INDEX

NOTE: Page references in italics refer to figures.

Abandoned cart programs, 24, 148–149

Accenture, 54

Account grouping, 47

Acquisition
  managing customers, 70, 70–71
  marketing spending optimization for, 78–86, 79, 80, 81, 82, 83, 84, 85
  using clusters to improve, 99–100
  value-based marketing for, 115–116, 116

Active customers, strategies for, 112–113

Addresses
  collecting data, 231–232
  validating data, 52–53

Address type flag, 52

Advanced analytics, 204

Advertising spending, conversion rate and, 81, 81–83, 82, 83

AgilOne
  on abandoned cart/search campaigns, 148, 149
  on adoption of predictive marketing, 14, 16, 18
  on growing customer value, 156 inception of, 19
  on marketing spending optimization, 74

Alain Afflelou, 139

Amatriain, Xavier, 4

Amazon, 4, 33–34, 113

Anonymous website visitors, recognizing, 147, 216

Apple, 111, 144

Application programming interface (API), 192

Appreciation campaigns, 161–163

Arcelik, 94, 125

Artun, Omer, 19

Audience, understanding, 187

Average Revenue Per User (ARPU), 72

Baynard Institute, 148

Behavior of customers behavior-based clusters, 94, 97–99, 98 buying behavior and outlier detection, 37 email behavior and data collection a, 47 likelihood to engage models and, 130–136, 132, 133, 134, 136

Benchmarking, for marketing spending, 80, 81

Best Buy, 19

“Bias-variance dilemma”, 39
Big data, 3–21
Birge, Robert, 139
Birthdays, of customers, 38
Blattberg, Robert C., 120
Bosch, 43–44
Brand management
  brand-based clusters, 94–97, 97
customer relationships and, 14–20
Browsing, abandoned, 150–151
Burlington Coat Factory, 106
Business models, retention and, 171, 171
Business understanding, need for, 210

Call centers, data collection and, 47
Campaign automation, 190–191, 199–200. See also Information technology (IT)
Carts, abandoned, 148–149
CASS certification, 52
Central Desktop, 175–176
Cetiner, Bora, 94
Channels
  finding channels that bring high-value customers, 88–89
  last-touch attribution, 89–92, 91
  for making recommendations to customers, 144 omni–channel marketing, 166–167
  questions for data collection, 60–61
  vendor support for, 191
Checklist of predictive marketing capabilities, 185–196
organizational capabilities, 185–187
overview, 188
questions to ask of vendors, 191–196
  technical capabilities for predictive marketing, 187–191
Churn
  churn management programs, 174–175, 175
  differences in, 172, 172–174, 173
  negative churn concept, 170
  preventing, 74
  See also Retention
Classifier and system design, 39–40
Clienteling, 49–53
Cloud options, 199–200
Clustering
  avoiding mistakes and, 100
  cluster DNA, 94
  defined, 23, 25
  to improve customer acquisition, 99–100 insight from, 101
  models, 25–28, 27
  overview, 93–94
  predictive clustering model, 224
  segmentation compared to, 26–28 types of, 94–99, 96, 97, 98
CMO Club, 54
Collaborative filtering recommendations, overview, 33–34
types of recommendation models, 34–36, 35
Complaints, data collection and, 47
Conlumino, 146, 218
Content
  determining, 187
  making recommendations, 143–144
Context, customers and, 141–142
Conversion, 145–154
  abandoned browse campaigns, 150–151 abandoned cart campaigns, 148–149 abandoned search campaigns, 149–150 conversion rate and marketing spending, 81, 81–83, 82, 83 look-alike targeting and, 151–154, 152
retargeting (remarketing) campaigns, 145–147
Costco, 106
Costs, of marketing. See Marketing spending
Cross-selling, 138–139
Customer journey, 103–114
first value, 105–107
“give to get”, 103, 155
life-cycle marketing strategies, 109–114, 110
new value, 108–109
overview, 103–105, 104
recommendations made during customer life cycle, 140–141
recurring value, 107–108
Customer personas, 93–101
avoiding mistakes when using clusters, 100 insights, 101
overview, 93–94
types of clusters, 94–99, 96, 97, 98
using clusters to improve acquisition, 99–100 Customer profiles, 43–61
data analysis preparation, 50–54, 51 data collection design, 45–47, 46 data collection types, 47, 47–57, 48
overview, 43–45
questions to use for data, 57–61
working with IT on data integration, 43, 54–57, 55
Customer relationship management (CRM) systems, 203–204
Customers
customer-centricity, 224
customer value path, 83–84, 84
power of customer equity, 8–10, 11
predictive marketing popularity and, 3
predictive marketing use cases, 11–12, 13 privacy of, 215–220
questions for data collection, 58–60
See also Behavior of customers; Conversion; Customer journey; Customer personas; Customer profiles; Growth; Lifetime value; Predictive analytics; Reactivation; Retention; Value-based marketing

Data analysis
customer control and, 218
need for, 20, 20–21
preparing data for, 50–54, 51
vendor support for, 193–194
Data collection
cleansing and preparation, 37
need for, 20, 20–21
vendor support for, 191–193
Data Driven Marketing (Jeffrey), 16–17
Data integration
checklist for, 189
need for, 18–21, 20
Data management platforms (DMPs), 202
Data Protection Directive (European Union), 219
Data Security Standard, Payment Credit Card Industry (PCI DSS), 219
Deduplication, 53–54
Deighton, John, 120
Delivery Point Validation (DPV), 52
Design principles, for data collection, 45–47, 46
Direct mail, for welcome campaigns, 158
Discount “junkies”, 24
Discounts, likelihood to buy and, 126–128, 127
Do-it-yourself predictive marketing, 197–198
Dunn and Bradstreet, 234–235
Dursun, Bulent, 6

Early adopters
predictive marketing popularity and, 3
predictive marketing value and, 16–17
Earthlink, 17
Einstein (First Union Bank), 122
Email marketing
for abandoned cart campaigns, 148–149
delivering, 194
e-mail service providers (ESPs), 202–203, 209
frequency of email, 133, 139–136, 134, 136, 187
likelihood to engage models, 130–136, 132, 133, 134, 136
privacy issues and, 215–220
retargeting with, 145–147
validating addresses, 53
Engagement propensity model, 222–223

Entenmann’s, 121
Enthusiasts (email subscribers), 131–136, 132, 133, 134, 142
Facebook, look-alike targeting example, 152, 158–153
Fallen from grace segment (high-value customers), 163
Feature generation/extraction, 38–39
First Chicago Corporation, 122
First party data, 45
First-time buyers, likelihood to buy, 124–125
First Union Bank, 122
First value, 105–107
Fordham, Mark, 175–176
Forrester, 142
Free membership offers, 23
Freemium business model, 106, 142
Frequency, of email, 133, 139–136, 134, 136, 187
Fuzzy matching, 53–54
GameStop, 165–167
Gaming industry, 4–5
Gaston, Katie, 175–176
Gates, Bill, 16
Gender, data collection about, 233–234
Get Elastic, 217
“Give to get”, 103, 155
Google Adwords, 47, 150
Government legislation, privacy issues and, 219–220 Growth, 155–167
customer appreciation campaigns, 161–163
initial transaction and, 155–156, 156
loyalty programs, 163–166
managing customers and, 70, 71 negative churn concept and, 170
new product introductions, 160–161
omni-channel marketing, 166–167
post purchase programs, 157–159
replenishment campaigns and repeat purchase programs, 159–160 value-based marketing for medium-value customers, 120–121
welcome programs, 157–158

Harrah’s Entertainment, 5
Harte Hanks, 234–235
Harvard Business Review, 120, 121

High-value customers
customer appreciation campaigns for, 161–163 marketing spending on, 86, 92–93, 91
value-based marketing for, 115–120, 116, 117, 118, 119

Historical lifetime value (LTV), 64–65
Home addresses, data collection about, 231–232
Homejoy, 158
Honda, 121
Householding, 230–231

iBeacon, 53
Identifiable information, of customers, 216
Imputation, 38
Inactive customers, strategies for, 113–114
Information technology (IT), 197–207
advanced analytics, 204
campaign management and marketing cloud options, 199–200 customer relationship management (CRM), 203–204 data integration and, 43, 54–57, 55
data management platforms (DMPs), 202
do-it-yourself predictive marketing, 197–198
email service providers (ESPs), 202–203, 209
going getting started with predictive marketing, 205–207 goals for, 204–205
machine learning, 7–8, 16, 27–28
outsourcing to marketing service providers (MSPs), 198–199
overview, 201
predictive marketing popularity and, 3, 17–20
technical capabilities for predictive marketing, 187–191
vendor support and, 194–196
web analytics, 202
Initial transaction, importance of, 155–156, 156
IP numbers, data collection about, 231–232

Jeffrey, Mark, 16–18

Karabuk, Tulin, 94
Kayak, 139
Keyword-to-contact recommendation model, 223
K.I.D.S./Fashion Delivers, 106

Lapsed customers
strategies for, 107
value-based marketing for, 118–119, 119
See also Reactivation
“Last mile problem”, 40–41
Last-touch attribution, 89–92, 91
Lead scoring, predictive, 128–130, 129, 130
Legal issues, of privacy, 219–220
Lifetime value, 63–74
  defined, 64
  historical lifetime value (LTV), 64–65
  increasing, for all customers, 73–74, 74 increasing, for one customer, 70, 70–73
  optimizing (See Marketing spending)
  overview, 63–64
  predicted customer value, 66–68
  upside lifetime value, 68–70
See also Customer journey; Growth; Retention Likelihood models
  defined, 123–124
  likelihood to engage models, 130–136, 132, 133, 134, 136
  predictions, 124–130, 127, 129, 130
See also Propensity models
LinkedIn, 113, 235
Linking, 53–54
Location, data collection about, 231–232
Long-term email revenue, 133, 133–136, 134, 136
Look-alike targeting
  defined, 151–152
  Facebook example, 152, 152–153
  optimizing for similarity or reach, 153–154
Low-value customers, value-based marketing for, 115–119, 116, 117, 118, 119, 122
Loyalty programs
  customer profile data collection, 49
  growing customer value and, 163–166
  rise of predictive marketing and, 5–6
Lululemon, 106
Machine learning, 7–8, 16, 27–28
Mainstreet (email subscribers), 131–136, 132, 133, 134, 142
“Manage Marketing by the Customer Equity Test” (Blattberg, Deighton), 120
Marketing, as art and science, 211–212
Marketing funnel engineering, 81, 81–82
  growing customer value and, 155–156, 156
  by life cycle, 82, 82–83
Marketing service providers (MSPs), outsourcing to, 198–199
Marketing spending, 77–92
  for acquisition, retention, reactivation, 78–86, 79, 80, 81, 82, 83, 84, 85 channels for last touch attribution, 89–92, 91 channels that bring high-value customers, 88–89 conversion rate and, 81, 87–83, 82, 83
  for customer retention, 177–178
  differentiating, based on customer value, 86, 86–87
  overview, 77–78
  products that bring high-value customers, 87, 88
  to service low-value customers, 122
Marshall School of Business, 215
Index

Mavi, 5–6, 17, 49, 121, 164–165
McDonald’s, 120
“Mean Stinks” campaign (Procter & Gamble), 105
Medium-value customers, value-based marketing for, 115–119, 116, 117, 118, 119, 120–121
Meetings, data collection and, 232–233
Metaphonic algorithms, 52
Micro Warehouse, 198
Mobile technology, customer profiles and, 232
Moosejaw, 111–112
MSA/region append, 52
Multitouch attribution, 89–92, 91
National Change of Address (NCOA), 52
Negative churn concept, 170
Netflix, 4
Newbies (email subscribers), 131–136, 132, 133, 134, 136
New customers, strategies for, 111–112
New product introductions, 160–161
New value, 108–109
New York Times, 125
Next-sell recommendations, 140
Nippon Telegraph and Telephone (NTT), 211
“No free lunch” theorem, 39

Obama, Barack, 125
Old school segment (high-value customers), 163
Omni-channel marketing, 166–167
100% Pure, 167, 231
Oner, Elif, 6
Orange, 71–73
Order of performance, 90
Organizational capabilities, checklist for, 185–187
Outlier detection, 37–38
Outsourcing data science and, 206 to marketing service providers (MSPs), 198–199
PCI DSS (Data Security Standard, Payment Credit Card Industry), 219
“Personalization versus Privacy” (Marshall School of Business), 215
Personalized recommendations. See Recommendations
PetCareRx, 114, 123
Phantoms (email subscribers), 131–136, 132, 133, 134, 142
Phased data integration strategy, 47, 47–48
Pingree, Dan, 112
Poolcycle management framework, 73, 74
Post purchase programs, 157–159
PowerUp Rewards (GameStop), 165–166
Predicted customer value, 66–68
Predictive clustering model. See Clustering Predictive marketing, 3–21 building blocks for, 20, 20–21
Predictive marketing (continued) careers in, 209–213
future of, 221–227
power of customer equity, 8–10, 11
privacy issues, 215–220
relationship marketing with, 6–8, 8 rise of, 3–6, 14–20
use cases, 11–12, 13
See also Behavior of customers;
Checklist of predictive marketing capabilities;
Conversion; Customer journey; Customer personas;
Customer profiles; Growth; Lifetime value; Predictive analytics; Reactivation;
Retention; Value-based marketing
Pricing optimization model, 223
Privacy, 215–220
Proactive retention management, 175–180
Procter & Gamble, 105
Products
finding products that bring high-value customers, 87, 88
new product introductions, 160–161
product-based clusters, 94, 95, 96 product-to-user types recommendations, 35
questions for data collection, 61
Propensity models, 123–137
defined, 28–29, 123–124
likelihood to buy predictions, 124–130, 127, 129, 136
likelihood to engage models, 130–136, 132, 133, 134, 136
propensity deciles, 29–31, 30
RFM modeling compared to, 31–32
supervised learning, 28–32, 29, 30
training and testing periods, 29, 29
Prospective customers converting, 145–151
look-alike targeting, 151–154, 152
strategies for, 109–111
Purchases
data on, 47–50, 48
making recommendations at time of, 138–139
Reactivation
campaigns for, 180–182
of inactive customers, 74
marketing spending optimization for, 78–86, 79, 80, 81, 82, 83, 84, 85
value-based marketing for, 118–119, 119
Rebecca Minkoff (stores), 221
Recommendations, 137–144
channels for, 144
choosing customers or segments, 138–141 content and, 143–144
overview, 33–34, 137–138
types of models, 34–36, 35
understanding customer context, 141–143
Recurring value, 107–108
Reichheld, Frederick F., 121 Reinforcement learning
collaborative filtering and, 33–36, 35
defined, 25
Repeat customers
  likelihood to buy, 126
  strategies for, 112–113
Repeat purchase programs, 159–160
Replenishment programs, 24, 159–160
Response models. See Propensity models
Retargeting (remarketing) campaigns
  overview, 145
  triggers for, 146–147
Retention, 169–182
  business models and, 171, 171
  churn differences, 172, 172–174, 173
  churn management programs, 174–175, 175
  customer management and, 70, 71
  data collection and, 49
  marketing spending optimization for, 78–86, 79, 80, 81, 82, 83, 84, 85
  negative churn concept, 170
  proactive retention management, 175–180
  reactivation campaigns, 180–182
  understanding retention rate, 169 value-based marketing for high-value customers, 119–120 Returns
  by customers, 25
  data collection and, 233
Reviews, data collection and, 233
Reward addict segment (high-value customers), 162–163
RFID, 221–222
Rosling, Hans, 26

Sales, questions for data collection, 57–58
Savings Catcher (Walmart), 50
Search, abandoned, 149–150
Secret (Procter & Gamble), 105
Segmentation
  recommendations and choosing customers or segments, 138–141
  vendor support for, 193–194
  See also Clustering; Customer profiles
Shaklee, 21
Shazam, 113–114, 186
Shehata, George, 21
Short-term email revenue, 133, 139–136, 134, 142
Size data, collection of, 234–235
Size of wallet, 68–70, 178, 223
Sleepies (email subscribers), 131–136, 132, 133, 134, 136
SmileTrain, 111
Social interactions, data collection and, 232–233
Spotify, 142–143
“Sunk costs”, 85
Supervised learning
  defined, 25
  propensity models, 28–32
Surveys, data collection and, 233

Targeting
  improving precision of, 11–12
  vendor support for, 193–194
Tchin Tchin campaign (Alain Afflelou), 139
TechCrunch, 142
Third party data, 43, 235
Total Addressable Market (TAM), 223
Total Rewards (Harrah’s Entertainment), 5
Transition matrix, 117, 117–118, 118

Uncommon Goods, 131
Unidentifiable information, of customers, 216
Unsupervised learning clustering models, 25–28, 27 defined, 25
Upselling, 138–139
Upside lifetime value, 68–70
U.S. census data, collection of, 234
User-to-product recommendations, 142
US-EU Safe Harbor Privacy Principles, 219
U.S. Postal Service, 52

Validation, of customer data, 51–54
Value-based marketing, 115–122 defined, 115

growing medium-value customers, 120–121
overview, 115–119, 116, 117, 118, 125
reducing costs to service low-value customers, 122 retaining high-value customers, 119–120
Value migration, 64–65, 174
Variable contribution margin, 86
Vendors, questions to ask of, 191–196
Vertical data, collection of, 234–235
VIP customers. See High-value customers

Wallet analysis, 68–70, 178, 223
Walmart, 50
Warning signs, of customer unhappiness, 176–180
Web analytics, 202
Web behavior, data collection about, 229–230
Welcome programs, 157–158
“Whales”, 120
York, Jerry, 198

Zappos, 7, 146, 164
Zendesk, 110