Contents

Foreword XI
Preface: An Evening at NYU, Taleb’s Article, and a Credit Crisis XIX
Mathew Gladstein’s Complaisance XLIII

ESSENTIALS

CHAPTER 1 PLAYING GOD 3
It’s tough to model human action ■ Finance is not as religious as physics ■ Black Swans make things harder ■ The markets are not Normal and the past is a faulty guide ■ Should we care that theorists persist?

CHAPTER 2 THE FINANCIAL ECONOMICS FIEFDOM 29
Virginty matters ■ When describing reality was okay ■ It’s the incentives, stupid ■ Many obstacles to reform ■ Heeding Fischer Black’s message

CHAPTER 3 QUANT INVASION 59
Machine learning comes to finance ■ It’s a computational thing ■ Models live here, too ■ Quant punting ■ Interesting enough for a movie
CRITIQUE

CHAPTER 4  COPULATED NIGHTMARES  93

- Abrupt reform, if not so much prison
- Modeling death
- The 2005 pre-warning
- Rating us into hell
- A disapproving grin

CHAPTER 5  BLAH VaR BLAH  127

- Insalubrious charlatanism
- Tracking a true culprit
- Credit truths
- A long rap sheet of evidence
- The police are in on it

CHAPTER 6  BLUE IS NOT GREEN  161

- Lehman did die
- Anything is possible
- Buffett versus the Black Swan
- Stubbornly holding the theoretical fort
- An end to indoctrination

CHAPTER 7  THE BLACK-SCHOLES CONUNDRUM  177

- Once upon a time at MIT
- Frowning, not smiling
- How Black was that Monday
- A devastating KO
- The Taleb & Haug critique

CONCLUSIONS

CHAPTER 8  BLACK SWAN DECEIT?  245

- The tired “perfect storm” alibi may be a facade
- Indoctrinating clients and investors
- The unseemly marketers of academic dogma
- Do as I say, not as I do
- Glorifying complexity
CONTENTS

CHAPTER 9  AN UNHEALTHY YEARNING FOR PRECISION  267

Dangerous voluntary enslavement  ■  Let freedom ring  ■
Normality can kill you  ■  A VIXing issue  ■  Protect those derivatives  ■

CHAPTER 10  WE NEED FAT TONY  297

FINALE  SHOULD THE NOBEL PRIZE IN ECONOMICS BE ELIMINATED ?  305

Notes  319
Acknowledgments  335
About the Author  337
Index  339