Contents

Foreword by Malcolm McDonald xi

Acknowledgements xiii

Introduction xv

Part I The Decade of Customer Information Exploitation: 1990–2000 1

Chapter 1 The Concept of Customer Intelligence: From Product to Customer 3

Chapter 2 Achieving an Intelligence Capability: From Data to Knowledge 37

Chapter 3 The Eclipse of Mass Marketing: From Many to One 77

Chapter 4 Achieving Segmentation and Differentiation: From Fuzzy to Focused 105

Part II The Decade of Customer Information Exchange: 2000–2010 129

Chapter 5 The Collapse of Time: From Lapsed to Real 131
Chapter 6    Customer Privacy and Confidentiality: From Surveillance to Permission       155

Chapter 7    Closing the Loop: From Monologue to Dialogue                          185

Chapter 8    The New Practice of Marketing: From Selling to Buying                203

Notes                                                   229

Index                                                   237