Contents

Executive summary ix

Chapter 1: Introduction 1
- Scope and purpose of this report 1
- Specific ethical principles most relevant to older patients 4
- Summary of chapter 8
- References 9
- Further resources 9

Chapter 2: Importance of communication and barriers to it 10
- The duty to listen and offer information 11
- Communication as an aid to planning and ‘concordance’ 14
- Communication with relatives 16
- Communication between people providing care 17
- Multidisciplinary geriatric care 17
- Barriers to communication 18
- Recording consultations and having an advocate present 21
- Interpreters and facilities for the hard of hearing 22
- Raising difficult issues: elder abuse and neglect 23
- Summary of chapter 25
- References 25
- Further resources 27

Chapter 3: Ethical issues regarding consent and refusal 28
- The right to choice in health care 28
- The right to opportunities for choice in other types of care 29
- Explicit and implied consent to treatment 30
- Providing accurate information 30
- Refusing information 31
- Recording consent and refusal 32
- Consent to participate in research 33
- Assessing capacity to consent or refuse 34
- Assessment criteria in relation to choosing medical treatment 36
Chapter 7: Helping people make decisions in advance

Planning for future contingencies
What is an advance decision?
Do-not-attempt-resuscitation decisions
Legal position on advance refusals of treatment
Criteria for a valid ADRT
Common law criteria for validity of an advance refusal of treatment
Advance requests for treatment
Practicalities in relation to drawing up ADRT
Conscientious objection
Liability of health professionals
Disputes and doubts about validity and applicability
Summary of chapter
References
Further resources

Chapter 8: Care at the end of life and preparing for a good death

Living well and planning for end-of-life care
Provision of information and discussing death
Honesty and truth telling
Palliative care
Goals in care for dying patients (adapted from the LCP)
Disadvantaged groups – advocacy and listening to patients
Arranging religious and spiritual care for those who wish it
Last weeks and the place of death
Team and inter-agency co-operation
Fairness and avoidance of discrimination
Whether to provide or withhold conventional treatments – older people with capacity
‘Essential nursing care’
Whether to provide or withhold conventional treatments – older people with impaired capacity
viii  Contents

- Oral nutrition and hydration 121
- Artificial nutrition and hydration 122
- Disagreements about treatment withdrawal 123
- Cardiopulmonary resuscitation 124
- Summary of advice on CPR 127
- Summary of chapter 127
- References 128
- Further resources 129

Appendix: Useful organisations 130
Index 135