Index

abstract, 40, 325–326, 334
article, 325
thesis, 325
academic language, 7
acknowledgement, 326–327 action research (AR), 239–250, 308 assessment phase, 247
critical social theory, 241
definition of, 239–240
evaluation phase, 247
features of, 243–247
in healthcare, 242–243
implementation phase, 247 methodological continuum, 244–245
origins of, 240–241
planning phase, 247
practical steps, 246–247
preliminary stage, 247
problems and critique, 248–250
skills learning, 247
theory–practice gap, 242
trustworthiness, 247–248
aide memoire, 89
alternative explanations, 313 analysis driven purposeful sampling, 148
analysis of ethnographic studies, 170–171
analytic documents, 315
analytic memos, 290–291
analytic notes, 170
annotation, 296
anonymity, 59–60
Anschauung, 222
anthropologists, 153, 160
appendices, 323, 333–334
appraisal, 212, 334
appropriateness, 51
articles, 336–338
abstract for, 325
for academic colleagues, 337 for lay readers, 338
for practitioners, 337
for students, 338
assessment, 247
assumption, 322
audit/decision trail, 315, 342 auditability, 210
authenticity, 120, 304, 310, 323
catalytic, 310
educative, 310
of narratives, 213
ontological, 310
tactical, 310
autobiographical stories, 204–205
auto-ethnography, 162, 163
autonomy, respect for, 53, 66 awareness context, 187
axial coding, 186
beneficence, 53, 67
between-method triangulation, 314 bias, 23, 94, 120, 133
biographical disruption, 208
biographical stories, 204
blue skies research, 242
bracketing, 222, 227
CAQDAS, 296
caregiver narratives, 202

Qualitative Research in Nursing and Healthcare, Fourth Edition.
Immy Holloway and Kathleen Galvin.
© 2017 John Wiley & Sons, Ltd. Published 2017 by John Wiley & Sons, Ltd. case studies, 254–256
  features and purpose, 254–256 overview, 253–254
case study research (CSR), 253–256 catalytic authenticity, 310 categorising, 185–187, 292–294, 300 causality, 187
censoring, 135
chain referral sampling, 145 Chicago School of Sociology, 160 clusters of themes, 234 codes, 294
  in vivo, 292
coding, 185–187, 292–294
  axial coding, 186
  for descriptive labels, 174 initial/open, 292
  line-by-line, 292
  selective coding, 188
  theoretical coding, 187
coherece, 17
collaboration, 295
collective stories, 205 community action, 245 community based analysis, 245
complete observer, 113
complete participant, 112
computer-aided data analysis, 301 advantages, 299–300
  approaches, 298
  diagrams, 298
  identifying data units, 297–298 locating words, phrases and data segments, 297 naming/labelling, 297
  practicalities, 298–299
  problems and critique, 300–301
  reasons for, 296–297
  software, 296
  sorting and organising, 297 storing, annotating and retrieving texts, 297 see also qualitative data analysis computer-mediated communication, 101 computer packages, 301 concepts, 118, 142, 148, 152 conclusions, 335
concurrent nested strategy, 278
concurrent transformative strategy, 277 concurrent triangulation, 277 strategies, 277
confidentiality, 54, 59–60, 67, 68
confirmability, 304
‘conscientization’, 241 consciousness, 220, 224 consent form, 61
constant comparison, 188
construct, 186, 194
constructionism, 26, 266
constructivist grounded theory, 194–195 context, 41
contextual documents, 315 contextualisation, 4–5
continental philosophy, 220 continuance, 184
convenience (opportunistic) sampling, 147 conventional ethnography, 162 study culture, 162
conversation analysis, 256–259
  origins of, 257
  use of, 257–258
core category, 188
costings, 44
creativity, 316–317
credibility, 120, 304, 309
criteriology, 303, 304
criterion, 141, 145, 166 criterion-based sampling, 145, 148. see also purposeful (purposive) sampling critical action research, 247
critical ethnography, 162
critical incident technique (CIT), 259
critical subjectivity, 9
critical theory, 12
critical assessment, 334
critical ethnography, 162–163
critical incident technique, 259 process of, 260–261
critical social theory, 241
critical subjectivity, 9
critical theory, 27
critical validity, 248
cultural stories, 205
cultural strangers, 160, 170
culture, 160–161
  immersion in, 108–109
Cumulative Index of Nursing and Allied Health Literature (CINAHL), 137

Dasein, 223, 226
data, 188
  documentary sources, 118–121
  focus group, 131–132
  horizontal pass, 291 images, 121–122
  primacy of, 4
  too much, 12
  vertical pass, 291
data analysis, 43, 287–301, 329, 335
  coding and categorising, 185–187, 292–294
  collaboration, 295
  computer-aided, 295–296
  grounded theory, 179
  ordering and organising, 291 phenomenological studies, 235
  process, 235
  qualitative, 287
  qualitative data analysis, 287 styles of, 292
  transcribing and sorting, 288–289
data collection, 32, 43, 266
  ethnographic studies, 171
  grounded theory, 179
  phenomenological studies, 235
data protection, 68, 69
data recording, 290
  note-taking, 96, 98
  tape-recording, 62
data saturation, 152
data segments, location of, 297 data sorting, 297
data triangulation, 314
data units, identification of, 297 Declaration of Helsinki, 52, 54
dedication, 326
deduction, 13, 23, 181, 193
delimitations, 43
dependability, 304, 309
Descartes, 221
description, 22, 328
  ethnographic studies, 171
descriptive ethnography, 162 descriptive observation, 114 descriptive phenomenology, 220, 225 descriptive QDA, 298
descriptive qualitative ethnography, 161
design, 253, 259
deviant case sampling, 293, 313
Dewey, John, 274
diagrams, 298
dialectical validity, 247
dialogical phenomenology, 126 dialogic analysis, 212
diaries, 119
dimensions, 109
discourse analysis (DA), 256–259, 261, 262
discursive deconstruction, 10 discussion, 329–330
dissemination
  of research, 338
  of results, 44–45
documentary sources, 118–121
  open-archival, 119
  open-published, 119
  personal response, 315
  primary documents, 118
  representativeness, 120
  secondary documents, 118
discursive deconstruction, 10
dross rate, 90
dual role of health professionals, 63 dualism, 221
Duquesne school of
  phenomenology, 225
Dutch school of phenomenology, 225
Index

352

e-mail, 100
addresses, 78
educative authenticity, 310
electronic media, 100, 103
  online research and e-mail, 103
telephone interviews, 100, 102
emancipatory knowledge, 241 emerging categories, 192 emic perspective, 6
  ethnographic studies, 153, 170
‘emotionalism’, 16
empathetic understanding, 6 empathic listening, 203 enhancement approach, 245 entry issues, 328
epistemology, 21
epoch e, 222, 227
ethical framework, 52–55
ethical issues, 13, 51–69
  anonymity and confidentiality, 59–60
  beneficence, 53, 67
  confidentiality, 53, 59, 67
  informed consent, 57–59, 66–68
  interviews, 56, 102
  justice, 53, 67, 69
  nonmaleficence, 53, 67
  peer research, 61–62
  research with patients, 55–61
  research proposal, 39
  research relationship, 62–63
  respect for autonomy, 53, 66 voluntary participation, 57–59
  workplace research, 64
ethics checklist
  audiotaped interviews, 66
  observation studies, 68
  ethics in practice, 65
  ethics, for health professionals/ researchers, 52
  ethics in practice, 65
  ethnic group/belief, 9
  ethnographers, 15
ethnographic methods, 163
ethnographic research, 171
ethnographic studies, 159–175
  analysis, 172
  steps in, 173–174
  analytic notes, 170–171
  autoethnography, 163
  critical, 162
  culture, 160–161
  data collection, 165–166
  description, 172
  descriptive/conventional, 162 emic-etic dimension, 167–169
  fieldnotes, 170
  fieldwork, 169–170
  in healthcare, 163–164
  history, 166
  interpretation, 172
  key informants and settings, 166–167
  macro-ethnography, 171
  micro-ethnography, 171
  pitfalls and problems, 175
  thick description, 166
ethnographies, 164
ethnomethodology, 257
ethnonursing, 163
etic perspective, 7, 167
  ethnographic studies, 170
evaluation, 247
everyday stories, 204
evidence-based practice, 14 exclusion criteria, 149 exhaustive description, 37, 42 existence, 226
existentialism, 226
existentialist phenomenology, 220 existentialist research, 224 experience, 91
  language of, 226–229
explanatory power, 190
exploratory questions, 93 extreme case selection, 149
external validity, 306–307
extreme case selection, 148
fairness, 310
falsifiability, 23
feasibility, 40, 44
feedback, 311
feeling, 91
feminist theory, 12
fidelity, 54
field, 336
fieldnotes, 117, 336
ethnographic studies, 170
grounded theory, 191
fieldwork, 169–170
ethnographic studies, 170–171
films, 121
final note, 341–342
first person, use of in write-ups, 322–323 first-hand experience, 169 flexibility, 17
focus, 109–111
focused ethnographies, 171 focus groups, 125–137
advantages and limitations, 135–136
critical comments, 136–137 data analysis/reporting, 133–134
definition of, 125
interviews, 131–133
interviewer involvement, 132–133 origin and purpose, 127–128 sample size and composition, 128–131 focused interview, 90 focus group members, 128
format of report, 323
formulated meanings, 234
Foucauldian discourse, 264
Foucault, Michel, 264
Frankfurt School, 27
functionalism, 221
funnelling, 191
fusion of horizons, 231
Gadamer, Hans Georg, 223
Garfinkel, Harold, 257
gatekeepers, 46–48, 64
generalisability, 306–307
generational erosion, 191
Gestalt, 205, 233, 290, 293
Glaser, Barney, 179, 295 grand-tour observation, 115 grand-tour questions, 91 grounded theory (GT), 15, 126, 179–195, 287, 328
constant comparison, 188
constructivist, 194–195
core category, 188
data analysis, 185–187
data collection, 182–183
features of, 181–182
fieldnotes, 190–191
further development, 192–194 history and origin, 179–180 integration of, 190
literature sources, 188–190 memos, 190–191
pitfalls and problems, 191–192
symbolic interactionism, 180–181
theoretical sampling, 148, 184–185
theoretical sensitivity, 183–184
grounding, 226
Habermas, Jurgen, 241
health professionals, 13 health research narratives, 200–204
Heidegger, Martin, 219, 221, 222
Being and Time, 223
Dasein, 223, 226
hermeneutic circle, 231
hermeneutic phenomenology, 220 hermeneutic research, 230–231 hermeneutics, 223–226
heterogeneous sampling, 146 holistic analysis, 210–211 homogeneity 135
homogeneous sampling, 145–146 horizontal passes, 291
humanisation, 226–229
Husserl, Edmund, 219–221
HyperResearch, 296
hypothesis, 23, 181, 187 idealism, 221
identity, non-disclosure of, 60 idiographic methods, 25 illness narratives, 205–208
  chaos, 207–208
  quest, 208
  restitution, 207
images, 121–122
immersion, 5–6
  in culture, 108–109
  in setting, 108–109
implementation, 247
informants, 6
in vivo code, 186, 292, 293 inclusion criteria, 149, 150 induction, 181
inferential leaps, 294–295
informants, 6, 142, 144, 147, 151, 153, 166
informed consent, 52–53, 57–59, 66–68
initial coding, 292
integration of theory, 190
intentionality, 220–221
interest, 34–35
internal validity, 305–306 Internet, 100–101
  bulletin boards, 101
  chat rooms, 100–101
Internet-based multimedia resource, 97
interpretation, 174–175
  collaboration in, 295
interpretative repertoires, 263 interpretive phenomenology, 230–232 interpretive QDA, 298
interpretive tradition, 225 interpretivism, 22
intersubjective reflection, 9 intersubjective truth, 308 interviewers code paragraphs, 134 interviewer effect, 104
interviewer-participant relationship, 98
interviews, 55–56, 87–105
  advantages and limitations, 104
  data recording, 96–98
    note-taking, 98
    tape-recording, 96–98
  as data sources, 87–88
  electronic media, 100–102
  online research and e-mail, 100–102
  telephone interviews, 102
ethical issues, 103
ethics checklist, 66–67
focus group, 131–132
  interviewer involvement, 132–133
guide, 333
length and timing, 95–96 narrative, 208–209
one-to-one, 80
peer, 98–99
phenomenological, 95 practical considerations, 92–93 probing, prompting and summarising, 93–94 problems and challenges, 99–100
process, 88
schedule, 90, 91
semi-structured, 90
social context, 94–95
strengths and weaknesses, 103–104 telephone, 103
transcription, 288–289
types of, 89–91
  semi-structured, 90–91
  structured, standardised, 91 unstructured, non-standardised, 89–90 types of questions, 91–92
unexpected outcomes, 95
introduction, 40, 327–329
introspection, 9
investigator triangulation, 314
iteration, 169, 287, 290
James, William, 274
joint supervision, 79–80 journals, 333, 336–338
justice, 53, 67, 69
justification for study, 328
key informants, 166–167
knowledge
  constitutive interests of, 241 emancipatory, 241
questions, 91
technical, 241
labelling, 297
Labov/Waletzky structural analysis, 211–212
landmark studies, 42
language of experience, 226–229
language oriented QDA, 298 language skills, 94
learning the job, 7
Lebenswelt, 222
Lewin, Kurt, 243
lifeworld, 222, 225
limitations of study, 43
line-by-line coding, 292–293 in vivo codes, 292–293
literature review, 36–39
in grounded theory, 189 mixed methods design, 279
practicalities, 39
in qualitative research, 37–39
lived experience, 219, 221, 222, 226, 230 logical behaviourism, 221
macro-ethnography, 171
macro/micro study, 5
Mapping the scene, 108
Marcel, Gabriel, 224
masters degrees, 79
materialism, 221
maximum variation sampling, 146
Mead, George Herbert, 25
Mead, Margaret, 153
meaning, 120
member checking, 311–313
member validation, 311
memoing, 288
analytic memos, 290
Merleau-Ponty, Maurice, 220, 224
method slurring, 17, 191, 228
Methodenstreit, 25
methodolatry, 16
methodological documents, 315 methodological transgression, 192 methodological triangulation, 280, 314 methodology, 21, 42–43, 328–339
data analysis see data analysis description and justification, 328 sample and setting, 328–329 techniques and procedures, 329 trustworthiness see trustworthiness methods, 21
micro-ethnography, 171–172
mind–body relationship, 221 mini-tour observation, 115 mini-tour questions, 91 mixed methodologies, 274 mixed methods research, 273–281
concurrent nested strategy, 278
current triangulation strategies, 277 critique, 280–281
doing, 275
literature review, 279–280
nature of, 273–274
pragmatism, 274–275
process, 278–279
sequential explanatory design, 276
sequential exploratory design, 277 sequential transformative/concurrent transformative design, 277 triangulation, 277
MPhil, 79
MSN Messenger, 102
mutual collaboration, 10 naming, 297
narrative analysis, 15, 210–213 dialogic/performance, 212 problems of, 213–214
structural, 211–212
themtic/holistic, 210–211
visual, 212–213
narrative inquiry see narrative analysis narrative interviewing, 208–209 narrative research, 200–204 health-related, 200–204 narratives, 199–200
authenticity, 310
autobiographical stories, 204–205
narratives (continued)
  biographical stories, 204–205
caregivers, 202
chaos, 207–208
cultural, 205
everyday, 204
illness, 205–207
truth of, 206, 209, 213
types of, 203–208
natural science model, 22–23
naturalistic sampling, 150 negative cases, 313
nested design, 278
nonmaleficence, 53
nomothetic methods, 25
non-Foucauldian discourse, 264
nonmaleficence, 53, 67, 69
note taking, 98
Nuremberg Code, 52
nurse ethnographers, 163

objectivity, 22–23, 307–308
observation, 57. see also participant observation observer effect see interviewer effect observers complete, 113
  as participants, 112–113
one-to-one interviews, 126 online research, 100–102 ontological authenticity, 310 ontology, 21
open coding, 293
open-archival documents, 119 open-published documents, 119 opportunistic sampling, 147. see also convenience (opportunistic) sampling ordering data, 291–292
organising data, 291–292, 297

paradigm shift, 24–25
paradigms, 22–25
interpretive/descriptive approach, 25–26

postmodernism and social constructionism, 26–27 paradigm wars, 21
participant information sheet, 60–62, 66 participant observation, 56–57, 107–108 and clinical practice, 107
ethical issues, 113–114
ethics checklist, 66–67
ethnographic studies, 168
examples, 110
grand-tour, 115
mini-tour, 115
origins of, 108
practical hints, 117–118
problems of, 116
process, 115–116
progression, 114–115
technical procedures, 117–118
types of, 111–113
  complete observer, 113
  complete participant, 112
  observer as participant, 113 participant as observer, 112–113 participants, 5, 6, 151
  complete, 112
  interviews, 98–99
  as observers, 112–113
participatory action research, 240, 245 patients
  narratives, 200–204
  research with, 55–57
peer interviews, 98–99
peer research, 62
peer review, 313–314
Peirce, Charles, 274
performance analysis, 212 performative social science, 265–266 personal response documents, 315 personhood, 223
PhD, 79
phenomenological analysis, 229 data collection and analysis, 232–235 phenomenological approach, 15 phenomenological interviews, 95 phenomenological reduction, 222
phenomenology, 17, 26, 219–235
data collection/analysis, 232–235 descriptive, 220, 230–232
Duquesne School, 225
Dutch school, 225
existentialist, 220
grounding, 226
and health research, 229–230
hermeneutic, 220
humanisation, 226–229
intentionality, 220–224
interpretive, 230–232
language of experience, 226–229
phases and history, 221–224
French phase, 224
German phase, 221–224
reflexivity and positional
knowledge, 226
schools of, 225
topics for research, 229–230 phenomenon, 15, 16, 26, 27, 87 pilot study, 88
planning, 246
position knowledge, 226
positivism, 22–23, 28
postmodernism, 26–27
practical knowledge, 242
pragmatism, 274–275
premature closure, 191, 294–295 presenting research, performance-based modes of, 266
primacy of data, 4
primary documents, 118
privacy, 54, 67
problem statement, 41
procedural ethics, 65
progressive focusing see funnelling proposition, 181, 187, 298 protocols, 234
pseudonym, 289, 291, 333 publishing/presenting, 335–338 alternative forms, 338
articles, 336–338
books, 336
purposeful (purposive) sampling, 143–145
analysis driven, 148
QDA see qualitative data analysis qualitative data analysis (QDA), 133, 287–288
collaboration, 295
descriptive/interpretive, 298 inferential leaps and ‘premature closure’, 294–295
language oriented, 298
theory building, 298
see also computer-aided data analysis qualitative inquiry, 4 qualitative interviewing, 95
qualitative research, 3–17 approach to, 26–27, 182, 184
definition of, 107, 108
features of, 3–10
immersion in setting, 5–6, 316 ontological position, 21–23 place of, 21–29
primacy of data, 4
problems of, 15–17
lack of methodological
knowledge, 15
method slurring, 17
methodolatry, 16
romanticism and ‘emotionalism’, 16–17
research relationship, 8, 26, 62–66
theoretical frameworks, 21–23
theory, 10–12
usefulness of, 12–14
quality, 303–308
and creativity, 316–317
external validity, 306–307
generalisability, 306–307
objectivity, 22–23, 307
reliability, 304–305
rigour, 304
validity, 248, 305–306
qualitative researchers, 35 sampling strategies of, 143
qualitative research
culture, 51
in healthcare, 12–14
vs. quantitative research, 11 quantitative research 11, 22, 24, 28, 34, 35, 143, 256, 341 quest narrative, 207–208
questions, 91–93
exploratory, 93
grand-tour, 91
mini-tour, 91
quotations
from interviews, 330–331
from literature, 331
rapport, 8, 63, 114
rationale, 40–41, 125, 279, 315, 322
reactivity, 45, 104, 311 real-life settings, 5
references, 44, 333
reflections, 332–333
reflexive validity, 248 reflexivity, 9–10, 226, 316, 332–333 relevance, 33, 305
reliability, 304–305
representativeness, 120
report format, 323
research accounts, 321–322 publishing and presenting, 335–338 see also writing up
research aim, 41–42
research design, 35–36, 328 research ethics committees (RECs), 46, 54, 65–69 reviewing research project, 66
Research Governance Framework for Health and Social Care, 54 research process, 31–48
research proposal, 39–45
abstract, 40
context and setting, 41
data analysis, 43
data collection, 32, 43
dissemination, 44–45
ethical/entry issues, 43
introduction, 40
limitations of study, 43
literature review, 36–39, 42
methodology, 16, 21, 42–43
problem statement and rationale, 40–41
references, 44
research aim, 41–42
resources, 42
sample selection, 43
structure of, 40
study design, 35–36, 42–43
timetable and costing, 44 working title, 40
research question, 31–37
feasibility, 44
interest, 34–35
practical issues, 35
relevance/appropriateness, 33–34
study design, 35–36
research relationship, 8, 62–63
resources, 42
respondents, 152
restitution narrative, 207 restricted documents, 119 results, 329–331
review of research projects, 66
ethics checklist
audiotaped interviews, 66–68
observation studies, 68–69
Ricoeur, Paul, 224
rigour, 304
romanticism, 16–17
safety of researchers, 68
sample, 128, 328–329
composition, 128–131
selection, 43
size, 128–131, 151–152
sampling, 141–153
chain referral, 147
convenience (opportunistic), 147 criterion-based, 141, 148 decisions, 141–143
deviant case, 149
extreme case selection, 149
heterogeneous, 146
homogeneous, 145–146
inclusion and exclusion criteria, 149–150 maximum variation, 147–148 parameters, 150
purposeful (purposive), 143–144 sample size, 151–152
snowball, 147
theoretical, 148, 183–185, 329
total population, 146–147 typical case selection, 149
unique cases, 149
Sartre, Jean-Paul, 220, 224
saturation, 150–151
semi-structured interviews, 90–91 sense of aliveness, 330
sequential explanatory design, 276
sequential exploratory design, 277 sequential transformative strategy, 277 serendipity, 116, 130
setting, 41, 328–329
  access and entry to, 45–46 choice of, 46
  ethnographic studies, 36, 150
  and focus, 109–111
  gatekeepers, 46–48
  immersion in, 108–109
sexually transmitted diseases, 147 shared ownership, 245 significant others, 181 significant statements, extraction of, 234
site selection, 150
skills learning, 247
snowball sampling, 147
social anthropology, 160–161 social constructionism, 26–27, 266 social context of interviews, 94–95 social critique, 10
social inquiry, 21, 29
social scientists, 21
sorting, 288–289
status passage, 190
story-telling, 199–200. see also narratives storyline, 34, 44, 134, 329–330
Strauss, Anselm, 179
structural analysis, 211–212 structured interviews, 91 students, responsibilities of, 74–77
study design, 35–36, 42
subjectivity, 28, 63, 307–308 subjects, 52, 200
supervision, 73–82
  academic problems, 81–82
  final notes, 82
  practical aspects, 77–78
  problems with, 80–81
  single vs joint, 79–80
  writing and relationships, 76–77 supervisors, 73
  relationships with, 76–77 responsibilities of, 74–76, 78
symbolic interactionism, 12, 179–181
table of contents, 327
tabula rasa, 98
tacit knowledge, 167, 257 tactical authenticity, 310 digital-recording interviews, 96–98 Tavistock Institute of Human Relations, 240
technical knowledge, 117
telephone interviews, 102
telephone numbers, 78
temporality, 223
thematic analysis, 210–211
  data analysis, 294
theoretical frameworks, 21–23
theoretical sampling, 148, 184–185, 329
theoretical saturation, 152, 185
theoretical sensitivity, 183–184
theoretical triangulation, 314 time, 184
timetable, 44
theory, 10–12
theory building, 257, 297, 298
time–practice gap, 242
thick description, 4, 7–8, 166, 213, 311, 315–316
  ethnographic studies, 170
thin description, 166
Thomas theorem, 186
thick description, 4, 7–8, 166, 213, 311, 315–316
  ethnographic studies, 170
thin description, 166
Thomas theorem, 186
time, 184
timetable, 44
title, 324
  working, 40
total population sampling, 146–147
transcription, 136, 288–289
  Jefferson system, 289
transferability, 304, 309
triangulation, 115, 280, 314–315
  between-method, 314
  concurrent, 277
data, 314
investigator, 314
methodological, 315
theoretical, 314
within-method, 315
trustworthiness, 303, 304, 309–310, 329
  strategies to ensure, 310–317 truth, 104, 206, 209, 213 intersubjective, 308
truth value, 303
typical case selection, 149
typology, 174, 293
understanding, 21, 25, 32, 126
unique cases, 149
units of meaning, 293
unsolicited diaries, 120 unstructured interviews, 88–90 validation, 311, 333
validity, 247, 305–306
  dialectical, 247
  external, 306–307
  internal, 305–306
  in qualitative research, 308
value neutrality, 22–23
veracity, 53
verification, 187, 193
Verstehen, 25
vertical passes, 291
videos, 121–122
visual analysis, 212–213
voluntary participation, 45, 57–59
Weber, Max, 25
Weber’s Verstehen approach, 25
‘what’ questions, 114
‘when’ questions, 115
‘where’ questions, 114
‘who’ questions, 113
‘why’ questions, 115
within-method triangulation, 103, 315
working title, 40
workplace research, 64
writing up, 67, 74, 76, 321–338
abstract, 40, 325–326
acknowledgement and
dedication, 323, 326–327
appendices, 333
conclusions and implications, 335 entry issues and ethical considerations, 323, 328
format of report, 323–324
introduction, 40, 327–328
methodology and research
design, 328–329
references, 44, 333
research account, 321–322 results and discussion, 329–330
table of contents, 323, 327
title, 324–325
use of first person, 322–323