Contents

Contributors, vii

Preface, x

1 What have we learned from the number of clinical trials?, 1
   Jaana Lindström

2 Identification of target populations for intervention, 15
   Paul Valensi and Emmanuel Cosson

3 Diagnosis of prediabetes and diabetes prevention, 33
   Martin Buysschaert and Michael Bergman

4 What do we know about recruitment and retention in diabetes prevention programs? An Australian perspective, 47
   Philip Vita, Prasuna Reddy, Amy Timoshanko, Andrew Milat, Jane Shill, Alice Gibson, Greg Johnson and Stephen Colagiuri

5 Depression and diabetes prevention, 70
   Norbert Hermanns

6 Diabetes prevention in a challenging environment, 84
   Abdul Basit and Musarrat Riaz

7 Global migration and prevention of diabetes, 94
   Bishwajit Bhowmik, Victoria Telle Hjellset and Akhtar Hussain

8 Diabetes prevention in practice: examples from the real world, 114
   Konstantinos Makrilakis, Stavros Liatis, Aleksandra Gilis-Januszewska and Peter Schwarz

9 Quality management and outcome evaluation in diabetes prevention, 129
   Markku Peltonen and Rüdiger Landgraf

10 Training of prevention managers, 144
    Peter Kronsbein
11 Prevention of type 2 diabetes: the role of physical activity, 159
   Thomas Yates, Melanie Davies and Kamlesh Khunti

12 Overview: Potentials of new media for the training of health educators in the field of diabetes prevention, 177
   Daniel Tolks and Martin R. Fischer

13 Practical approach to the implementation of diabetes prevention, 195
   Avivit Cahn, Itamar Raz and Baruch Itzhak

Index, 209