Index

A
Accountability, 66–70; mistakes that leaders make, 126–127; strategies to increase, 128–129; techniques to avoid accountability mistakes, 127–128; tips to enhance, 70–71
Accountability structures, 9–10
Agendas, 134
Appeals, 119–120
ATC techniques, 127–128

B
Balanced response, 121–122
Bennis, Warren, 15
Bock, Laszlo, 33, 37–38
Building a collaborative atmosphere virtually, 85–86.
See also collaboration
Business Week, 32–33

C
Cascio, Wayne, 55
Case studies: Pharmacorp virtual team launch, 27–30;
Raygen Company, 88–90; ShingleSeal, 57–60
Challenges: building a collaborative atmosphere virtually, 85–86; infrequent face-to-face contact, 84; lack of resources, 84–85; lack of time to focus on leading the team, 86–87; managing poor performers, 87–88; shifting team and organizational priorities, 87; that virtual team leaders face, 83–88; top challenges, 172; of virtual teams, 6–8
Change: building support for, 93–94; effectively managing, 93; envisioning, 93; implementing, 94–96
Checklists: monitoring your sense of purpose, 39–40; team leader and team member selection, 34; for virtual teamwork, 49; v-meeting outline, 135
Coaching, 113–117; vs. directing, 115–116; tips for, 116–117
Cohen, Herb, 126
Collaboration, 57; building a collaborative atmosphere virtually, 85–86; fostering an atmosphere of collaboration, 96–98; to gain team members’ commitment, 122–123
Commitment: gaining team members’ commitment, 117–123; as a top team differentiator, 52–53
Communication, 19, 61–62; communicating team goals and direction, 98–99; conflict resolution, 63–66; developing a plan for communicating among team members, 44, 45; effective “v-meetings,” 20–21; face-to-face meetings, 20; getting the right information to the right people, 54–55; interpersonal communication skills, 100–103; and managing poor performers, 88; problems, 7; selecting the right communication technologies, 34–35; skill development, 22–24; tips for improving, 148; in v-meetings, 141; well-leveraged technology, 22
Conflict: avoidance, 88; dealing with, 11; resolution, 63–66. See also communication
Consultation, 120–122
Cooperation, 85–86; lack of, 10–11. See also collaboration
Cross-functional teams, 17–18

D
Decision making: shared processes for, 53–54
Diagnosis, 137
Differentiating effective team leaders, 92; ability to communicate team goals and direction, 98–99; ability to effectively manage change, 93–96; ability to empower team members, 104–107; ability to foster an atmosphere of collaboration, 96–98; strong interpersonal communication skills, 100–103
Differentiating top virtual teams, 51; collaboration, 57; commitment and engagement, 52–53; getting the right information to the right people, 54–55; shared processes for decision making, 53–54; task-based trust, 55–56
Directing: vs. coaching, 115–116
Effectiveness of virtual teams: study of, 4–5. See also differentiating top virtual teams
Email, 61, 62, 142. See also communication
Empowering team members, 104–107
Engagement: lack of, 11–12; as a top team differentiator, 52–53

Face-to-face contact, 20; challenge of infrequent face-to-face contact, 84; for kick-off meetings, 37–38; lack of, 6–7
Facilitators: role in meetings, 132; tips for, 133–134
Feedback, 113–117; timely, 88
Fern, Bruce, 126
Feurer, Mark, 66
Focusing on people issues, 147–148

G
Gasta, Mark, 84, 86
Goals: clarifying the team’s goals, 40–41; communicating team goals and direction, 98–99; lack of, 8–9; tips for establishing, 75

High-touch environment: creating, 151–152

Inspirational appeals, 119–120
Instant messaging, 61. See also communication Intervention techniques, 137

Kick-off meeting, 37–38; clarifying the team members’ roles, 41–43; clarifying the team’s goals, 40–41; creating a sense of purpose, 38–40; developing a plan for communicating among team members, 44, 45; developing team norms, 43–44; hold team development activities, 44–48
“Kill-the-messenger” syndrome, 105

Launching: case study, 27–30; forming the team
Launching: (continued)
before the launch, 31–37;
holding a great kick-off meeting, 37–48; monitoring and assessing team performance, 48
Leader Quick Reference
Guide, 107–110
Leaders: checklist for team leader and team member selection, 34; choosing team leaders, 32; differentiating effective team leaders, 92–107; members unclear on who leader is,
7–8; tips for leaders in meetings, 133–134
Leadership, 24–25; coaching,
113–117; critical characteristics of an effective leader, 152; improving performance, 153; lack of time to focus on leading the team, 86–87; managing poor performers, 87–88;
Quick Reference Guide,
107–110; virtual leadership continuum, 115; virtual team leader self-assessment, 91–92; warning signs of an ineffective leader, 152
Locus of control, 68–71

Meetings: kick-off meeting,
37–48. See also
V-meetings
MIT Sloan Management Review study, 74
Moldenauer-Salazar, Jay,
83, 87, 96, 100, 123–124
Motivation, 71–73; strategies for, 73–74

N
Needs assessment, 150
New York Life, 56
Norms, 43–44

O
Observation, 136
OnPoint’s global virtual team study: background, 157; criteria for identifying top-performing teams, 164–165; eligibility criterria, 157; factors impacting team effectiveness,
165–169; length of time
worked with leader, 163; methodology, 158; rating
of leadership competencies, 172; six dimensions of virtual team performance,
158; team demographics,
158–162; team leader demographics, 162–163; team leader findings, 169–172;
title, level, and function of participants, 160; top challenges, 172
On-the-spot coaching, 114.
See also coaching

P
Passion groups, 86
People issues: focusing on, 147–148
Performance: identifiability of, 68; managing poor performers, 87–88; monitoring and assessing team performance, 48; recognizing and rewarding, 35–37; watching out for performance peaks, 150–151
Performance boosters: gaining team members’ commitment, 117–123; holding team members accountable, 126–129; providing coaching and support, 113–117; recognizing team members’ contributions, 123–126
Performance pitfalls: lack of clear goals, direction, or priorities, 8–9; lack of clear roles among team members, 9–10; lack of cooperation, 10–11; lack of engagement, 11–12
Persuasion, 118–119
Pharmaceutical industry: virtual teams in, 3
Phillips, Rachel, 58–59
Post-peak performance decline, 150–151
Preservation of self-image, 67
Prevalence of virtual teams, 3
Priorities: lack of, 8–9; shifting team and organizational priorities, 87
Process, 74–78
Process intervention, 136
Purpose, 74–78; monitoring your sense of purpose, 39–40; Purpose Pyramid, 38. See also goals

Q

R
RACIN model, 42–43
RAMP model, 60–61; accountability, 66–71; motivation, 71–74; process and purpose, 74–78; relationships, 61–66. See also Quick Reference Guide
Rational persuasion, 118–119
Raygen Company, 88–90
Recognition, 35–37; of team members’ contributions, 123–126
Recorder, 21
Relationships, 61–66; tips for improving, 148

Resources: lack of, 84–85

Rewards, 35–37

Roles: clarifying team members’ roles, 41–43; lack of clear roles among team members, 9–10; meeting facilitators’, 132–134; RACIN model, 42–43

S

Sahota, Swroop, 36, 55–56, 124

Scheduling meetings, 140–141

Schering-Plough, 36

Self-assessment: empowering others, 106–107; interpersonal communication skills, 101–102; for virtual team leaders, 91–92

Self-image: preservation of, 67

Self-managed work teams (SMWTs), 69

Shared processes for decision making, 53–54

ShingleSeal, 57–60

Size of the team, 31–32

Skills: getting the right mix of virtual and technical skills, 32–34; interpersonal communication skills, 100–103; skill development, 22–24, 150; soft skills, 149–150

SMART criteria, 41, 99

SMWTs. See self-managed work teams (SMWTs)

Social loafing, 67–68

Soft skills, 149–150

Squires, Kevin, 104

Staff: checklist for team leader and team member selection, 34; stable team membership, 16; turnover of team members, 7. See also team composition

Status reports, 105

Stockhoff, Cleo, 56

Styles of team players, 46–47

Subgroups, 10–11

Sub-teams, 86

Task-based trust, 55–56, 148–149

T

Team composition, 15; checklist for team leader and team member selection, 34; fewer team members, 16–17; longer tenure as a team, 19; most important characteristics for team members, 33; size of the team, 31–32; stable team membership, 16; team members are from the same function, 17–18; team members belong to fewer teams, 18–19

Team development activities, 44–48
Team handbook, 10
Team player styles, 46–47
Team-building sessions, 149
Technology, 22, 153–154; getting the right information to the right people, 54–55; matching to the task, 61, 141–142, 143; selecting the right communication technologies, 34–35; using to replicate a high-touch environment, 151–152; Virtual Team Technology Assessment, 44, 45
Teleconferences, 62. See also communication; videoconferencing TelePresence, 84. See also communication; videoconferencing
Tenure of teams, 19
Time to focus on leading the team: lack of, 86–87
Time zone differences, 88
Training: skill development, 22–24; technical, 22
Trends, 154
Trust: strategies for building, 149; task-based, 55–56; warning signs of low levels of trust, 148
Turnover of team members, 7; stable team membership, 16

V
Videoconferencing, 61, 84–85, 142. See also communication
Virtual teamwork checklist, 49
V-meetings, 20–21; agendas, 134; checklist, 134, 135; communication, 141; Do’s and Don’ts, 143–144; facilitator’s role, 132–134; intervention techniques, 137; keeping on track, 136–140; matching technology to the task, 141–142, 143; scheduling, 140–141; strategies to deal with common challenges, 138–140

W
Webinars, 61. See also communication

Z
Zeller, Theresa, 131, 140–141