Contents

Acknowledgments vii
Preface ix
Introduction 1
   – Rediscovering The Bacchae –

Part I: Festivals of Liberation: Celebrating Communality 25

Chapter 1: The Birth Ritual of a New Theatre 27
   – Richard Schechner’s Dionysus in 69 in New York (1968) –

Chapter 2: Celebrating a Communion Rite? 48
   – Wole Soyinka’s The Bacchae of Euripides at London’s National Theatre (1973) –

Chapter 3: Sparagmos and Omophagia 72
   – Teat(r)Io Oficina’s Bacantes in São Paulo (1996) –

Part II: Renegotiating Cultural Identities 91

Chapter 4: On the Strangeness and Inaccessibility of the Past 93

Chapter 5: Performing or Contaminating Greekness? 116
   – Theodoros Terzopoulos’ The Bacchae in Delphi (1986) –

Chapter 6: In Search of New Identities 136
vi CONTENTS

Part III: Productive Encounter or Destructive Clash of Cultures? 157
Chapter 7: Dismemberment and the Quest for Wholeness 159
Chapter 8: Transforming Kathakali 186
Chapter 9: Beijing Opera Dismembered 206
– Peter Steadman and Chen Shi-zheng’s The Bacchae in Beijing (1996) –
Epilogue 225
Name Index 231
Subject Index 236