enhancing of, 64–5 Round 1 questionnaire, design of, 59, 70
Sackman, Harold, 20
Sample selection, 47
Sampling criteria, 47–8
Single round Delphi studies, 21
Society for Urologic Nursing, 37
SPSS (Statistical Package for the Social Scientists), 76, 79, 86–7, 145 descriptive output from, example of, 87t Statements
from returned Round 1 questionnaire, 85 similar, 85
unique, 85
Statistics used in Delphi studies, 84
Survey designs, 1
‘Survey Monkey’, 150
| Target population, identification of, 46–7 | dependability, 103 |
| Technological Delphi, 7t | transferability, 103 |
| Test-retest method, 97 | Validity, 100 |
| Time considerations in Delphi project, 44–5 | content validity, 100 |
| Trustworthiness in Delphi study, 103 | criterion-related validity, 100–101 |
| confirmability, 103 | external, 100 |
| credibility, 103 | internal, 100 |
| threats to, 101–3 | Who Wants to Be a Millionaire?, 3 |