Contents

Notes on Contributors ix

Introduction I: Philosophy and the Perils of Progress 1
Russell Blackford

Introduction II: Philosophy on the Inclined Plane 13
Damien Broderick

Part 1 Roads to Progress in Philosophy 19

1 Coming Out of the Shade 21
Myisha Cherry

2 What has Philosophy Ever Done for Us? 31
James Ladyman

3 Progress and Philosophy 41
Noretta Koertge

4 Only Connect 51
Frank Jackson

Part 2 Bumps in the Road, Rabbits in the Landscape 61

5 Chmess, Abiding Significance, and Rabbit Holes 63
Peter Boghossian and James A. Lindsay

6 Philosophy as the Evocation of Conceptual Landscapes 75
Massimo Pigliucci

7 Three Barriers to Philosophical Progress 91
Jessica Wilson
Part 3  Cautious Optimism  105

8  Is there Progress in Philosophy? A Brief Case for Optimism  107
   Daniel Stoljar

9  Is Philosophy Progressing Fast Enough?  119
   Stuart Brock

10 Does Philosophical Progress Matter?  133
    Richard Kamber

Part 4  Philosophy and Science  145

11 Between Gods and Apes: On the Lack of Scientific and Philosophical Progress  147
    Mark Walker

12 Model-Building in Philosophy  159
    Timothy Williamson

    Christopher Norris

Part 5  Re-Imagining the Conversation  191

14 Philosophy as “Intellectual War of Values”  193
    Stefan Lorenz Sorgner

15 Re-Imagining the Philosophical Conversation  201
    Karen Green

16 David Lewis and the Kangaroo: Graphing Philosophical Progress  213
    Benj Hellie

17 Philosophy, Progress, and Identity  227
    Ward E. Jones

Index  241