Contents

Preface vii
Translators Note xv
Acknowledgments xvi

1 Beginnings: What Do You Expect? 1
   1 Beginning 1
   2 Sense and Meaning 2
   3 Rules of the Game 5
   4 Links and Connections 10
   5 I 14
   6 First Sentences: Enticements 21

2 The Modern European Novel: Predecessors, Origins, Conventions, Sub-Genres 28
   1 Dangers and Allurements of Novel-Reading: What's Novel about the Novel? 28
   2 Fact and Fiction: No Man is an Island 33
   3 Fiction, Illusion, Realism 41
   4 Variety of Types: Triumph of Polyphony 53

3 The Object of Every Analysis: The How of the What (Discourse and Story) 64

4 Time 76
   1 Narrative Time and Narrated Time 76
   2 Order 87
   3 Frequency 91
   4 Tense and Narrative 93

5 Characters 97
   1 Character Conception 97
   2 Character Portrayal 104
Contents

6 Teutonic Rosette or Gallic Taxonomy?

1. Prologue
2. Stanzel’s Typological Circle: A Preliminary Overview
3. Splitting the In-dividual: The First-Person Narrative Situation
4. The Impossibility of the Familiar: The Authorial Narrative Situation
5. Abolishing Narrative in Narrative – the Illusion of Immediacy: The Figural Narrative Situation
6. Genette’s Narrative Theory: The Basics
7. Who Speaks? – Voice
8. Who Perceives? – Focalization
9. Internal – External: Advantage Genette?
10. Coda
11. The Novel as Atonement

7 Multiperspectivity, Unreliability, and the Impossibility of Editing Out the Gender Aspect

1. Multiperspectivity
2. Unreliable Narration
3. The Narration’s Gender

8 Now You See It, Now You Don’t: Symbolism and Space

9 The End of the Novel and the Future of an Illusion

1. Experience, Storytelling, (Hi)stories
2. Meaning Orientation
3. Novels: Allegories of Telling

References
Further Reading
Index of Authors and Critics