Contents

Preface xi
List of Abbreviations xiv

PART I Introduction 1

1 What is English and What is Literature? 5
   “English” and “Literature”: The Subject in Question 5
   The Uses of Literature 8
   Great Books and “Trash”: The Canon Wars 10
   Literary History, Periods, and Movements:
      Four Approaches to the Past 12
   Critical Interpretation and Analysis 16
   Further Reading 21
   Web Pages of Interest 22

PART II Foundational Skills 23

2 Reading English: From Opening a Book to Critical Analysis 27
   Foundational Reading Strategies: Overview and Detail 28
   Five Intensive Methods of Reading Literature 42
   Further Reading 56
   Web Pages of Interest 56
3 Library Research and Scholarly Method

How to Find What You Need: Old and New Methods
Research Methods and Library Classification Systems
Printed Library Resources
Research on the Web
Evaluating What You Find
Plagiarism
Documenting Your Sources
Further Reading
Web Pages of Interest

4 Writing in English Studies

Different Kinds of Assignments: Their Objectives and Audiences
Kinds of Essays
Reading the Assignment
Establishing a Logical Position
Organizing Your Argument: Computer Drafts and Thesis Statement
Building Paragraphs and Arguments
Integrating Quotations
Revising for Content, Argument, and Style
Further Reading
Web Pages of Interest

PART III The Major Genres

5 Drama

Plays, Drama, Theater, Performance: The Varieties of Institutional Formation
Drama, Text, and Speech
The Theater and the Play: The Shape of the Stage and the History of Drama
Dramatic Action and Structure in Relation to Genre
Character Types and the Unities
Reading Plays
Further Reading
Web Pages of Interest
Contents

6 Prose Fiction 154
- Definitions: Novel, Fiction, Narrative, Metafiction 155
- History and Origins 156
- Reading Prose Fiction 158
- Character, Setting, and Action in Prose Fiction 160
- Bakhtin: Monophonic and Polyphonic Novels 164
- Narratology: From Story to Narrative Discourse 167
- Further Reading 174
- Web Pages of Interest 174

7 Poetry 175
- The Elements of Poetry 175
- Reading Poems: A Prelude to Critical Analysis 180
- Critical Analysis 186
- Prosody: An Introduction to Versification 190
- Scansion 193
- Line Length, Pauses, and Continuity 195
- Sound 196
- Rhyme 197
- Stanzas and Diction 200
- Ambiguity and Irony 201
- Four Verse Forms 205
- Further Reading 212
- Web Pages of Interest 213

PART IV Theory 215
8 Language and Literary Studies 219
- Linguistics: The Systematic Study of Language 219
- Rhetoric and Persuasion 227
- Literary Stylistics 239
- Further Reading 245
- Web Pages of Interest 245

9 Recent Critical Practice 246
- The Analysis of Genre: What Kind of Thing is That? 246
- Formalisms 253
Contents

Reading the Signs: Semiotics for Students of Literature 260
From One Meaning to Many: Constructing and Deconstructing the Text 267
Further Reading 283
Web Pages of Interest 284

10 The Politics of Reading: Gender, Class, and Ethnicity 285

Gender Matters 285
Being Class Conscious 294
Ethnic Difference: Reading in a Postcolonial Context 303
Conclusion 314
Further Reading 314
Web Pages of Interest 315

References 317
Index 326