Contents

Acknowledgments

Foreword  by Kevin Rivette, author of Rembrandts in the Attic

Introduction

Chapter 1  Roadblocks or Building Blocks?  by Bruce Berman

- Worthy Opponents
- Distinguishing Patent Trolls from Independent Asserters
- High-Stakes Poker
- A Double Standard for IP Assets
- Tolls, Trolls, and U-Turns

Chapter 2  Turning a Patent Portfolio into a Profit Center  by Marshall Phelps

- Profile: Hail to the Chief IP Officer
- ThinkPad®: The Licensing Story
- A Virtuous Circle
- Four Keys to an Effective Licensing Program
- Innovative Uses for Innovation Rights

Chapter 3  Seeing through the Illusion of Exclusion  by Daniel P. McCurdy

- Profile: Purveyor of Quality
- IP on the Radar Screen
- Gaining Competitive Advantage
IBM Leads the Way 41
Timing the License 43
Knowing What You Have 46
Masterpieces Hang in Museums, Not in Attics 48
Emerging Models 49

Chapter 4  On Patent Trolls and Other Myths 53
By Alexander Poltorak
Profile: Knight in Shining Armor 53
A Patent Is a Negative Right 57
Myth #1: “A patent is needed to practice the invention.” 58
Myth #2: “It is not ‘nice’ to sue for patent infringement.” 59
Myth #3: “The value of a patent is the same as the value of the patented technology.” 60
Myth #4: “The patent system is fair.” 61
Do Patent Trolls Really Exist? 62
Myth #5: “A patent is a tax on innovation.” 64

Chapter 5  Roadblocks, Toll Roads, and Bridges: Using a Patent Portfolio Wisely 67
By Peter Detkin
Profile: From Trolls to Tolls 67
Shareholders Expect a Return on IP 69
Not All Patents Are Created Equal 72
Deploying Unrelated or Orphan Patents 77
Who Are the Buyers? 79
A Seller’s Paradox 81

Chapter 6  Risky Business: Overlooking Patents as Financial Assets 85
By James E. Malackowski
Profile: Wunderkind 85
Director and Officer Accountability 89
Patent Enforcement Litigation 89
Sarbanes-Oxley–Related Compliance 91
Shareholder Litigation 93
IP-Driven Shareholder Value 95
Performance Measurement 98
Director and Officer Responsibility 100
Looking Ahead 101

Chapter 7  Who Benefits from Patent Enforcement? 105
by Raymond P. Niro
Profile: Little Guys Like Him 105
A Patent Is Worthless Without a Remedy 109
When Inventors Fail, Innovation Suffers 110
Inventors Must Consider Patent Enforcement 112
Patent Trolls and Harassment 114
The Role of Contingent-Fee Representation 115
Large Patentees Are Fighting Back 118
Breaking from the Pack 119
Dispelling the Troll Myth 119
The Danger of Not Enforcing 120
Leveling the Field 121

Chapter 8  Global IP in Crisis: The Threat to Shareholder Value 125
by Bruce A. Lehman
Profile: All Along the Watchtower 125
The Leadership Vacuum 129
The Top U.S. Patentees Are Not U.S. Companies 130
The Dangers of Uncertainty 132
Viagra® in China 133
An Action Plan 135
Managements Need to Step Up 139