Index

Akos, P. 68
ambiguity of becoming 45–9
  and continuity with change 45–6 and individuals with others 48–9 and openness with resistance 48 and possibilities with constraints 46–7 and relation to our world 44–5 anticipation and geographical/cultural origins 33 and learning 34–5
  mutual 34
  as openness 33
  pervasiveness of 34
  and removal from place 33, 34
  and self-development 33–5
Arendt, H. 1
Aristotle 57
Arowosafe, D. 68
Atwood, M. 13
Augustine, St 21–2
authenticity of authentic relations 61–2 and being-one’s-self 56 formation/dwelling 60–1 and freedom 58
  planning for 60
  of questioning/thinking 62–3 and teaching 58–9
Barad, K. 17, 20
being-human 55
  and authenticity 56–8
  care 55–6, 61
  comportment/directedness 56 concern 55
Blake, N. 25
Blanchot, M. 9–11, 13
Blyth, D. A. 68, 70
the body
  challenges to 17, 20
  and cognition 20–2
  and entwinement with our world 44–5 feminist turn 16–17
Freudian legacy 17–18
  and the gut 18–19, 24, 25
neurological aspects 18 phenomenological insights 20 role of 16
Bonnett, M. 43
Cauley, K. M. 77
Cavell, S. 36
Cixous, H. 12
Conroy, J. 47
conversation 7–8, 11–12
Cormack, P. 68, 69, 80
Cotterell, J. L. 69, 70
Cumming, J. 68, 69, 80
cyberspace
  as dark netherworld 8
  as Orphean 9–11
Dall’Alba, G. 20
Davies, B. 47
de-construction 54–5
Dennett, D. 20
departures
  and being ready to leave 35–6 and change/stability 36–8
  and self-development 35–8
Derrida, J. 4, 54
Descartes, R. 21–2
development 57–8
Dreyfus, H. 22–3, 24
dwelling 60–1
education
  and anticipation 39
  and conscious self 29
  and development of the individual 28, 39 and disturbance of self 28–9, 38–9 environmental concerns 29 ethical 62
  and focus on place 39
  as formation 56–7
  and idea of self 28
ontological dimensions 43–4 phenomenological interpretation of 64 and teacher-pupil relationship 39 and transformation of self 43–4 and unselving 39
formation
  as distinct from development 57–8 as interpretation of education 56–7 Freud, S. 17–18
Frost, R. 13
Gadamer, H.-G. 1
Gallagher, S. 20–1, 23
Giorgi, A. P. 68, 70, 71, 72
Gray, G. 48
Green, P. 68, 69, 70, 78
Grosz, E. 17, 45, 46

Hardy, T. 36
Hatton, E. 68, 70
Heidegger, M. 1, 24, 25, 36, 41, 42–4, 45, 47, 48
and authenticity 58–9, 60–3 phenomenology of 53–6
on teaching/learning 56–8 Hesse, H. 36
high school transition see transition into high school Hopkins, G. M., Binsey Poplars 29
Husserl, E. 1, 2, 71

Irvin, J. L. 68

Johnstone, K. 70
Jovanovich, D. 77

Kalantzis, M. 26
Kant, I. 36
Kerr, K. 70
Kiloh, B. 68
Kirby, V. 17, 20

learning
and anticipation 34–5
and being human 64
biological-symbolic interaction 22–3 and communication 64
and critical thinking 25
and education as formation 56–7 and embodiment 16, 20, 21, 23–4 and focus on the universal 34 formal-informal modes 23–5 as fragmented 35
and generic capabilities 25
and the gut 24, 25
and integration of knowing, acting, being 20, 21 and questioning 64
rational characterisations of 16 and sense making 24–5
and social norms/institutional rules 22–3 and thinking 64
and the whole person 26
Legters, N. 70

Martin, B. 26
Merleau-Ponty, M. 1, 23, 41, 44–5, 46, 71 mind-body 20–2
Mizelle, N. B. 68
Morris, G. 68

Oakeshott, M. 37
O’Donovan-Anderson, M. 24

Ong, W. 11
online technology 4–5
online writing see writing online ontology 43–4, 54

phenomenology contribution to education 1–3
de-construction 54–5
description 71
essences 71
intentionality 71
interest in 1
ontology 54
outline of 53–6
philosophy/methodology 70–1 primary characteristics of being-human 55–6 and psychology 71
reduction 71
Plato 28, 43, 57
potentiality for being 57, 58, 63 professional ways of being and ambiguity 45–9
and being-in-the-world 42 and being-possible/ability-to-be distinction 42 education programmes 41 knowledge/practice dichotomy 41 and knowledge/self integration 49 and ontological dimensions of education 43–4 and reconfiguring professional education 49–50 psychology 71
regional ontology 63
Ruyter, D. de 47

Sartre, J.-P. 1
Schutz, A. 1
self-consciousness 20–1 self-development
and anticipation 33–5, 39
and departures 35–8
and unselving 29–33
semiology 54
Simmons, R. G. 68, 70
Standish, P. 35–6
Sterling, B. 8, 9

teaching and authentic relations 61–2
and authenticity 58–9, 62
and dwelling 60–1
and education as formation 56–7
and planning 60
and questioning/thinking 62–3
Tesch, R. 71
Thomson, I. 42–3, 49–50
Thoreau, H., Walden 35 transition into high school 67–8, 73–7 and bullying 78–9
challenges 68–70
concept 66
confidence, success, achievement 75–6 curricular/academic 69
and friendship 77–8
geographical/physical 69–70 homework/assignments 69, 76, 80–1 new procedures, locations, routines 74–5 organisational 70
peer groups 68, 74
phenomenological research 71–3, 81 school support 73–4 teacher attitudes/abilities 76–7, 79–80 types of learning 75
and unselving 38–9

unselving
and Being 30–1
notion of 29–30
and place-making 30, 39 and points of transition 38–9 and prompts/claims 32, 38
and removal from place 31–2 schools as places of 38–9 and self-assurance/intelligibility 32–3 and selfhood 31

van Manen, M. 81

Wilson, E. 17–19, 20, 21, 24 writing and engagement 14
handwritten vs word-processed text 6–7 and knowing the reader 12 physiology of space 5–6 solitary dimension of 12 writing online and the act of beginning 13, 14 and being in the dark 13–14 editing/re-writing of 6, 7–8 effects of 4–5
as familiar/distant 7 and loss of intimacy 6
and making ‘mistakes’ 10–11 and the ‘other’ 11–13
as perfect/clean 6
and the spoken word 7–8, 11–12
and textual autonomy 7

Yates, L. 68